

Concord Notes

Tuesday, November 24, saw about a dozen people turn out to Concord Public School to hear a very interesting talk by Mr. W. Kedwell, Buttonville. His words did not fall on deaf ears for each person present was a volunteer canvasser for the School for Retarded Children building fund. The campaign has been a success so far as Concord is concerned, everyone giving a little, some giving a lot.

Voting
Congratulations from Concord to Reeve John Perry on his re-election to office. A tea was held for Mr. Perry on Wednesday, November 25, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Orr, with about ten ladies (and many small non-voting children) present. Many issues were discussed including house numbers in the subdivision and speed limit on subdivision roads. Attending the tea were Mrs. H. Medensky, Mrs. Ted Fawbert, Mrs. H. Kentner, Mrs. J. Bate-man, Mrs. R. Haines, Mrs. J. Higginson, Mrs. J. Baron, Mrs. A. Whaley, Mrs. D. Keffer and of course Mr. and Mrs. Perry and Mrs. Orr.

Voting in Concord was very light with less than half the voters turning out. People must realize that whether we are asked to elect one man or a dozen, the right to vote is a privilege we should cherish.

If this franchise were denied to those who failed to exercise it, maybe then they would appreciate it a little more.

Socials
On Saturday, November 29, Judy Hallawell celebrated her birthday (a little early) by treating herself and Carole Keffer to a movie in the afternoon, dinner and skating in the evening.

A strange procession was seen on Garden Avenue Sunday afternoon. Leading the parade was Mr. Oman Boves with his garden tractor. His "following" consisted of two toboggans tied behind the tractor, each one carrying two children, Lorna and Barbie Madill, Gail Miller and Heather Keffer. Riding up front with Grandpa was Stevie McLean. This little escapade makes Mr. Boves the biggest hero since Santa Claus.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Williams had Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Orr.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. W. Oster on the recent arrival of their son.

Announce Dial Service For Maple Nov. 1, 1959

Telephone subscribers in Maple will have dial service on November 1, 1959, J. C. Garside, Bell Telephone manager or this territory, announced this week.

Work will start early in the New Year on construction of a one-storey brick building, on the Maple Sideroad, to house the necessary equipment.

"Completion of this project will mark the passing of the old-style crank telephone in this area," said Mr. Garside. "The new dial equipment will provide facilities for 1,500 customers. This might seem like an optimistic figure at first glance, for now we have 516 customers in the exchange area. But indications are that 1959 will see the beginning of a major period of growth in Maple."

"The building itself, styled along traditional lines, is designed to accommodate 2,500 telephone terminals, each representing a telephone number. Mr. Garside pointed out. "The initial dial equipment will be able to meet the demand of a growing community for the next three or four years."

When dial service begins, next November, telephone subscribers will have new numbers prefixed by the new exchange name —

"Alpine". In addition to free calling with Thornhill and Richmond Hill, they will also be able to make toll-free calls to King. This change will not affect rates.

Completion of the new building is scheduled for June, and installation of the dial equipment will begin the following month and will be completed in October. Telephone workers will visit subscribers to instal dial telephone instruments between July and October.

New Books For Children at Maple Public Library

by Mrs. Muriel Meikle

Long winter evenings are here once more and we are happy to settle down at home with hobby crafts and "a good book to read."

To prepare for this Mrs. Kingsburgh, librarian of Maple Public Library has ordered almost $200. worth of books for both children and adults. The children's books have all arrived and here is a list of some of those.

For hobby minded girls there is a fascinating group of books, "Judy's Cookery Book", "Judy's Book of Sewing and Knitting" and the "Girl's Handicraft Book".

Christmas parties are in the offing and "Judy's Book of Parties" and "Let's Do Some Acting", should help with these. New books by authors who have already proved popular with the Maple children have been added to the list; among these are Esme Hamilton's two horse stories, "Starlight" and "The Heavenly Carthorse" and Enid Blyton's two volumes of "Adventures on Willow Farm". "Animal Lovers' Book" also by Enid Blyton, should delight nature lovers. These charming stories are illustrated by accurate drawings of animal life. "A Doctor Alone", the biography of the first woman doctor, Elizabeth Blackwell, should be an inspiration to ambitious girls.

Both boys and girls like books of mystery and adventure, preferably those set in strange and distant lands. "The Golden Impala" by Pamela Ropner is a tale of intrigue set in Africa and Mabel Allan's "Black Forest Summer" tells of mystery in Germany. The titles, "Burglars and Bandits" and "Scotland Yard Adventures" speak for themselves. Nicholas Montserrat, author of the "Cruel Sea" gives us "The Boys' Book of the Sea" and Maurice Collins gives us a biography of that intrepid explorer, "Marco Polo". And for these modern everyday explorers, the scouts, there is "Outdoor Games For Scouts."

Next week we'll give you a list of new books for adults.

Sixty-five dollars was collected for the Springhill Disaster Fund at the library.

Miss M. L. Naughton, Elgin Mills Dies Following Lengthy Illness

Following a lengthy illness, which confined her to her bed for the past eight years, Mary Louise Naughton, daughter of John and Margaret Naughton, passed away at the family residence, Naughton Drive, Elgin Mills, on Sunday, November 30, 1958.

The late Miss Naughton was born in the old Naughton farmhouse at Elgin Mills; later this house burned to the ground and John Naughton, who originally came from Limerick, Ireland and his wife, the former Margaret Claffey of Markham Township, built the present Naughton home on the same farm land—now known as Naughton Drive. Miss Mary Louise, her brother Harry and their sister Nellie, who never married, have lived in this house ever since.

Educated at Jefferson and the Richmond Hill Public Schools, Miss Naughton later attended Richmond Hill High School and the Central Business College. She also studied French and music extensively at the old Loretta Abbey on Bond St., Toronto. Following graduation Miss Naughton became private secretary to the late Richard (Dick) Greer, Crown Attorney, until she succumbed to crippling arthritis which eventually confined her to her home. Even during the long years of suffering, Miss Naughton's brilliant mind and love for those around her, made the Naughton home a place of quiet family life and blessedness, such as is seldom seen or heard of in this fast-moving restless age.

The Liberal joins with her bereaved family and the community in mourning the passing of this gracious woman and extends deepest sympathy to her brother and sister who survive.

Miss Mary Louise Naughton rested at her home until Wednesday morning, when she was borne to her parish church, St. Mary's Roman Catholic, Richmond Hill, where the Rev. Father Basil Breen celebrated Requiem High Mass. Interment followed in Thornhill Cemetery and the pallbearers were Stanley Leno, William McQuillan, Edward Seagar, Pete Savage, Kenneth Bennett and Edwin Gamble Sr.
