York M.O.H. Gives Report

Dr. Robert M. King, Director and Medical Officer of Health for York County reports that although there are no extreme outbreaks - measles, mumps and whooping-cough are prevalent at this time of the year. "Each of these diseases is serious," Dr. King advises, "and should not be regarded lightly by parents or school teachers. The family physician should be consulted in every case to ensure proper treatment and prevention of complications."

Another serious illness, most prevalent at this time of the year when winter is giving way to spring, and body-resistance to disease is at its lowest ebb, is influenza. Dr. King says complications during a seige of influenza are most apt to occur when the patient becomes over-tired, or under-nourished. School children with flu should be kept home until fully recovered.

Total cases of communicable diseases reported during January this year were 70. There were no cases of poliomyelitis or red measles. Chicken-pox was most prevalent, with 27 cases reported; mumps 17 cases and whooping cough 12.
