Vaughan Farmers Host 3 Conservation Tours

Mr. William Bryson of King-Township loaned his farm last Thursday while his son, Councillor Jesse Bryson was lecturer to a busload of junior high school students from Willowdale undertaking a farm tour sponsored by the Metropolitan Toronto and Region Conservation Authority. In charge of the tour was Tom Barber, Field Officer, MTRCA, and Teacher William Ronald, Councillor Bryson explained conservation measures as they applied to farm land and went into the history of the district. In one instance he pointed out great, squared pine timbers 45 feet long, salvaged from an old barn, and explaining that the timbers had been hewn from giant trees which once covered most of Vaughan.

The purpose of general conservation tours is to familiarize young people with such things as land uses, glaciation, reforestation, weather forecasting fish and wildlife and related matters. Mr. Barber who is a B.A. M.S.A. and operates out of Woodbridge, told "The Liberal" that city children in particular are fascinated by such tours. "Most of them are now one or two generations removed from the land," he said, "and when they go on one of our tours it is like stepping into a new world."

Mr. Barber said that the authority has hopes of building a permanent conservation school camp in the Albion Hills five miles north of Bolton. "The money problem arises, of course," he said. "About $100,000.00 must be found." He said it was hoped that perhaps a number of conservation-minded commercial and industrial firms would be able to help out. He went on to say, "To date the site has been found and excavation work has been completed. It is proposed that the school will provide accommodations for about 35 youngsters at a time who would avail themselves of the school for a three-day period.

There will be a kitchen, dining room, assembly hall, a classroom and offices for teachers. There also would be a laboratory." He said the need for a school is great. Naturally, Vaughan school children along with those from other townships would benefit.

All schools within the Authority's watershed would be involved. The watershed comprises the territory from Long Branch and Ajax and into Goodwood on the north-east border of Uxbridge Township to just south of Aurora and a mile north of Norma Mills and to Brampton on the west. The school would centralize conservation research as it applies to students and co-ordinate tours.

Mr. Barber said the enthusiasm for conservation in the past three years since the formation of the Authority has been nothing less than astounding. "In the past three years nearly 1,400,000 persons have taken part," he said. "Last year the figure stood at 800,000."

He said that it is becoming increasingly recognized that conservation tours represent a most important part of a student's general education. "Conservation activity helps round out the young personality," he said. "It provides a new outlook and has the effect of adding to the student's mental dimensions. In dollars and cents terms the result of conservation programs will save our province millions." Last Thursday's lecture by Councillor Bryson was the third such he delivered during the week.

Vaughan Tells Pine Grove Assoc. Not to Worry Over Annexation

Vaughan Township Council will keep the Pine Grove Association fully informed about Woodbridge's proposed annexation of part of Vaughan and which, depending on the observer's analysis, is possibly, tentatively, improbable or totally impossible. On a recommendation from Clerk-treasurer Jim McDonald on Monday, council agreed that the association, which represents 75 per cent of the residents in the Pine Grove area, should be kept fully abreast of developments.

The decision to do so arose out of a letter from the association which said, in effect, that because of the ambiguous situation relating to the proposed annexation, the members felt they were being used as a political football. Woodbridge's Pine Grove area, which is being annexed, would be kept fully abreast of developments.

Fine Sarnia Man $200.00 And Costs On Impaired Driving Charge

A Sarnia man employed in Richmond Hill was fined $200 and paid costs of $8.00 on Monday when convicted of impaired driving by Magistrate O. S. Hollinrake in Newmarket Court. Provincial Police officers of the Bond Lake Detachment said that Fred Miller, 41, was arrested and charged on September 17 near Aurora after they observed his car veering five times in a matter of a half mile or less. Police said he blamed his steering wheel for the veering but a test showed there was nothing wrong with the wheel. He had a gashed forehead and could not remember how he got it. At this point the testifying officer made a slight error and said: "Accused had difficulty staggering." Miller told the magistrate that he had consumed a few bottles of beer at Bradford and had stopped for food and coffee on the way back. He halted his car at the top of a rise and "the car was in neutral and started to roll ahead. I banged my head against the steering wheel when I jerked on the brakes," he said. "My eye filled with blood and I was sort of dazed too. I figured I'd better head for home and get looked after and at this time the police caught me." Miller had pleaded not guilty. His driver's license was ordered suspended.
