King City Notes

Incorporation Hearing
High spot of the coming week for residents of King City and surrounding area will be the official hearing to be held by Ontario Municipal Board representatives in the Keele St. Fire Hall on Thursday, October 23.

All persons interested in the support of or in opposition to the application for incorporation of the district are invited to attend the meeting, which begins at ten a.m.

The official hearing is the culmination of months of working toward incorporation by the three village trustees, Donald Findlay, Ronald Bolton and John Dew. Opposition to the plan was launched late in August, spearheaded by William Barker, in the form of a public petition gathering over 250 names.

Representations from both parties will be heard at the public session, when it is expected King Township Council will declare its position on the proposed annexation of about 1,360 acres surrounding the police village.

Should the village become "The Corporation of the Village of King City," it could take in 1,720 acres, as asked by those seeking incorporation. Present police village is about 360 acres.

King City W.I.
Fire Chief David Glass showed films on "Fire Prevention" at this week's meeting of King City Women's Institute held, appropriately, in the Fire Hall.

Strange W.M.S.
The final meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Strange, W.M.S. at the church before transferring to King City, will be the Thankoffering meeting on October 22.

Mrs. W. E. Berry, from Woodbridge, rural vice-president of West Toronto Presbyterian W.M.S. will be speaker and guests will be St. Andrew's congregation members and W.M.S. representatives from Nobleton, Eversley, Woodbridge and Maple.

Damp, dull weather made not the slightest difference to the success of Kingcrafts biennial sale of work. Before opening time, 10:30 a.m. Wednesday last week at Kingcrafts House, a line of eager shoppers had formed outside.

Next day the convenors met to count receipts and estimated by the time expenses were paid, a profit of about $2,000 would be shown. The proceeds are intended for maintenance of Kingcrafts House and to further crafts, possibly by hiring instructors, from an educational fund.

Township Constable Harold Russell was kept busy directing traffic along Keele St. and over on Park Road attendants placed cars. An estimated 800 people, many of them from Toronto, Brampton and Georgetown, found solutions to their Christmas gift lists in the attractive array of original handicrafts.

Mrs. Robert Borden had paper shopping bags ready for the customers, who were greeted by general convenor Lady Flavell, assistant convenor Mrs. J. R. Dawkins, and Kingcrafts president Mrs. James Baxter.

Instead of having tables filled with the same items, Mrs. John Aird had varied the handicraft work in interesting and eye-catching displays. Assisting in arranging the tables were Mrs. H. W. Weis and Mrs. Ernest Rolph.

At three p.m. Mrs. Edward Kernehan made the draw for prizes contributed by each Kingcraft group. Mrs. Herbert E. Wilson won the rug made by the hooking group; Mrs. G. H. Bye of Richmond Hill, the oil painting; Miss Glenna Sawyer of King, a leather purse; Miss Georgina May of Burlington, ceramic lamp; Mr. Walter Mott of Toronto, a wall ing Group is expecting to demonstrate its work to a visiting group from the Canadian Handicrafts Guild.

Warm Children
Teachers at King City Public School have been cautioning their pupils against accepting any car rides with strangers, following a rumour concerning a child being offered a ride.

Neither Principal Carson Bice nor Vondorf Detachment, Ontario Provincial Police, were able to track down origin of the rumour, but they agreed children should be warned by teachers and parents. In the past year there were two incidents, in which unknown drivers tried to pick up local school children.

New Guides
Proud mothers will be attending tonight's "flying-up" ceremony in King City United Church Hall when older Brownies receive their wings pin and become Guides.

Plan Supper
Mrs. Stan Roots of the Third Concession Line will be hostess October 27 to members of King City Firemen's Women's Association, when final plans are made for their annual turkey supper November 11 in King City United Church Hall. Catering is being limited to 200 this year.

Flourishing Match
Nobleton Women's Institute will be catering for lunch and the

Oak Ridges, Lake Wilcox Socials

Eight members of St. Paul's United Church attended lectures at the Five Oaks Christian Workers' Centre, near Paris, Ontario, recently. Mr. John McLennan, Stan Williams, Mrs. Francis Smith, Ray Woolley, Ellen Rowe, Ellen Gallacher, Garry Smith and Sylvia Shuster, with members from other United Churches from all parts of Ontario went through a strenuous week end of lectures and lessons. The director at Five Oaks is Rev. Bev. Oaten, who is assisted by Rev. James Bone. Also directing was Rev. William Smith of Woodgreen Church, Toronto.

A feature of the centre is that every three hours a bell rings to summon everyone to worship, then a short message is sent out over the school's P.A. system. Five Oaks is the United Church's training centre for church workers.

Choir
St. Paul's senior choir under the direction of Mrs. Joy Harnden travelled to Utica two weeks ago to sing at a church anniversary service conducted by Cliff Lacey, a former member of St. Paul's and now a student minister. Mrs. Ross Love and Mrs. Betty Farquharson were soloists.

The building known as the Penny Arcade on Yonge St. and King Side Road, Oak Ridges is being completely remodelled into a 5c to $1.00 store. New owners of the building are Albert and Owen Barr, a father-son contract builders' team for over 30 years, Aurora.

Legion
A meeting of the Oak Ridges Legion Branch was held Thursday evening. Zone Commander Flood and Mr. Hulse of Aurora were guests. Elections for next term's officers were held and resulted as follows: past president, Ivor Williams; president, George Windsor; 1st vice president, Henry Belenger; 2nd vice president, Stan McCombe; treasurer, Jack Atkinson; service officer, John Shearer; sergeant-at-arms, Roy Weaving; executive, Charlie Swan, George Marr, Sid Lewis, Russ Andrus and Frank Killeck. Rev. Gordon Winch will be the padre for another year. Installation of the officers and executive will be held next month.

A church parade will be held on Sunday, November 9, at St. Paul's church at the morning service.

A great deal of progress is being made on the Legion Hall on the King Sideroad and opening ceremonies are expected to be held in the near future.

Passes Course
Miss Edythe Longhurst, a young Oak Ridges girl has successfully passed her certification course in nursing at 67 College St. West and is now a nursing assistant at York County Hospital. Edythe is a former pupil of the Oak Ridges Public School and Aurora High School. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Longhurst, Maple Grove Ave.

All mothers of Scouts, Guides, Cubs and Brownies are extended a special invitation to attend an auxiliary meeting on Thursday October 16, at the home of Mrs. G. Rowe, Elm Grove Ave. Elections for the next year's officers and executive will be held, plans for apple day will also be made.

Many local organizations were represented at a meeting held in Thornhaven School for Retarded Children last Wednesday. Among those present were Mrs. J. Smith, Home and School president, Mrs. G. Rowe, Scout and Cub Auxiliary; Mr. I. Williams and Mrs. R. McFadden, Legion Branch 570; Rev. G. Winch and Mrs. W. Geary, Lions Club. Everyone was impressed by the wonderful job this school has been doing for the children and were anxious to aid in any way they could to help build a much needed larger school.

The Oak Ridges Scouts and Cubs will hold Apple Day on October 18. The depot for the boys will be at Mr. Stan Rule's home, Elm Grove Ave. Everyone is asked to support the scouts and cubs as the money raised goes to furference of the Canadian Cancer Society, Ontario Division, a few days ago in Toronto, at Lord Simcoe Hotel.

Representatives from units all over the province learned latest developments in the field of voluntary service to aid cancer patients. Volunteers can help at the cancer clinic, welcoming patients arriving for treatment. They can visit patients in hospital or at home. They can provide and wrap gifts to be distributed in hospitals or homes.

Volunteers frequently are needed to drive patients to hospitals or clinics or to take patients on pleasant outings.

By keeping in constant touch with the Ontario Society, individual units learn how leisure time can be used to the best advantage in aiding patients.

King City workers were told recently one of the important ways they can help is through spreading information about cancer.

Lions Auction
King Township's Chief Constable Harold Russell is undertaking the role of auctioneer for King City Lions Club annual auction this Saturday afternoon in the Park Pavilion. Members are hoping the daytime hours will be more convenient for a larger crowd to attend.

Proceeds will further local Lions work, which is mainly sponsoring sports for boys and girls the year round.

Handicrafts Guild
During recent elections of the Canadian Handicrafts Guild, Lady Flavell was named a member of the advisory board. The Guild has been discussing providing a scholarship for a crafts student, this year.

Turkey Draw
King Kindergarten mothers raised $134.25 to offset cost of the kindergarten in All Saints' Church Parish Room, through tickets sold on half a dozen Thanksgiving turkeys.

Winning the birds in time for Thanksgiving dinner were W. R. Kinneer of Aurora; Mrs. George Bodt, Mrs. N. J. Coe, Mrs. Dora Tansley, Mrs. E. B. Phair and Keith Cambden, all of King. Winning tickets were drawn last week by the advisor to the kindergarten's mothers' committee, Mrs. Bruce Kinneer.

King City's Guides and Brownies have reached an all-time high enrolment of 80, with 22 in the Guide Company, 33 Brownies in the Wednesday afternoon pack, and 25 enrolled in the Brownie pack meeting Thursday evenings.

To help activities of their Guide and Brownie daughters, the Mothers' Auxiliary has decided to meet every month, instead of two or three times a year as they have been doing.

A dozen mothers and seven leaders, who met recently in King City United Church, decided to meet the first Thursday each month after the Brownies' hour in the church basement. For the November 6 meeting, Mrs. Ralph Loney, Mrs. William Derrick and Mrs. Bruce Hall are preparing a slate of officers, on which members will vote.

Several volunteers have offered to help Guide and Brownie leaders this season in coping with the larger group groups. Mrs. Jack Cargill and Mrs. John Whalley have been helping Mrs. Donald Dixon with the Wednesday Brownies. Further assistance has been offered by Mrs. Robert Walker, Mrs. Kenneth Lawson, Mrs. W. B. Angliss and Mrs. J. H. Evans.

Mrs. H. Goulding, leader of the evening Brownies, is being helped by Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Church and Mrs. Roberts. The new lieutenant for the Guide Company, working with Mrs. Donald Laing, is Mrs. Peter Hunt.

Church Changes
Service times are reversed at All Saints' Anglican Church. Sunday morning worship is now at 10 a.m., followed by Sunday School at 11.

Health Clinic
Next Tuesday afternoon the regular monthly Child Health Centre will be held in King Memorial Library.

Kingcrafts Auctions
The slate of officers will be presented at Kingcrafts eighth annual meeting next Wednesday afternoon.

It's time for Scout Apple Day again. On Saturday, October 18, Scouts and Cubs of the village district, armed with baskets of well-polished MacIntoshes, will be calling at the households.

There will be plenty of enthusiastic young salesmen, since the First King Scout Troop Group committee reports there are 30 more lads in uniform this year than last.

When 10 of the fathers met in All Saints' Parish Room last week, under the chairmanship of Mr. James Flucker, they learned King City district now has 31 Scouts and 68 Cubs.

Seven of the lads have started off the season as Scouts, graduating from the Cub rank. Peter Brooks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stan Roots; Bernie Weyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burt Weyer; Paul Rumble, son of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Rumble; Douglas Parsons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Parsons; George Loney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Loney; Barry Sawyer, son of Dr. and Mrs. Glen Sawyer; and Ronald McDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. George McDonald.

Residuals Move
A King Sideroad farm in the Follitt family more than 100 years has been sold to Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Harron of Downsview.

Mr. Albert Follitt was born on the farm he and Mrs. Follitt will soon be leaving when they decide where to live. Mr. Harron owns a second farm across the Sideroad.

Mr. Jack Cliff reports another local property changing ownership. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Trull of Kingsview Subdivision will be moving with their four children to their new house in Streetsville to Mr. and Mrs. Stephens of Mimico. The Stephens have a son and daughter and Mr. Stephens is employed by Drug Trading Company in Aurora.

Report On Biennial Conference

A personal report from the Ottawa biennial conference of the General Council of the United Church of Canada has been given to "The Liberal" by the district's local delegate, Rev. M. R. Jenkinson of King City.

"I admire the new Moderator, Rev. A. J. McQueen, who was chosen by ballot," commented Mr. Jenkinson. "He is a man of great ability, with a delightful sense of humour and a very gracious manner". The new Moderator for Canada is minister of First United Church in London.

During the ten-day conference in Chalmers United Church, Mr. Jenkinson said 1,500 people heard Canada's Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, who claimed, "Canada has set an example for the world in its rejection of the non-Christian theory of race superiority".

The Prime Minister stated, "Canada has learned from experience the need for racial and religious tolerance, without which this nation could not have come into being. "Canada's theory of granting equal rights regardless of race and color could be a powerful free-world weapon in the fight against Communism. This is Canada's message to mankind."

Mr. Diefenbaker went on, "In the face of all the means the free world has tried since 1945 with little or no success, it must try God's will to a greater extent than ever before. Racial tolerance is one way it can be manifested."

He suggested, "The assistance in raising living standards in other parts of the world is another way. In the contest for peaceful and happier world, as citizens and as nations, we must be guided by the fundamental principles of the Christian church."

The Prime Minister stressed, "To achieve this peace we must practise within our nation the principles which we expound internationally."

In Canada he wanted to see "a renewed sense of national spiritual education and the realization that except the Lord build the house, they labour in vain who build it."

Mr. Diefenbaker looked to the provision of a room for prayer in the Parliament Buildings, similar to that established by the United States Congress in 1955.

At another conference session, the immediate past Moderator, Rev. James Sutherland Thomson, Principal of the United Theological College in Montreal spoke on church union with Anglicans and Presbyterians.

Though Mr. Thomson admitted attempts of union had "struck a dull" he said he "wasn't despondent nor pessimistic about future possibilities."

Mr. Thomson urged, "We recognize each other as acknowledging one Lord; let us accept one law; teach one way and gather around one table. I lament and deplore that the church presents a broken front to the world."

The retiring Moderator contended, "The world is weary of our disputations about authentic ministries and ecclesiastical authority. Men are disdainful and contemptuous of exclusive spiritual virtue. The elimination of these religious road blocks to union must begin with the people of the church."

He believed "the back to the church movement is not the result of high-pressure methods of religious salesmanship. People are feeling the need for God for the kind of association, for which the contemporary world has little or nothing to provide. The old prayer meeting needs to be restored in a new and revitalized form."

Mr. Thomson felt congregations wanted teaching about doctrines rooted in Bible and made relevant to life. "People are weary of exhortation of the endless discussion of problems. A scolding remonstrance at the wickedness of the world is a poor substitute for the Bible," he maintained.

He described touring Canada, Trinidad and Scotland as a delegate and visiting schools and colleges.

Population Peril
The conference was addressed by Dr. Fagley, executive secretary of the Commission of Churches on International Affairs, whose theme was "The Church's Task in a Divided World".

Dr. Fagley warned that population, rather than an atomic explosion, was the greatest danger facing the Christian civilization. He urged the establishment of a world police force under the United Nations for use in the world's trouble spots.

The speaker wanted continued cultural contacts among nations. He asked the audience to encourage qualified people with Christian vocations to utilize their talents and efforts in development work.

Dr. Fagley noted, through scientific advancement the death rate has been reduced, so that by the end of the century the population of developed countries will increase 64 per cent, while in under-developed countries, it will increase 168 per cent.

He observed the world can support greater population through greater agricultural development and the cultivation of previously unexplored resources, primarily in the sea.

This development needs time and money which these countries cannot afford. As a result, the major increase in food production has been in North America which needs it least.
