Markham Township property owners of the southwest sector of the township turned out in full force on Monday morning of this week, filling the Council chambers to bursting point — indeed a "Standing-Room-Only" sign on the door would have told the true story.

The occasion for all this interest was an Ontario Municipal Board hearing which had been called at the instigation of the Ontario Minister of Planning and Development to consider rezoning in the area affected by new highway plans and the proposed C.N.R. rail-line.

The chairman of the meeting was Mr. Yates, a member of the O.M.B. and a number of solicitors representing various business interests (among them Loblaws), as well as the Markham Township Solicitor, Mr. D. Lucas, Mr. R. Forrest, planning director, and Mr. Murray Jones of Metro were also present.

At the outset of the meeting Mr. Lucas made application for adjournment on the grounds that the present situation required further study. Mr. Weir, a solicitor speaking for interests near the Thornhill Ladies' Golf Club, insisted that the planning board had had almost three years in which to consider problems of the area, and that while C.N.R. plans announced last week introduced a new factor they must have held few surprises for planning board officials. Mr. Weir urged that a decision regarding rezoning should be made, insisting that "Justice delayed is Justice denied."

Upholding the application for adjournment were Mr. Ecclestone, speaking for another owner, and another solicitor speaking for business interests in the Steeles-Yonge area. The reason they expressed was because of dissatisfaction with the proposed rail route. Mr. Yates inquired mildly if they felt the C.N.R. would be influenced by the displeasure of two property owners.

Eventually it was agreed that a second hearing should be held on the first available date in June, and that property owners should be notified by letter as in the present case.

In the meantime, Mr. Lucas, Mr. Forrest and Mr. Jones are to get busy at their homework; and if we read the temper of the meeting correctly, this time there should be no nonsense.

April Is Cancer Campaign

As April draws near Cancer Society workers are stepping into high gear to insure a successful drive for funds to further research and help stamp out this dread disease. In the past year two members in our own community succumbed.

The greater the support we offer research workers the faster 'll be the break-through. The lives we help to save may include our own.

Euchre Winner James Curtis

Fifteen tables of players were present at Buttonville Hall on Friday evening of last week to see Mr. Jim Curtis gain high score for the winter series and carry off the top prize.

Winners for the evening were Mrs. Rene Calvert, Mrs. L. Cummings, Mrs. R. Drewery; Messrs. Ashton Calvert, H. Trimble and Bill Middleton. The lucky draw went to Mr. Bill Middleton.

Freezeout winners were Dr. George Kelly, Mrs. Jean Trimble; against Messrs. Jim Curtis and Matt Davis. Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Aubrey Stephenson, Mrs. Garnet Franey and Mrs. E. Hill.

Neighbourhood Notes

New babies are arriving fast at present. Within the last ten days a daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Allan (nee Eileen Pratt) and a son to Ray and Rosemary Bennett. Proud parents of new daughters are Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Cox (Marion Robinson) and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Gough (Ellen Hooper).

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Miller were guests at O.A.C. on Sunday of this week when parents of graduating students were present at a Baccalaureate service, for the graduating class of which Bob is a member.

Fashion Expert Guest Speaker

It was "Fashion Night" for over sixty university women and their guests at Kingcraft House, King City Monday evening when the University Women's Club of York County were privileged to have as guest speaker Mrs. Jean Miller of Maple whose topic was "The Art of Fashion."

Mrs. J. C. Belknap of King City introduced Mrs. Miller, who appears regularly on the television program "Open House," is the author of several books on fashion and only last week was chosen one of Canada's ten best dressed women.

Mrs. Miller's opening remarks pointed out what a fantastically important business fashion really is. Most women mistakenly regard it as something frivolous and even suspect, which is pushing them around. Only vaguely do they understand its effect on the many facets of our life — the type of car we buy, the kind of food we serve, home decoration and so on.

"Fashion at its best," said Mrs. Miller, "is an art, not merely a commercial junket. It should be something that adds grace, charm, dignity and some ideal of beauty to all human occasions." The pursuit of fashion as such, therefore, is no sign of vanity. "To me," said Mrs. Miller, "it is a manifestation of a desire for something better, a striving towards an ideal of beauty." Mrs. Miller regards this interest as unselfish, generous and admirable.

Fashion changes of necessity, since it must adapt itself to the particular lives we lead. Changing fashions give us an understanding of the spirit and aesthetic values of their time. Mrs. Miller then sketched for her audience the various shapes in fashion during the past fifty years. These in turn left an impression of what the lives of women during the last fifty years must have been.

In 1906 when women were confined to the home their activities were at a much more leisurely pace and they did not object to the limitations imposed by long skirts, heavy materials and "over-dressing" in general.

By 1916 women were needed to replace men who had gone off to war, they were given the vote, had new responsibilities, and the fashion changed — skirts were raised.

In 1926 Chanel revolutionized the whole face of fashion by introducing a new way of dressing which no one had even thought of before. Up until 1926 women wore corseted and elaborate clothes. Chanel made fashionable the slim chemise, the artless, under-dressed look. "Even today," said Mrs. Miller, "the Chanel influence is more important than any other influence in fashion."

By 1936 the ideal of all women was a development of the Chanel look — the Garbo look. Styles were more and more masculine, more and more emancipated. Because of shortages during the war this fashion lasted for a long period and became vulgarized as a result. Women welcomed with open arms therefore the new Dior silhouette in 1946 which threw out the shoulder pads and introduced the sloping shoulders, longer and fuller skirts. This was the strong influence in fashion for almost ten years until there were so many versions that it, too, became vulgarized.

So those in high fashion wanted nothing new and so in 1957 we were faced with the overdone or sack. We were so overdue for a change that it was seized upon too quickly in this country and by 1958 the pendulum was swinging away from it towards the directoire or empire shape.

This year, Mrs. Miller believes that fashion is settling down reasonably well. The latest thing being shown from Paris is a new version of the shirtwaist dress in soft fabrics such as chiffon with a wider neckline, wide collar and waist nipped in. It represents a swing to the more feminine silhouette.

Mrs. Miller believes that women — despite their screams of protest — want fashions to change. Great limitations, however, have been imposed on the creative artists of the fashion world as a result of women's refusal to return to long skirts. To avoid dullness, therefore, Mrs. Miller feels that it is time women started thinking of a complete change between their daytime clothes and "dress-up" clothes. "Women are emancipated. We can now afford to become interested in making ourselves charming — in practising the art of fashion," concluded Mrs. Miller.

Mrs. W. R. Outerbridge of Aurora thanked Mrs. Miller on behalf of the club for her fascinating address. Her remarks were enthusiastically endorsed by President Mrs. Barbara Langstaff and all those present. Everyone enjoyed a social half hour afterwards during which refreshments were served.

During the business portion of the meeting reports were heard from the Finance Committee (chaired by Mrs. Fraser Gee of Gormley) regarding possible projects to be undertaken by the club during the coming months. These were outlined by Mrs. Dickson Miller, Mrs. J. D. MacGregor and Mrs. J. F. Heard of Richmond Hill.

Eight new members were welcomed into the club and were introduced to the audience by Membership Convener Mrs. G. Fish of Aurora. They were: Mrs. James Johnston, Mrs. J. A. Holmes and Mrs. K. G. B. Ketchum of Aurora; Miss Margaret Gourlay, Gormley; Mrs. J. D. MacGregor and Mrs. R. T. Hutchinson of Richmond Hill; and Mrs. W. Henry Jackman and Mrs. Eric Veale of Newmarket.

The next regular meeting will be held Monday evening, April 27, at 8:15 p.m. at Kingcraft House, King City, when Dr. Helen S. Hogg will speak on her recent trip to Russia. All university women in the area are cordially invited to attend.
