

Pupils Mrs. Garson At Dance Recital

Wrixon Hall, St. Mary's Anglican Church, was filled to capacity last Friday evening when Mrs. Sylvia Garson of Richmond Hill presented her pupils in a "Dance Display". From beginning to end youngsters from the tender age of four years and upwards, showed excellent training and understanding of the dance.

"Getting to Know You" was ably sung and danced by Brian Toogood, Mary Clarke, Catherine Walsh, Cheryl King and Penny Howard. Tiny Gayle Buchan, Barbara St. Arnaud and Robin Lindsay were sweet as Chinese Coolies. "Candy Store Fantasy" which concluded the first half of the performance featured Arlene Haggart as the "Little Girl", Susan Broadhurst as the waitress, and Leslie Nichols, Shelley Scott, Michèle Bulova, Darryl Simmons, Gwin Urquhart and Brenda Robinson as icecream cones. Joy Castello and Sandra Bry showed fine rhythm as licorice sticks, while Carlen Meyer represented a banana split.

Nancy Welch, Donna Jones, Susan Coles, Lynda Burton and Brian Toogood were candy canes. This production number displayed a fine variety of ballet, tap, acrobatic and toe dancing along with baton twirling. A delightful number was "South of the Border" with Lorraine Davies, Marianne Derrick, Vicki Scott, Meredith Scott, Sandra King, and Susan Kirkpatrick.

Paddy Bull, who tapped on stairs, Joanne Jay, in "Diamonds are a Girl's Best Friend", Cathy Woloshyn, Ian Sorbie, Betty Satchel, Barbara Chappell, Verna Seifert, Norma Beauchamp, Brenda Bradshaw and Sharon Lang were prominent in solo dances. Outstanding was "Steam Heat" sung and danced by Marion March, Cathy Woloshyn, Miriam Faulkner and Barbara Severin. The show ended with a rousing grand finale and presentations were made by the pupils to Mrs. Garson who is to be highly commended for such an enjoyable performance; also to Miss Ruth Garson, A.D.C.M. who accompanied the dancers so beautifully. The costumes and lighting were very effective and an enjoyable evening was had by all.

VICTORIA SQUARE NEWS

CORRESPONDENT: MRS. W. SANDLE, Victoria Square
Telephone Gormley 5421

The June meeting of the W.M.S. was held on Wednesday afternoon on last week at the home of Mrs. H. Deverell, Headford, with a good attendance. The members from Headford conducted the worship period, and the hostess had again invited Mrs. Williams of Willowdale to sing, which was very much enjoyed by all. A short skit, "The rain will Stop," depicting the trials of a missionary in Alaska, was given by Mrs. H. Acreman, Mrs. G. Joyce and Mrs. H. McCague, which proved very interesting.

This June being the 62nd anniversary of the Victoria Square W.M.S., the thoughts of everyone went back to the early conditions the group had to contend with. The minutes from the Supply Secretary reports of 30 years ago were read. Several visitors were present. Mrs. John Clelland of Australia, gave a few interesting facts on her home.

Everyone was happy to hear that Rev. A. F. Binnington is greatly improved in health and that Miss Olive Glover is now home.

Dainty refreshments were served at the close by the hostess and her committee.

Mission Band Graduation And Plans

On Saturday afternoon, because of the cold and windy weather, the Mission Band had to have its graduation exercises and picnic at the home of the leader, Mrs. A. Orr, as had been originally planned for. The mothers of the children and several of the W.M.S. members were also present.

The meeting opened with words of welcome by Mrs. A. Orr, and the children sang several choruses, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. R. Cowie. The worship period was conducted by Mrs. S. Boynton, the past leader. Mrs. F. McRoberts read the Scripture Lesson. The graduation exercises were led by Mrs. S. Boynton, with each of the graduates, Barbara Empringham, Cathy Sanderson, Debbie Kirkpatrick, Debbie Konig, and Ronald Orr, taking part, and all of the other Mission Band members singing the response. Each graduate was presented with a gift from the leader for their help given while they were members of the Mission Band. The girls graduated to the Explorer group by one of the leaders, Mrs. Percy Bennett.

Cathy Sanderson took up the Offering and it was dedicated by the president of the W.M.S., Mrs. I. D. McCague. Mrs. A. Orr conducted several games for the children which were very much enjoyed by all; she also had two games for the mothers. Refreshments were served at the close including ice cream. Before the children left for home, a peanut-scrabble was held outside.

Sunday School Anniversary

The annual Sunday School Anniversary service was held on Sunday, with the superintendent, Mr. Percy Bennett, in charge of the service. Donald Boynton led the responsive reading, while Wayne Morrison read the Scripture Lesson. Mrs. A. Orr was the soloist, she sang, "Bless This House," which was very much enjoyed. The children and their teachers sat at the front of the church. The guest speaker was Rev. J. Morris, of the Aurora United Church, who gave an illustrated sermon for the children, which proved very interesting for the adults as well as for the children.

When Mother Painted The Dining Room

By Mona Robertson

We tried our hands (and a new job last weekend — and we realize now we should just stick to our shorthand notebook and typewriter and forget all about being a wallpaper-hanger-upper for a full time career. But it was fun. We've had an ambition for some years now, to relieve the plainness of our strictly oil-painted walls by initiating the one-wall-hung-with-paper decorator style at our house. So we bought two double rolls (four singles that is) with a very dainty pattern of air, golden hanging baskets, filled with delicate flowers and lacy ferns and leaves on a pink background. (Really not the pattern for a beginner, perhaps).

We found out that a 9x8 foot wall, with one window in it, takes one double roll plus another 8 foot strip — to allow for matching.

We began setting up for the wallpapering job — which, until the moment when we began to mix the paste we had thought would be done "in a breeze" — at about 7.30 pm. Saturday evening. Earlier that same day we had used a roller and repainted the ceiling of the room and three of the walls with pale pink oil paint. Needless to say we were slightly "bushed" by then — and felt a slight apprehension towards the project when we extended the dining room table to its full length, placed a six foot board on top, and, on the advice of friend husband, who was working on another project in the den, liberally spread old newspapers over the surface.

Just then, the children, who were enjoying the oncoming excitement so much they forgot to watch television, let out a cry of glee and said, "Here's grandma and grandpa and Auntie Mimi!" sure enough their car had just pulled into the driveway.

Well from there on in, I had lots of helpers — and believe me I needed them.

In my eagerness to get started on my own tick I had forgotten such a job needed proper tools, but with Mimi's advice I improvised — using a sponge for a paste-brush, (and lucky for me, and the wall paper) commandeered father's new flat clothes brush for brushing the paper down after hanging it.

I found out that the pile of newspapers was essential too, believe me, for when one applies the paste liberally, "but not too thickly," the paste goes well over the edges of the strip.

I had read the directions two weeks earlier, when I bought the wallpaper, but until my sister-in-law reminded me, I forgot about the plumb-line. Now the plumb-line, in case any of you gals are going to copy this feat of mine (for the first time too) is one of the most important steps in hanging wallpaper. Get that first strip on straight, and you are away to the races, except for about half a dozen other details you have to remember.

A thumb tack, piece of string, and a weight to hold the string straight down (we discovered a glass flower holder makes a good one) is placed about 20 inches out from the corner . . . as the plumb line hangs straight down the wall, you mark a line on the wall from ceiling to floor with a pencil.

Then you begin to cut out strips of paper, making sure to cut on the "match" line each time, so your pattern will come out perfectly . . . and it did. I found that first strip — and the last one, too — the trickiest part of the job, for there is quite a bit of trimming away to do, when you are not taking the paper "around the corner." As for the window area, well that's another little bit of fun . . . following the old song that goes, "When father papered the bedroom" . . . and here we found the paper was stuck to the window, but that was alright, you just cut out the paper around the window frame after, since you had to carry your pattern evenly top and bottom of the window. Same thing for light switches and wall plugs — I was lucky there, my husband removed the covers for me first.

It took me four and a half hours to cover that wall, with time out somewhere along the line for a cup of tea — but believe me, the results are enchanting — so next weekend I'm starting on another room . . . bet I do that next one in "a breeze."
