Harvest Festival

St. John's Anglican Church was ablaze with color Sunday morning as the congregation met to observe the Harvest Festival. St. John's is one of the oldest and loveliest churches in the district. The sun, streaming through the beautiful stained glass windows, was a fitting background for the sprays of coloured leaves and bouquets of autumn flowers placed on the window sills. Blue and green grapes vied with polished red apples to catch one's eye. The pulpit was hung with branches of red crabapples nestled among green leaves, and the harvest of the field was evident in the colourful vegetables mounded on the chancel steps. The Communion Table was beautiful in the simplicity of crimson carnations against a background of mahogany leaves. Sheaves of golden grain reminded us anew of the bounty the Lord has bestowed on this land of ours.

The service was in charge of the Rector, Rev. D. C. H. Michell, who led the worshippers in Prayers of thanksgiving and an inspiring sermon was preached by the Venerable H. D. Cleverdon, Archdeacon of Scarborough. The theme of the sermon was — as we cultivate the land to reap a harvest, so we must cultivate our hearts to receive God and so reap the joy of Eternal life. It was with a feeling of hope renewed that the congregation left the church to greet their neighbours and renew old acquaintances.

Prayer Service
A short Prayer Service was held at St. John's Sunday evening after which the congregation enjoyed two films in the parish hall. The films, put out by the British and Foreign Bible Society showed how the word of God is carried to the Mission Fields. It was most interesting to learn how the Bible was translated into the language of the Australian Aborigines, and the different dialects spoken in the South Sea Islands. The second film showed how the Bible is brought to the homes of many of our pioneers in remote areas of Western Canada. A cup of tea was served during the social hour which followed.

It is a privilege to have these films made available to us, and we hope the next time they are presented there will be a larger audience to enjoy them.

Plaque Unveiled
A strong link with the past was forged last Sunday afternoon on the grounds of St. John's Anglican Church, Jefferson. A plaque, to the memory of the de Puisaye Settlement was unveiled in an impressive ceremony. The master of ceremonies was Mr. A. G. Clarry of the York County Historical Society. Prof. J. M. S. Careless, University of Toronto, speaking on behalf of the Archaeological and Historic Sites Board, remarked that by placing the Plaques throughout the Province, we are assured that these spots will remain free forever from the encroachment of commercialization. Short addresses by Dr. W. J. Dunlop, Minister of Education, and Mr. A. A. Mackenzie, M.P.P., was followed by a charmingly delivered speech by the French Consul-general, M. Jules Beaudroy. He recalled how these noblemen, driven from their homeland by a bloody revolution, had transferred their loyalty to the English King and offered to form a settlement in the new world. It was hard to picture, standing on that windy knoll with the sound of modern day traffic in our ears, that barely one hundred and sixty years ago the very spot on which we were standing was covered by stands of virgin timber, while busy Yonge street was a mere Indian trail. Mr. Beaudroy also recalled that one of the de Puisaye settlers was one Count Chalus, whose castle in Normandy, the Chateau de Chalus was where King Richard the Lion-hearted met his death while returning to England from the Crusades.

After a short prayer led by Rev. D. C. H. Michell, rector at St. John's, the Plaque was unveiled by Mrs. S. C. Snively, Glen Lonely, Wilcox Lake and Dr. Dunlop. The dedication by Ven. H. D. Cleverdon, Archdeacon of Scarborough, followed by the singing of the National Anthem brought the ceremonies to a close. Several of those present then wandered through the little graveyard at the rear of the church, where the remains of Mr. Quetton St. George, son of one of these settlers, lies buried. Mr. St. George was owner of a large tract of land near Wilcox Lake to which his lonely chattelaine gave the name Glen Lonely.

Socials
Mrs. E. Ensor was a special guest at the Scout meeting at Jefferson school last Thursday evening when five boys received their Leaping Wolf Badges.
