Anstey, fighting for control, said "Pierre Berton, our detractor, has written vividly about a parent's horror when the lives of his children were threatened. How would he feel if his children were subjected to ridicule and pain because of unproven accusations against him?" He said he had made a statement to all the major newspapers refuting the charges levelled against him.

Anstey, Ralph And Fenn Deny P. Berton Charges

In tense, emotion-packed voices, Bruce M. Ralph, seeking re-election to Vaughan township council and Eric W. Anstey, running for reeve, told 600 persons in Maple Community Centre on Monday night that charges by columnist Pierre Berton questioning their integrity as public servants were false. They spoke to a mixed reception of handclapping and cheers, boos, catcalls and interruptions amid the flashing of bulbs and while television cameramen and furiously scribbling reporters from the province's major newspapers recorded the event. The 375 chairs in the big hall were filled, and people were jammed six-deep in the back and two-deep along the side walls, while more ratepayers leaned perilously out of the balcony.

In his column Berton had linked the names of Anstey, Bruce and Ronald M. Fenn, with several development companies, intimating that the two councillors had actively sought to further the interests of some of the companies in Vaughan township.

Ralph Bruce said: "While on council everything I did was in my capacity as a lawyer and broad-winner." Loud laughter greeted this statement. Continuing he said that his legal work on behalf of one developer involving the buying and selling of a 64-acre parcel of land near Maple at a $33,000 profit was an upright transaction, well known to his colleagues and that his personal integrity had never been called into account. "I never tried to hide anything because there was nothing to hide," he said. He vigorously disclaimed having acted for other companies mentioned in the article. "Relative to one of those firms," he went on, "I have been acting as its lawyer for years. As a township official I have never allowed my clients' interests to clash with the good of Vaughan." When asked whether, as a lawyer, he would know if he had a good case of libel against Berton - he would, he said: "At the moment I wish to refrain from making any decision on that subject." He said the newspaper article obviously was designed to break up the possibility of a big front vote on Saturday.

Anstey, fighting for control, said "Pierre Berton, our detractor, has written vividly about a parent's horror when the lives of his children were threatened. How would he feel if his children were subjected to ridicule and pain because of unproven accusations against him?" He said he had made a statement to all the major newspapers refuting the charges levelled against him.

While it had been expected that most of the questions from the crowd would be directed at Anstey, Bruce Ralph and Fenn, council candidates and other contestants were asked several. Vic Ryder, running for reeve, when asked why it was that council members had not suspected that something might be remiss in the last two years, replied it was one thing to suspect and something else to act on suspicions without proof, but said that his suspicions had caused him to drag his feet about the signing of one subdivision agreement which had yet to be finalized.

By three votes, one of Nobleton's sitting trustees was unseated in Monday's election. Harold Long, a steel worker, was returned with 173 votes, and Mel Sampson, transport driver, with 147. Newcomer Cyril Flinders, aircraft technician, received 103 votes and will replace John Bragg, druggist, drawing 105 votes, on next year's Police Village Board.
