Watson - Vetzal Nuptials Happy Couple At King Exchange Vows

King City United Church, decorated with baskets of yellow and white chrysanthemums, was the setting for a double-ring wedding November 2, when William Robert Watson of King City took as his bride Anne Vetzal of Toronto, formerly of Saskatoon.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Watson of King City and the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Vetzal, who came from Saskatoon for the service conducted by the Rev. Martin Jenkinson.

A cousin of the groom, Miss Helen Hunter of Laskay, presided at the organ and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Frank Curtis of Kettleby.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a lovely long white tulle taffeta gown, the full skirt forming a slight train. Her finger-tip veil was caught to a bandeau and she carried a white Bible with tiny rosebuds, an orchid and dusters.

Mrs. Mary Dost of Ingersoll attended her cousin, wearing a royal blue dress with headband of cocoa brown feathers and carrying a nosegay of roses and chrysanthemums. The groom's best man and ushers were another cousin, Mr. Marvin Hunter of Laskay, and the bride's brother, Mr. Roy Vetzal of Agincourt.

The bride's mother was dressed in pink and blue shot taffeta with rose-colored hat and gloves and corsage of roses and chrysanthemums. The groom's mother had chosen a teal blue crepe dress with matching hat, white gloves, and corsage of roses and chrysanthemums.

Following the 3 o'clock ceremony the 90 guests mingled outside on the church lawn and took photographs in the mild autumn weather.

Guests were received upstairs by the bride party, then served a turkey dinner in the church hall, the catering arranged by the Woman's Association. A telegram of congratulations was read from the bride's mother, Mr. Alex Vetzal and Mrs. Vetzal from Regina.

It is hoped the enlargement of the chapel will be finished in time for the bazaar. The money raised will go for further work on the church and W.A. funds.

He commutes to his job from Toronto.

Children of Oak Ridges
Children of Oak Ridges who have been taking piano lessons from Miss Talman of Toronto are sorry that she cannot make the long trip from Toronto to Oak Ridges from now on and will miss her a great deal, but they have found a new teacher in Aurora. Her name is Mrs. Mas-Maskell, who with her husband and four children recently moved to Aurora from Manitoba.

Legion
About 50 invitations are being sent to men who have joined the Legion in hopes of forming a branch in Oak Ridges. The meeting will take place at the Ridge Inn on Thursday, November 21. Members are asked to bring their wives and any former servicemen or women who have not been signed as members are invited to attend. Refreshments will be served and it is hoped for a large turnout so the legion will be able to get a good start and begin their services to the community in January.

Drum-shaped shades were featured. Beginning with top and bottom rings purchased from Eaton's the members learned to make their own patterns. With the use of cardboard, burlap or material, and decorative finger-painting, members produced a variety of styles, all held together with glue. Two more local lessons are planned for succeeding Thursdays, November 21 and 28.

It's soon time for the third Child Health Centre in King City. Members of the sponsoring organization, King City Women's Institute, will assist with records and weighing children. Not many clinics are held in surroundings as appealing to youngsters as this one, since it is where Springhill Nursery School is held five mornings a week.

For the bird-watchers, there are downy woodpeckers on North Keele St. near King City School and on King St. in front of the United Church. Its not too early to put suet and sunflower seeds at feeding stations. Mrs. A. E. Kelley reports several bluejays and one cardinal stopping regularly beside her house.

Watermain Burst
King City Public School children had an impromptu holiday on November 5 when a burst watermain deprived them of water. The 180 pupils were dismissed after an hour in the morning when drinking fountains and washrooms lacked water.

A block such a six inch main by the side of Keele St. burst in front of Mr. James McCoppen's house "for no good reason," according to Water Commissioner Ronald Bolton, who estimated $100 repairs. Only a few households on North Keele St. and in Heritage Park had to manage without water for about three hours.

While transportation was being arranged for a dozen senior pupils from Laskay and Strange, they elected to walk the 2 1/2 to 3 miles home.

Robert Veltheer Rescued Monday

Nation-wide news of the rescue Monday of stranded mountain climber, 19-year-old Robert Veltheer, in British Columbia, brought relief and happiness to his family in King City.

The former assistant scoutmaster from King City, who has been doing nickel mining work in Hope, British Columbia, attempted a long-felt desire to mountain climb that almost brought disastrous results. He was climbing Mount Hope, when he slipped down a ravine last Saturday night and spent two nights in rain and cold, stranded on a ledge 2,000 feet above ground level.

In the fall the glasses he needed for astigmatism were broken and his handicapped vision hampered his efforts. Monday word finally flashed across Canada reaching his anxious relatives, that a rescue team of six Vancouver mountain climbers had reached him after previous rescue attempts had failed.

When he was finally brought down safely, Robert was taken to Hope infirmary where his condition was reported "good", although he was suffering from "exposure, exhaustion and bruises."

Mr. and Mrs. John Veltheer of Melrose St., Kingsview Subdivision, in King City, with their other children, 15-year-old Peter, 12-year-old John, and five-year-old Mary Elizabeth, eagerly followed every scrap of news about their oldest son, who turned 19 last June after graduating from fifth form at Aurora and District High School.

"As long as I can remember it has been his ambition to climb mountains, though he never tried it before this," Mrs. Veltheer told The Liberal, with a trace of her Irish brogue, about him because a few weeks ago he just got over a terrible case of flu. He had pneumonia when he was ten. He badly needed his glasses. Without them he gets very tired.

Mrs. Veltheer said there was hardly a part of Canada her eldest son had not visited. Born in Canada of Dutch and Irish parents, he enjoyed camping holidays and had been a Cub and Scout. With his family he had visited Ireland, England and Holland.

Since the summer Robert has been doing mining work to earn experience and money before entering the University of Toronto, his goal to become a mining engineer.

He found, too, the western climate brought more relief to his hay fever than living in Ontario did. Before moving to King City three years ago, the family lived in Oakville. They were expecting him to be home for Christmas.

Crossley Family Mourns Brother

A private family funeral service was held at the Keele St. home of Miss Maud Crossley for her brother, Hugh DeWitt Crossley, who died at Sunnybrook Hospital, Toronto, on Sunday, October 27.

Mr. Crossley enlisted from Montreal and was overseas four years in the First World War. In the Second World War he again joined the army and was stationed in Toronto. In poor health, he had been in Sunnybrook Hospital several times.

The funeral service, followed by interment in King City Cemetery was not far from the Langdon house where he was born. He attended Aurora High School then Harbord Collegiate.

The bachelor brother, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Crossley, is survived by Miss M. Crossley of King City; Mrs. C. T. Ward (Charlotte) of Toronto; and Mr. Dean Crossley of Regina, who came for the service.

Plans for the new Dream House seem to be complete. But there is one important thing missing — a guaranteed arrangement for the repayment of the mortgage in full in the event of the breadwinner's death. For information on how mortgage redemption insurance will increase the security of your family, contact Gerald O'Connell of The Manufacturers Life Insurance Company at 180 Romac Court, Richmond Hill, Ont., or telephone TU. 4-3550 or EM. 4-1314.
