

Joyce - McLean Nuptials

Mrs. Kenneth Lawrence McLean, the former Edith Margaret Joyce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Joyce of Victoria Square, is seen above, about to sign the register with her husband, who is the son of Mrs. A. McLean of Stratford. The happy couple were married in a lovely double-ring ceremony at Victoria Square United Church.

Victoria Square United Church was the scene of a double ring ceremony when Edith Margaret Joyce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Joyce, became the bride of Kenneth Lawrence McLean, son of Mrs. A. McLean, Stratford, Rev. A. F. Binnington officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown of white velvet, fashioned on princess lines with circlet neckline, the bouffant skirt flowing to a chapel train.

A white velvet headress trimmed in orange blossoms held her floor length applied veil and she carried an orchid surrounded with white mums and mauve ribbon.

The matron of honour was the bride's sister, Mrs. Shirley McCague. The bridesmaids, Mrs. David Ellison, Langstaff and Miss Jean Sisler of Port Credit, were gowned alike in cocktail length dresses of mauve velvet styled as the bride's. Their bridesmaids were mauve velvet pillboxes and they carried white gardenias and mauve mums. Miss Sharon Buchanan as flower girl was gowned to match, and carried a nosegay of yellow tea roses and white mums. Mr. William Joyce, Belleville, was best man. The ushers were Donald Carr of Toronto and John McCague of Gormley. At the reception held in the church parlors, the bride's mother wore a lace and nylon net dress in old rose with matching accessories and a corsage of yellow roses and mums. The groom's sister-in-law assisted, wearing pale blue with matching accessories and a corsage of pink roses and mums. For travelling to the east coast the bride donned a beige suit and coat of French suede with dark brown accessories and an orchid corsage. The happy couple will make their home in Richmond Hill. —Photo by Richmond Studios, Maple

(By Edith E. Luesby)

The telephone rang a few days ago and at the other end was a member of group no. 7 of the W. A. of Thornhill United Church. She asked me to give the origin of their group bazaar - Some of the original members are still with them.

When I first attended Thornhill Sunday School there was no class around my age so I went in with the seniors where Mr. David James was teacher. After his death I was appointed leader, the oldest had passed away and the youngest took his place. About a year after I was asked to form a Young Ladies Class and the members were Geraldine Wesley, Rita Dean, Jean McDonald, Marion Smellie (Mrs. B. Sharpless), Rhea Hooper, (Mrs. G. Miller), Evelyn Pitchforth, Lottie Pitchforth (Mrs. A. Hemmingway) Besie Watt, Phyllis Watt. Shortly after the formation of the class, Rev. Mr. Strangway became our minister and with him came his daughter Ruth. She organized and taught the senior girls class. She was an outstanding leader and the girls loved her. It was Ruth who started the C. G. I. T. in Thornhill while with my class I formed a sewing group whom I taught in my home. They learned the art of smocking, hemstitching, Swedish weaving, embroidery etc., At Christmas time the girls decided to make articles for sale in order to have funds for the class. Their work was well done and orders were received so it wasn't long before we had a bank account. The following Christmas the girls decided to have a sale of hand made articles which turned out very successful and the bank account was increased. The adults of the church had become very interested with the work of the class and asked for a display of their handicraft so a hobby shop was held in the Sunday School room. In the meantime Mr. M. J. Johnson had organized a men's class so to not be out done by the girls they gave a play on the evening of January first. The church was packed. This became an annual event to which every one planned to attend. My girls decided to try the same so Miss Margaret Boyle trained their "The Old Quaint Party". The men's class assisted in any way they could and a quartette assisted in the singing. The play was presented in a number of churches in the surrounding districts. During the same year the Young Ladies Class sewed and worked for another bazaar, it was held in November and again was a success. The bank account had grown far beyond their expectations so the girls planned to do something for the church, thus it was a new communion table was ordered. Mr. Charles Sinclair made it in the old shop located north of the Presbyterian Church. He must have become well acquainted with every member of the class for we visited his shop many times. They were a happy group of girls who met in the church the Sunday of the dedication. Mr. Sinclair made and presented new collection plates and Mr. John Davis presented new hymn boards.

In the meantime Miss Strangway's class had grown to be young ladies and wanted to be recognized as a "Young Ladies Class" thus it was that my class became "The Ladies Class" and when the next bazaar was held the two classes united to make it a still greater success. Rev. Mr. Strangway was chosen to serve another charge so Ruth's class needed another teacher. In the meantime Mrs. McKean had come into the community and had joined our class so, on Ruth's departure, she became leader of that group.

About that time my class decided to purchase a new pulpit. The "Young Ladies Class" joined with us in this objective and once again Mr. Sinclair was approached to aid us. We depended on the income from the annual bazaar for finances. On completion of the new pulpit the old one was given to the class who in turn gave it to Richvale church and Geraldine and myself were appointed to make the donation.

Membership of the Sunday school was growing and teachers were needed. One by one members from my class were called to serve and thus became separated. They wanted to still be a class so "The Young Ladies Guild" was organized from both classes. The bazaar was held annually and always it was better than the previous one. As time passed "The Young Ladies Guild" became "The Ladies Guild" and remained under that name until 1957 when they joined the W. A. of the church and are now W. A. no. 7. The roll call is now answered by about sixty five members.

Flag Flown For Queen Presented Vice-president Victoria Square Lions

On a recent visit to Chicago 1st. Vice-President Lion, Lawson Mumberson of the Victoria Square Lions Club took the opportunity of visiting the Headquarters of Lions International. After receiving a warm welcome from the Official Greeter, Mr. Cooper, who it turned out was an old Torontonion, Lion Lawson was taken on a very interesting tour of the offices, including the Japanese section which incidently boasts a typewriter with over 3000 symbols. At the conclusion of the tour which proved that Lions were truly "International" Vice President Mumberson was privileged to meet and chat with the founder of Lions Clubs Melvin Jones, who evinced a very keen interest in Canadian activities. At the end of the visit, in a short ceremony, Lion Lawson was presented with the American Flag which had been flown in front of Lions International building on the occasion of H.R.H. Queen Elizabeth's visit, and which by law must not be flown again on American soil. This was presented to the Victoria Square Club at their regular meeting on October 20th, and will serve as a continual reminder of the warm welcome given by Headquarters to the representative of one of the youngest of their family.
