Northern University More Than Just Dream

Every university in Ontario, with the exception of Ottawa's Carleton — and the YMCA helped found it — has been started by a church and churches. And now comes the news that a northern university is about to be born — the Huntingdon College. When it opens, it will be the first new school to come into being under the United Church since Union.

Of interest to Richmond Hill readers is the news that the executive secretary of the University of Northern Ontario Association is the Rev. Edward Newbery, son-in-law of Mrs. D. S. Bost of Richmond Hill and a former northern pastor (he served in three northern Ontario churches, just back from a nine years' stint in college work on the Trinidad Mission Field).

The Northern University fund came into being a little over a year and a half ago, when the Rev. E. S. Lautenslager of St. Andrew's Church, Sudbury, and some other United Church ministers and laymen decided that unless they started working on such a project the time was fast approaching when parents might not get their youngsters into a university.

Since that time Anglicans, Presbyterians, Baptists, Jews and a good many Roman Catholics have joined the UNOA, which is expected to grow to approximately 25,000 members. St. Andrew's Church alone has already pledged $120,000 in support of a northern university.

It was at this time in his ministry he married a Victoria College student, Rena Bost, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Bost of Richmond Hill, a modern languages student. And now began his ministry in northern pulpits, first at Magnetawan, later at Sudbury and Gore Bay on Manitoulin Island before he returned with his wife and five children to service there fitted and equipped him for his appointment to Trinidad.

Peter Newbery, 21, is in Victoria College, Mary, 18, is studying at Ontario Ladies' College, Andrew 16, is at Pickering College, and Susan 12 and Wendy, the baby of the family are at home.

New Owner Hair Stylist

Mrs. Madeline Kearsley of 309 North Taylor Mills Drive, Richmond Hill, has assumed the management of the Allencourt Hair Stylist on the new shopping centre at Markham and Bayview.

Mrs. Kearsley's husband Fred is sales manager for Marlin's the famous gun and razor blade manufacturers. Years of Travel They have two children, Grant aged 18 and Susan aged 12. They were all born in Canada but have lived at a variety of addresses because Mr. Kearsley's employment has caused the family to travel quite a lot over many parts of Canada and the U.S.A. Mrs. Kearsley says that they have lived for five years at four different places in the past twenty years and that "next time my husband goes on circuit, I'll stay here."

The family have recently completed five years at Conn. U.S.A. Mrs. Kearsley herself has been employed in business since 1934 and owned her own business at St. Catharines, Ontario for four years. She completed special training in all phases of beauty culture in New York including a special course Hair Tinting, Permanent Waving and Hair Conditioning.

Loves Her Work Mrs. Kearsley says she likes this neighbourhood and the town and its people and is looking forward to a long and happy residence during which she hopes to be of service to all these women who care to take advantage of her long background and experience in this type of business. She "just loves to make other people beautiful by giving loving care to their hair and beauty problems," she says. Mrs. Kearsley's hobbies are of an active kind and includes horse riding and hunting. She is also a dog fancier and keeps a lovely Newfoundland which she has entered in many contests, recently participating in the Sportmen's Show here.

REV. J. W. E. NEWBERY

Edward Newbery was born in a parsonage at Sheffield and grew up near Kitchener. In high school and early college years two of his closest friends were Harold Vaughan and Earl Lautenslager. They all became ministers. In Victoria College and Emmanuel Edward Newbery led his class in arts and won the Prince of Wales gold medal, then led his year again on graduation and won the post-graduate fellowship for a year's study in Germany. Later he studied in the Holy Land before returning to Canada where he became assistant minister to Dr. Stanley Russell at Deer Park, To-

River Of Gold To Mark Girl Guides' 50th Year

When the Canadian Girl Guide movement reaches its fiftieth year in 1960 the celebration will include a tribute to the many persons and organizations that have helped make Guiding so successful, as well as special jubilee camps (in July) and a jubilee celebration that will spread from the Dominion organization out to the provinces and into each and every district in January and February.

In between in May a public "thank you" to every organization that is assisting Girl Guiding in Canada will be seen in every community from Victoria to St. John's and from Aklavik to Windsor next spring as a river of golden tulips bursts into bloom from one end of the country to the other. From formal beds in Canada's capital city and in the provincial capitals planted by professional gardeners all the way to window boxes and flower pots of brave blooms in hospital wards in the far north, the golden tulips will nod their thank-yous as a public sign of appreciation to those who have helped Canadian Girl Guiding along its way. Richmond Hill has its six Guide companies and twelve Brownie packs, totalling about 475 girls in the blue and brown uniforms with some 35 women volunteers as leaders for their once-a-week meetings and in additional two groups of civic-minded women on the two Richmond Hill Guide Associations.

One large golden bed will be planted at the Municipal Hall where the council has made a room available for the 8th Brownie Pack. Also the pretty thank-you will be in evidence at most of the schools, and where a school such as Beverley Acres or MacKillop has two Brownie packs as well as a Guide Company the girls have gone together to make one large bed. St. Gabriel, St. Matthew's and St. Mary's Churches will have a thank you flower bed blooming in their lawns. Nearly three quarters of a million tulip bulbs have been especially brought in from Holland for this cross-Canada jubilee planting.

Richmond Hill girls alone will have planted over a thousand bulbs before winter sets in and covers them with a snow blanket; and as the dry hard bulbs are set in the ground the anticipation of the spring blooming is a demonstration of the slogan for the 1960 Jubilee year of "Girl Guiding Looks Forward."
