A very natural TV personality, and what fun he would have on Nathan Cohen's program "Fighting Words!"

Week End Gales Cause Of Damage

When the gale force winds lashed Southern Ontario and cut a trail of damage across the province last Sunday, Richmond Hill was not altogether overlooked. Three local hydro power interruptions on Sunday afternoon were reported by Supt. Vern Snider, one on Sneddon Station and two on Yonge Street Station, due to high winds and falling limbs of trees. All interruptions were of short duration—reflecting the efficiency of the Richmond Hill Hydro staff. Wide areas—including North York—were blacked out for several hours, and thousands of housewives were left to prepare cold dinners by lamp and candlelight as the power was snuffed out.

Over the same period of time, the staff of the Richmond Hill Rural Area of the Ontario Hydro were also hard at work "bucking the gale" and repairing fallen power transmission lines. Area Manager L. Roy reported 25 power interruptions due to falling limbs and trees, also from several TV antennas that were toppled by the gale across the lines that are located in the 275 square miles serviced by this division. In Richmond Hill a number of small property damages were reported, panes of glass being broken in local greenhouses, and the plate glass in the main door of the Richmond Theatre Grill was smashed in by the force of the high winds.

With the forecast and appearance of rain on Sunday morning, Work, Commissioner D. Whalen—backed by mayor and councillors—prepared to forestall any emergency and flooding that might again occur in the Taylor Mills Drive - Brownvale Crescent area of Beverley Acres. The entire crew of men deserve full credit for their efforts—working almost "round the clock"—even cutting down on their meal times.

DEPT. OF HEALTH TWP. OF NORTH YORK Play Is The Business of Children

Many, many books and articles have been written about play for the pre-school child. Your local library can provide much of this material for you. You will find many of these helpful and interesting. But face it, no book, booklet or leaflet, can tell you how or what you ought to play with your child. Maybe your answers won't be the same—but if they involve loving laughing and learning they'll do the job of helping your child get ready for school—by recognizing that play is the business of children.

1st Richmond Hill At 1st March 11th meeting of Cub Pack "C" saw some important appointments made to replace boys who have "leaped up" to Scouts. New Sixers are: Bob Jones, Terry Dunn and John Webster; the new Seconders: Morris Sorensen, David Fettes and Gary Holtze. Cubmaster Jack Slater announced that Bob Jones was also awarded his Artist's and Collector's badges. Cub Pack "C" meets each Wednesday evening in the Scout Hall, next door to the Richmond Hill Arena. The pack welcomes all boys aged eight to eleven years who wish to become new chums in the world-wide organization of Cubbing. There are also interesting openings for adults who would like to help as leaders for this keen group of boys. Cubs of the 1st Richmond Hill Group were well represented in the recent group hobby show. Ribbon winners were: Bob Thomson, 2nd prize for his collection; Morris Sorensen, 3rd prize stamp collection; Pat Madden, 3rd prize pencil drawing. Honourable mention went to Ben Pollen and to Jackie Blanchard.

The 3rd Richmond Hill "B" Pack held their regular weekly meeting on Wednesday, March 11, at the Walter Scott School, at which two new chums were inducted—Murray Holtby and David King. The parents of the boys took part in the investiture—with each parent presenting their own boy with a pin. This was followed by the "Grand Howl", which the boys being invested took part in for the first time. Mr. Ludlow, the Akela, presented one, two and three-year stars to the Cubs. The evening finished with a theme song around a bright, glowing campfire.

The 3rd Richmond Hill Cubs of "A" Pack held their regular weekly meeting on March 10, at Walter Scott School. The meeting opened with two boys being invested, Harold Rogers and Billy Davis. The parents of the boys were there to present them with pins. At this time the boys are given scarves to wear that represent the pack colors. Robert Myers was invested the previous week. Mr. Kinsley presented all of "A" Pack with ball point pens. Ivan Coles won his first star. Last week, Mr. Goddard, the Akela, drove six boys to the Globe and Mail building, where they were shown through the plant, which proved very educational, as well as a kind gesture on his part.

HAVE YOU HEARD THIS ONE?

Both Plaintiff Jones and Defendant Smith were sporting black eyes, when their argument ended up in court... Judge: "This seems such a simple case I think it should have been settled out of court." Jones: "We were doing just that, when the cops broke it up." A lawyer I know told me this really happened. One thing you can settle for yourself is your decision about the best place to send your dry cleaning. All we ask is a fair trial. You be the judge of whether or not your clothes have ever before been so beautifully dry cleaned and finished.
