5000 In York County High Schools To Be Offered T.B. Test Next Year

A County-wide program of skin testing for tuberculosis in more than 5000 York County High School students will be undertaken early in 1960. This announcement featured the report presented to the York County Health Unit by Dr. Robert M. King, Medical Health Officer. Dr. King also reported a considerable increase in the number of whooping cough cases in preschool age children. The report stated "A widespread increase in the number of cases of whooping-cough in preschool and school-age children has appeared in recent weeks in York County. The severity of the whooping-cough infection varies from child to child and is most severe in the youngest age group and infants. Diagnosis of whooping-cough is often difficult, and the family doctor should always be called. Many cases are overlooked or neglected, not reported to the Health Unit, and thus the overall picture is difficult to assess. To prevent whooping-cough inoculation of infants of 3 months of age with whooping-cough vaccine combined with other usual vaccines is important and no baby should lack this protection.
