C. W. L. Stage Fashion Show

Autumn-Haze mink stole is modelled at the Fashion Show, a popular event of the week, sponsored by the St. Mary's Catholic Women's League. Note the intricate workmanship involved in elaborately working the mink to follow the rounded contours of the pattern. The beautiful furs were from Ken Stiff-Furs, Richvale. The model is Mrs. H. McConkey, Maple.

The first Fall Fashion Show sponsored by St. Mary's Catholic Women's League took place Wednesday evening, September 23rd, in the Richmond Hill High School Auditorium. The hall was well filled with interested ladies and a few brave men - either proud husbands of proud fathers of the models.

After God Save the Queen, Mrs. Mary Henderson, the president of the C. W. L., opened the show with a welcome, and introduced the pianist, Miss Mary McDonald, L.R.C.T. and the commentator, Mrs. John Wilson. The first part of the Fashion Show comprised Children's Fashions, modelled by Mary Yates, Edward Houllihan, Brenda and Michael Carey, Mary Catherine Taylor, Cathy Donohue, Theresa Froese, Beverley Jackson, Wanda Morryto, Bryan Ingles and Paul Wilson. As usually happens, the very tiny people were extremely popular, calling forth applause and delighted laughter, as they displayed the lovely clothes. Little comment was either necessary or possible. Some very attractive and practical clothes were shown, including casually decorated table in the lobby. In charge of the table was Mrs. Dean Lawson. The serving was done by the Girl Guides of the 5th Richmond Hill Company of St. Mary's Parish. During intermission too, the drawing took place on stage for the fifteen door prizes donated by local merchants. This was managed by Mr. Clive Bettles, assisted by members of the Fashion Show committee, Mrs. Ella McCullough and Mrs. Dorey Carey.

After the intermission, Mrs. Wilson called to the stage a group of people who worked very hard outside regular hours, to assist the C. W. L. in making the Fashion Show possible. These were Mrs. Salt, the manager of D'Allairs, Northtown Plaza, Mrs. Zoln of Judy's Children's Wear, Richmond Heights, Mr. Cox, Manager of Shields' Footwear, Richmond Heights; Miss Patterson of Belina's Hats, Willowdale, Karl, of the Viennese Salon, Richmond Heights, Mrs. June Locking of Beauty Counsellors, Richmond Hill, and Mr. Booth of Ken Stiff Furs, Richvale. Custom Jewellery was supplied by Richmond Heights Gift Shop. "Flowers for the tea table and the stage were supplied by the Van Wieringen, Hillop Florist and the bridal bouquets by Hansen Flowers, Elgin Mills." On behalf of the C. W. L. Mrs. Wilson thanked these ladies and gentlemen and the other firms who co-operated to help the show.

The second half of the Fashion Show comprised afternoon and evening wear, coats, suits and furs. There were a group of lovely woolen dresses in a variety of soft and vivid colours, several beautiful and practical fur-trimmed fall suits, attractive cloth coats, and a group of lovely cocktail and semi-formal gowns, in rich colours and materials. These clothes were complemented by an unusual and stunning collection of hats, with appropriate jewellery and footwear. The furs - coats, jackets and stoles - showed a wide selection of colours and styles available, within a moderate price range. The show closed with an attractive bridal party. The models were Mrs. Norman Leeyus, who organized the fashion show, Bertha Bettles, Jimmie Czukar, Peggy Harrison, Joan Leonard, Noreen Leonard, Reginald Malboeuf, Ruth McConkey, Gail Methe, Julie Parker and Phyllis Yawney and Mr. Bill Hamilton did an experienced and competent job a stage manager.
