

Marking 10th Anniversary

New Shipment Of Books For Kleinburg Library

(By Janet Bertion)
A brand new shipment of travelling library books has arrived at the Kleinburg Public Library to mark the tenth anniversary of the library this week.

Mrs. Roy Cain, librarian, reports that there are about 40 new books including the best seller "Exodus" by Leon Uris, and a variety of non-fiction on antique china, quilt making, and refinishing furniture.

The annual meeting will be held Monday at 8 p.m. in the Kleinburg Public School, with Miss Barbara Smith, director of children's library services for the department of education, as guest speaker.

Miss Smith is expected to discuss such burning issues as why the L. M. Montgomery "Anne of Green Gables" series have been dropped from most libraries along with Wizard of Oz books.

April 3-9 is Library Week in Canada but Kleinburg board members moved up their celebrations to coincide with their annual meeting and the tenth anniversary. Board members from Woodbridge, Bolton, King, and Maple have been also invited to attend. The public is invited to share the meeting and the fresh tenth birthday cake and cookies and coffee afterwards.

Mrs. Arnold Miller, Kleinburg's former librarian and the chief spark of the project through the years, will be guest speaker also.

More than 200 new books were acquired this year including donations from individuals and the travelling libraries. A total of $207 was spent on new books. Over the ten years, more than 1000 worth of new books have been bought.

Circulation this year jumped to a grand total of 3563, an enormous increase over the first struggling years after it was founded as an offshoot of the Farm Forum, by a few dedicated workers. Library experts say this circulation figure is very high on a per capita basis of population. There are about 140 borrowers in the library. School population is less than 100.

Throughout the years the library has especially catered to children as they form the bulk of the readers, but chairman Mrs. James Reid points out that the library is happy to buy any special book for the shelves. One of the greatest disappointments of the board members is the small number of adult readers. Some of the books may have cost five or ten dollars and then if they circulate only a few times, are hardly worth the money.

More than 200 books were withdrawn from circulation this year in order to keep the collection up to date and moving. Some were donated to the Weston San. Books have also been donated to the library in memory of friends, and have been so inscribed in front.

Money for the operation of the library comes from the department of education, occasionally Vaughan Township and a few school boards, membership drives, donations and bake sales. Schools like Mount Lebanon, Elder's Mills, Burlington, Coleraine, Twin Elms, and Purpleville, have at times taken part also, and have brought carloads of pupils over to borrow books for themselves and the others.

Library officials and the department of education agree that very few schools can themselves afford to get enough books to make a substantial collection. Bookmobiles are the ultimate bookmark of most rural libraries, and Kleinburg officials hope that this too may someday be arranged.

Every year the board sponsors a library contest among the schools - when the pupils write book reviews on some book they have borrowed from the library. Recent past winners have included Anne Leslie, Billy Miller, Karen McNeily, Harold Irwin, Helen Burbridge, Marilyn Hogg, Jane Leslie, Viola Shaw, Penny Berton, Neal Irwin, Keith Simpson, Sue Ann Christenson, and Heather Reid.

The library is open from 2-5 p.m. Wednesday afternoons, and from 7:30 - 9:30 p.m. Wednesday evenings. Mrs. Roy Cain is in charge in the afternoon, with student helpers Kathy See, Heather Keown, Bernice King and Mary Lou McLean. Evening volunteer help is Mrs. J. R. Leslie, past president, Mrs. Walter Griffith, Mrs. Van Christenson, Miss W. K. Balshaw, and Mrs. Andrew Gillespie.

Headford's W. A. president, Mrs. D. Calder, attended the Annual Meeting of the Women's Association of York Presbytery on Wednesday last in Trinity United Church in Uxbridge, taking with her Mrs. Wm. Wellman, Mrs. Hugh Deverell and Mrs. Acreman. The weather was perfect, and attendance the largest in several years. Devotions by the Goodwood W. A. had for its theme Hallowed Be Thy Name. Reports from all Department Secretaries indicate growing interest among the women of the Presbytery in all branches of the work of the Church. Need was expressed for overseas relief. Holy Communion was celebrated by Rev. Donald Jay, minister of Trinity Church.

After a dainty lunch, served by the women of Trinity W. A. there was a wonderful address by Miss Annie Bishop, who is a sort of liaison officer of immigration for the United Church in Metropolitan Toronto. Election and installation of Officers by Rev. J. Morris of Aurora, followed, bringing to a close a profitable and worthwhile program.

One day last week the Harry Burtons received a great surprise when Mrs. Burton's sister dropped in with her new husband, while they were on their honeymoon. Georgie felt this gave her a great lift after the siege of mumps etc their household has been through. The neighbourhood joins in congratulations for Mr. and Mrs. Cowan.

We were happy on Sunday to welcome Mr. J. E. Currey, B. A. with his wife and young son to our Church service. Mr. Currey, who is a cousin of Rev. Eldridge Currey, former much beloved minister of this charge, was filling in for Mr. Tom Phillips. Mr. Currey's sorry for the children was most timely, being about a young lad's keen consciousness of thankfulness for meals, in view of the fact that the weekly bulletin carries several Mealtime Graces.

Mr. Binnington announced the beginning of our Lenten study for March 2nd; and there were on hand a good number of copies of the booklet to be used - God and His People, the Renewal of the Church.

We are offering belated birthday greetings to Don Brodie for February 5, and to Tommy Clarkson, who was eight years old on the sixth. Greetings for February 10, also to Mrs. Freeman Baker.

Everyone is happy to hear of the progress of Mr. Fred Lee.

Some Headford folk who tried ice fishing last week, found it both enjoyable and profitable.
