

Home & School Leads Move

 Hill could not be relieved of her share of the capital building expense of the high school district already agreed upon. "You still have debentures to pay for here and we at the department would expect county council to get this fixed up," stated Mr. Stewart.

The representatives of the department stated he was not often asked for advice on a move of this type as the department had been busy in the past few years getting the high schools consolidated into district high schools, instead of small high schools, in order to improve educational facilities. He felt to his knowledge only the large centres such as Metropolitan Toronto, Kingston, Peterborough, Belleville, Chatham and Cornwall, all considerably over 5,000 population, had Boards of Education.

In answer to a question from town Councillor Robert Ross, Mr. Stewart stated it was not possible to have a local Board of Education and still operate the York Central District High School Board.

Mr. Stewart also pointed out that a high school pupil has the right to attend schools where his needs are met, educationally speaking, and that pupils can go from one district to another to obtain courses they need. "Pupils change all the time," pointed out Mr. Stewart.

Public School Trustee Harold Sanderson voiced the opinion there would be some obligation involved for pupils in the immediate vicinity of Richmond Hill boundaries. "They would be the responsibility of York Central District High School Board," noted Mr. Stewart. He pointed out instances where pupils residing within walking distance, even across the street from a city high school had to ride 15 miles to attend their own high school.

Chairman of the York Central District High School Board Harry Sayers felt, "A fee basis can be worked out."

Mr. Stewart pointed out no part of a high school district can be detached except under certain conditions. One being the new school unit must have 600 pupils.

At present Richmond Hill High School has 600 pupils of which 435 are from Richmond Hill, the other 225 pupils are from Markham and Vaughan Townships. At its capacity, for it is considered there is not room for further expansion on the small acreage, the school will accommodate 850 pupils. Figures indicate that in less than five years time, Richmond Hill pupils will fill the present school.

Union School Section
 Chairman Sayers pointed out the present public school district doesn't coincide with the town boundaries. Mr. Stewart said he knew of nothing in the act to cover that.

Mr. Sayers wondered if the board were set up would it apply only to the town limits and if so who would look after the rest of the public school section.

Public School Trustee Mrs. Margaret Southwell recalled the arbitration proceedings arrived at several years ago regarding the union school section still had several years to run. Mr. Stewart felt, "There must be some precedent for this."

Public School Trustee Mrs. Virginia Sully wondered if the school section pupils outside Richmond Hill couldn't be put on a non-resident fee basis at least for the time the arbitration is in force.

Mr. Stewart noted a by-law setting up a Board of Education must be passed by county council before July 1st to be effective in that year. He added a majority vote, not a unanimous one, was necessary in county council.

Councillor Ross felt it was up to the ratepayers to approach town council and let their feelings be known.

Why a Board of Education?
 "What are the advantages to Richmond Hill pupils?" High School Trustee Robert Endeau wanted to know. One advantage pointed out was that of one administration unit, co-ordinating elementary and secondary education. Chairman Sayers drew attention to the fact interest had been expressed in a tri-level system and equation of education.

Mrs. Barbara Langstaff spoke as a taxpayer and mother of four school children. She stated she was satisfied with the public and high school boards but was concerned with the contemplated purchase of a piece of property in Markham Township on the boundary of Richmond Hill for a proposed new high school to be used by Richmond Hill students. She did not believe the town could support two high schools if a Board of Education was approved.

Chairman Clement was of the opinion if the town was going to have a tri-level system a decision would have to be made on what accommodation is needed.

Deputy-reeve S. F. Tinker wondered if a vocational school was contemplated on the proposed Bayview site for the new high school.

Composite High School
 Mr. Stewart pointed out the department did not favor building separate vocational schools now. That larger, or composite schools, were considered better administratively and more economical. He stated, "The purpose and nature of vocational schools has changed over the years. Before the war the emphasis was on trade training. Today the demand by industry is on more technical training, learning what the tools will do. The basic academic course for the industrial arts student is no different from the matriculation course. Both contribute to the larger composite school. He mentioned the "streaming" of pupils according to potentiality and said the choosing of the course to follow comes in the second year.

"There is some confusion regarding composite schools," said Mr. Stewart. "But they are simply high school and vocational school in the same building under the same principal. For grant purpose each school is considered."

Mr. Stewart said it was his firm conviction a composite school would not be economic until there were at least 1,000 pupils. He suggested that before that enrollment was reached a limited vocational course be offered as a four year course. (Limited vocational courses are available in the three district high schools.) For an industrial arts option, a school must have two shops and two recommended teachers, and shops and draughting rooms can be added to give accommodation for the necessary additional period of study as required.

When it was noted more industrial arts courses could not be offered at Richmond Hill High School without taking academic space, Mr. Stewart suggested there could be one school selected and other students wanting the course sent there.

Mrs. Langstaff asked if a composite school was being considered on Bayview Ave. Chairman Sayers answered the school planned was similar to those in operation now.

Mrs. Langstaff expressed concern over transportation costs of district pupils which cost Richmond Hill helps to bear, as well as the debentures for district school construction. She favored a close tie between local elementary and secondary schools. She felt it required a lot of thought before building another school on the edge of our town, perhaps the high school would be better placed somewhere else.

Chairman Sayers stated the high school board had studied the problem for two years and felt the site was in the best possible location from the standpoint of population. Plans were that the school could be expanded to accommodate 1,000 students. He added that so far there had been no great demand for the vocational type of training.

Mr. Sayers also noted that the special commercial course (which Mr. Stewart considered excellent as those students with academic training up to Grade 12 take this one year course) has only 14 pupils. He said, "Special services are not economical to provide without sufficient pupil population." Twelve pupils from York Central District High School attend technical school in Toronto. Mr. Stewart reiterated, "The large school has many advantages."

Mrs. Mathews asked, "What if we secede from the county and become a city, then what?" The members of council present did not foresee that possibility.

Chairman Clement suggested as there was concern about the tri-level system, council should appoint a committee to look into the situation and the costs. He pointed out it wasn't definitely known "whether we want it yet."

Does Not Recognize Jr. High
 Mr. Stewart stated, "The Department of Education does not recognize junior high schools." He mentioned the intermediate schools for grades 7, 8 and 9 and said some people seem to think they are of great advantage for a finer type of education. "Do you think that?" he asked.

Councillor Ross felt some shop training before high school was advantageous such as that available in an intermediate school system. Mr. Davies was doubtful of the value of pre-high school shop or home economics because of a lack of "carry over" into high school courses.

Mr. Sayers felt the district high school board was offering as wide a variety of subjects as economically possible. He said a composite school was on a future agenda. Deputy-reeve Tinker wondered if any hardship would be worked on the part of the district if Richmond Hill was detached.

Need Good Reason for Break-up
 Mr. Stewart said, "The Department doesn't like to see a district breaking up unless there is a real reason for it."

Mr. Sayers mentioned that if a Board of Education was formed and the present Richmond Hill High School was for local students only, "it couldn't accommodate 1,000 students as it can't be expanded. In a few years this figure is expected to be reached as from three per cent to five per cent of population is the expected high school enrollment."

Deputy-reeve Tinker said it could be there was an advantage in having a Board of Education. He suggested the two boards study the problem and come up with some agreement or argument concerning a joint board. He ended, "I don't know how many in town are interested."

"The home and school associations are interested," said Mrs. Mathews. At Walter Scott Homes and School Association such convincing reasons were presented that we felt there was value in gaining more information."

Chairman Clement felt any action was up to town council. "No request has been made of council," returned Deputy-reve Tinker. "The school board and the people decide, it's up to council to raise the money."

Chairman Sayers called attention to the short notice regarding the meeting and said, "Our board is not prepared, but we feel we should be here for the discussion. We can't do any study of this matter until the budget is finished. Who wants it? Why? How do they want it? Before I ask any of the board to serve I want to know if the research is worthwhile. I want to know where we're heading. Are people in Richmond Hill sufficiently interested?"

Co-ordinating Curriculums
 "We have to know more about it. We haven't information. It is felt public school and high school curriculums do not co-ordinate," said Mrs. Mathews.

High School Trustee John Wilson quickly replied to the charge the two curriculums don't co-ordinate. "This should be demonstrated to us as a board that this is true."

"Suppose we go to council and support our own Board of Education, and say we don't like the location of the proposed new high school, what happens then?" asked Mrs. Langstaff. "Have our solicitor study the matter," replied Councillor Ross. Mrs. Langstaff added it would be important to study all the financial aspects.

High School Board Worried
 "You've got our board worried," interjected Chairman Sayers. "We have to have a new school by 1961. Do we have to drop our plans? Are there to be portables on the front lawn?" High School Trustee Stewart Rumble added, "We've managed to have only one year of split classes so far."

Chairman Sayers reiterated the board was unable at the moment to state its position. He suggested that if a group of people wanted to see the matter through, that they draw up a request of the type of thing they want and pass it on to the public school and high school boards for study. Then perhaps a meeting could be called. He felt it was premature to set up a committee at this time.

"Do we have to have confidence in the people who gather material," said Chairman Clement. Mrs. G. Worrall of the Beverley Acres Home and School Association stated she was interested in the Board of Education and had thought it a fine thing, but she was also interested in having the new high school in the eastern part of town. She wondered what the town would offer high school pupils in the way of transportation and whether it would be any better (less difficult) than it is now.

Chairman Clement again said he felt any action should come from council.

No Widespread Indication of Interest
 Deputy-reve Tinker said, "There is no indication of a widespread demand by interested opinion; not majority opinion. He believed the financial outlay would concern most people and he asked, "Could the question go to plebiscite?" Mr. Stewart answered, "Yes, it could."

Mrs. Langstaff said, "If financial figures are higher with a board then we might not be interested." Mr. Stewart said the high school tax rate of 5 mills was "exceptionally low."

Issue Tri-Level System
 Trustee Mrs. Southwell said, "The main issue is the tri-level system."

Mr. Sayers felt there was a divergence of opinion concerning the tri-level system.

Rural Pupils Limit Curriculum
 Mrs. Ruth Stocks was of the opinion, "rural pupils limit the high school curriculum," and felt the town pupils would be better served under a Board of Education rather than being in a district high school. Mr. Stewart asked, "You believe the presence of rural pupils is limiting?" Mrs. Stocks said she believed they limited the curriculum, that the curriculum had to be shaped around these rural pupils, and thus brought down the level in the area. Mr. Stewart stated the subjects were set up by the Department of Education.

As the meeting drew to a close, Mr. Stewart stated, "This question requires a lot of thought." He believed the subjects emphasized should be English, Mathematics, French, Latin, Science, History, and that the child or young person should be thought of as being educated and not just being prepared for a job.

Afterwards coffee was served. Present were Mr. Stewart, Mr. Davies, Mrs. Mathews, Mrs. Langstaff, Mrs. Worrall, Mrs. Iris Wright, Mr. George Gray; from council, Deputy-reve Tinker and Councillor Ross; from the high school board, Chairman Sayers, and Trustees Endeau, Wilson, Rumble and Honsberger; from the public school board, Chairman Clement, Trustees Mrs. Southwell, Mrs. Sully and Sanderson, and board secretaries, Mrs. D. Street and Mrs. J. R. McAlister.

Mr. Sayers mentioned that if a Board of Education was formed and the present Richmond Hill High School was for local stud-

Headford W.A. met on Tuesday evening last at the home of Mrs. Elmer Leek, with a good attendance of members, and several visitors present. The devotional period in charge of Mrs. Leek, was concerning Easter, though perhaps a little early. The speaker of the evening was Mrs. Willis Hunking, missionary on furlough from Nigeria, who showed many interesting slides of her medical work there. Mrs. Hunking tells that conversion among the natives is low but nevertheless when they are very much in earnest and anxious to bring more into the faith. She told of her work among the lepers there, and said that leprosy is curable if treated in time.

We had been addressed by Mrs. Hunking five years ago, when she was on a former furlough, and some of us sensed quite a bit of advancement in the things she talked about.

Dainty refreshments served by the hostess, Mrs. Leek, brought an inspiring evening to a close.

The April meeting, on the 14th, will be held at the home of Mrs. Brodie, when the word for roll call will be "Neighbour."

There was a very good turnout of members for the very fine meeting of Victoria Square W.M.S. on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. F. McRoberts. The theme was the chapter on Mexico from the study book, very ably taken care of by Mrs. Stan Boynton and Mrs. P. Bennett. The other members of the committee, Mrs. C. Walker, was not able to be present, but contributed considerably to the interest of the meeting by sending some Mexican articles for us to view. There was a lovely hanging lantern, fashioned from old oilcans, some Mexican money, carvings and what-not, and Mrs. Bennett modelled a beautifully made Mexican hat.

The Easter Thankoffering meeting will be held on April 19, with the Rev. Mr. Muir as speaker. Lovely refreshments, daintily carried out with both the St. Patrick's and the Easter motif, were served by Mrs. McRoberts, and the committee, to bring a most delightful meeting to a close.

Once more the Headford folk were unfortunally enough to be unable to attend the showing of the film, "The Long Stride", shown at Victoria Square on Wednesday evening last to replace the usual Lenten study group.

A camp re-union was held at the weekend at Guelph O.A.C. for Junior Farmers. Cora Brodie was there on Friday evening, and Don went up early on Sunday morning, to lead the sing-song.

Despite extremely distasteful weather, and extremely bad roads, a very large number of their friends and relations called on Mr. and Mrs. George Barker on Sunday last, March 15, when they were at home in the afternoon and evening on the occasion of their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. The house was gay with many bouquets of "bunches and roses" some the gift of Unionville and Richmond Hill Horticultural Societies, and a delightful group of young folk served tea and the wedding cake which had been made by Mrs. Isaac Reaman.

At the school for elders and stewards held in Markham United Church on Monday evening, Headford was represented by Mr. Freeman Barker, Mrs. Wm. Wellman and Mrs. Acreman.

Mrs. Freeman Barker had a busy evening at the Unionville Horticultural Society, for it was the night for judging posters and bird-houses, last Monday. Many bulbs were also distributed.

Mr. and Mrs. Len Bagg called on Mr. and Mrs. Gummer Lee and Mr. Fred Lee last Sunday morning. They had just returned the day before from Florida. Mr. Bagg's sister, Mrs. Gardiner and her husband returning with them. Mr. and Mrs. Bagg will remain in Toronto until Easter, when they will return to their home in Uxbridge.

Very many happy returns to Sharon Bell, celebrating her tenth birthday on Saturday, March 21.
