

Miss Anne Pike Weds Noel Astin

Rev. J. F. O'Neill officiated at a pretty wedding on Saturday, Sept. 5, 1959, when Miss Anne Pike, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Pike of Horfield, Bristol, England, became the bride of Noel Astin, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Austin, Portsmouth, England. Miss Berry Anderson was at the organ. Given in marriage by Mr. Stuart Parker, the bride looked lovely in a short white princess style dress with bustle in back; she wore a shoulder length veil and carried a crescent bouquet of white carnations and pink roses. Miss Susanne Austin, niece of the groom, was bridesmaid in a short blue dress and white feather hat, and her bouquet was a nosegay of white carnations and pink roses.

Mr. Roy Austin was best man and R. Ross acted as usher.

Following the service a reception was given by Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Parker at their home in Thornhill where a surprise telephone call was received from the bride's parents in England and a message of 'good luck' was called from the parents of the groom. The happy couple then left for a honeymoon in New York.

Mrs. Robert Neil Mortson

The former Margaret Rose Canning, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Treanor Canning of Gormley, is seen above following her recent marriage to Robert Neil Mortson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Mortson also of Gormley. The lovely young bride is wearing a gown of brocaded lace over taffeta.

Victoria Square United Church was the scene of a beautiful summer wedding on Saturday afternoon, August 29, 1959, at 3:30 p.m. when Margaret Rose Canning, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Treanor Canning, was united in marriage with Mr. Robert Neil Mortson eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Mortson.

Rev. C. G. Higginson of Richmond Hill performed the double ceremony amidst a setting of pink and white gladioli with ferns and lighted candelabras. Mrs. Allan Orr, soloist sang "The Lord's Prayer" before the bridal party entered the church, and "Because" during the signing of the register. She was accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Jim Barker.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked lovely in a street-length gown of white taffeta beneath brocaded lace. Her shoulder-length veil was held with a leaf-shaped headpiece of sequins and pearls. She carried a white prayer-book with a white orchid on it and shell pink roses with streamers of vine.

The attendants: Mrs. Lloyd Canning, sister-in-law of the bride was matron of honour; Mrs. Donald Canning, sister-in-law of the bride, and Miss Carol Mortson sister of the groom were bridesmaids all dressed alike in street-length gowns of medium light blue rayon taffeta beneath nylon chiffon with black flying panels and white accessories. They wore pearl and flowered headbands in their hair and carried baskets of mixed garden flowers.

Miss Mary-Jane Mortson, sister of the groom, was flower-girl, dressed in a grey jacket with navy trousers. He carried a white satin cushion with the rings on it.

Best man was Donald Canning, brother of the bride and ushers were Lloyd Canning, brother of the bride and William Rice. The groom, best man and ushers wore cream flannel jackets with black trousers and black accessories.

For the reception held at the Summit View Restaurant, for 100 guests, the bride's mother received her guests wearing a beige rayon silk dress with cocoa brown accessories and a corsage of talisman roses. She was assisted by the groom's mother, wearing a blue rayon crepe dress with pink accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

For travelling to eastern points the bride donned a red taffeta dress with black accessories and a white orchid.

Mr. and Mrs. Mortson are now living in their new home built by the groom on the bride's father's farm.
