Hear Of Work Of The Disabled

The Kinette Club of Richmond Hill was represented at the annual dinner meeting of the Rehabilitation Foundation for Polio-mylitics and the Orthopaedically Disabled by President Muriel Flagle, Past-President Iva White, Past-Secretary Mary Neal, and Treasurer Laurie Gemmill.

This was the first time that the foundation has invited representatives of community committees to the annual meeting. In view of the fact that March of Dimes services have been expanding so rapidly in recent years, it was thought essential that those who represent the foundation throughout the province be told the full extent of the problem of rehabilitation of physically handicapped adults, also what plans the March of Dimes is making to solve this problem.

The principal speaker of the evening was Mr. Henry Viscardi, Jr., President of Disabilities, Inc., New York, who, during the course of his inspiring talk and the relating of his experience, moved his hearers from "laughter to tears." The speaker, himself, was born without his lower limbs, and the corporation is staffed by partially disabled workers who manufacture orthopaedic appliances that are shipped to various parts of the world. It was of great interest to learn that Mr. Viscardi has already made plans for the establishment of a Canadian factory to operate on similar lines to the New York plant, and will be located in York County.

...so both are borrowing from a bank

When borrowing is sound business practice, it is a simple, straightforward process to arrange a loan from a chartered bank. Every day, in every part of Canada, the chartered banks are lending money to farmers, fishermen, producers, manufacturers, processors and other commercial customers, large and small...to meet pay-rolls, buy raw materials, market goods and meet a multitude of financial needs. A bank manager is constantly on the lookout for opportunities to make such loans—that's his job. Bank loans are an essential part of the process that provides the goods and services that make life better for all Canadians.

Sister Catherine of St. Justine's Hospital in Montreal called local sources for rare antidote required by doctor—then called Poison Control Centre of New York for emergency shipment.

Hasty phone call held New York-Montreal flight piloted by Captain Paul Abel. Stewardess Patricia Repoli received vial of rare anti-poison from New York Health Department worker.

Doctor at Montreal's St. Justine's Hospital helped save Ron Tisdale's life with Megimide—powerful new anti-poison which was finally located in New York.

Louise Larocque, Long Distance operator in Montreal handled crucial call to New York—one of countless telephone people who work behind the scenes in emergencies day and night.

To save his life...

A boy's life hung in the balance—four-year-old Ron Tisdale of Montreal. Ron had swallowed a quantity of sleeping pills. Now he was in a coma. His breathing had stopped.

At St. Justine's Hospital, Ron was put into a resuscitator. His stomach was pumped out. He was given every anti-poison available. Still alive, he remained in a deep coma. It was feared that at any moment his life might flicker out.

At the Hospital, the doctor remembered reading about a powerful new anti-poison—Megimide. But where could it be obtained? Sister Catherine of St. Justine's, after trying several local calls, finally telephoned the Poison Control Centre of New York City. Did they have any? Yes—one half ounce, recently received from Britain.

At that very moment, an Eastern Air Lines plane was ready for its 11:45 takeoff for Montreal from New York. Another phone call, and considerate airline officials agreed to hold it; its passengers voted unanimously to wait. A car raced to the field, and a Health Department worker handed the precious vial to the stewardess. In a short while, a waiting car rushed the Megimide to St. Justine's and little Ron Tisdale was soon out of danger.

The world-renowned New York Times chose to tell in detail on its editorial pages this dramatic story. For what a story of human helpfulness this is—of people using telephones, airplanes and automobiles—placing before all else their determination to help save that most precious thing... a human life.

We also like to think that this incident demonstrates how people turn to their telephone in times of urgent need. Fast and dependable, it stands ready to serve you too—at any hour of the day or night.
