Once again the Girl Guides sponsored two evening shows at the Richmond Hill Theatre on Tuesday and Wednesday, and from all reports both evenings proved to be quite successful. This method of fund raising is proving to be a popular annual event and the choice of films this year should encourage more and more people to attend this worthwhile venture. Tuesday night's show "Island in the Sun" was well received and Wednesday night's "Les Girls" was most entertaining.

The writer has not visited a motion picture theatre for more months than she cares to remember and it was the first time she had seen a non-cinemas film of the Queen projected on a cinema screen. The film strip was that lovely scene of the Queen, as Colonel of the Guards, crossing the Horse Guards Parade, but the effect to put it very bluntly was anything but regal. The Queen appears as a fat podgy little creature, while the horse appears as a monstrosity that might have had a dachshund somewhere in its background. Surely the vast movie organization can produce a film which does justice to our beloved monarch?

Whereas, public education has been a principal concern and its support a sustained policy of our town, province and federal governments,
Whereas, it is becoming increasingly recognized that ignorance and freedom are incompatible, and an efficient school system in each community is vital to the preservation of our Canadian way of life,
And whereas, the observance of a special Education Week each year affords opportunity for parents to visit schools, for community leaders to discuss critical school problems, and for general re-appraisal of public education with a view to its betterment,
Therefore, I, Kenneth W. Tomlin, Mayor of Richmond Hill do proclaim March 1 to March 7, 1959, to be Canadian Education Week in this Town.
