Aurora Industry Employing 30 Expands - New Modern Factory

Aurora's industrial consolidation and face lifting continues apace, with word this week that the construction of the new modern factory of Alanco (Aurora Limited) will get under way immediately. The new site is on the south side of Dunning Ave on an extension of Edward Street and the one-story, flat-topped structure will cover 25,000 square feet. It will be 148 feet by 98 feet, backing the 36 by 70 office building already in existence. The plant is located at the corner of Edward Street and Connaught Avenue. Thirty men find employment with the firm, the purpose of which is to oxidize or coat the surface of metal by making it the anode of an electrolytic bath, preventing deterioration. While the cost of the new factory is considerable, officers of the company declined to quote a definite figure. Aurora's Town Engineer Stan Murray recently told council at the engineering firm in charge of the street-extension project is ready to go ahead. The new road will run almost parallel to the CNR tracks to serve the new plant formerly known as Anodized Products. Cost of the road is to be borne by the firm under local improvement covered in an agreement between the town and Calwood Ltd., and letters from W. R. Case of the realty firm and Orlando Sauro of Alanco. Construction of the new factory will mean that the firm will be able to take advantage of greater opportunities in future which could mean an increase in the number of employees. The company will gradually move its operations to the new plant during this year. Ball, Craig, Short and Strong are the engineer-architects.

Sutton Area Manager -

Norm Chatterley Has 36 Yrs. Hydro Service

NORM CHATTERLEY

Area Manager of Ontario Hydro's Sutton Rural Operating Area, was born at Thornhill, and lived for many years in Richmond Hill.

A man of practical experience who steadily worked his way upwards through various positions to his present post of Area Manager at Sutton, William Norman Chatterley, called "Norm" by his many friends, is widely known and highly regarded throughout Ontario Hydro's Central Region.

Norm Chatterley began his career at the bottom of the ladder, training first as an electrician with the former Toronto and York radial line, where he served in the old barns at St. Clair and Yonge. Norm's boyhood ambition was to be a railway engineer, but working in a service capacity for the old radial line was the nearest he came to this original goal.

It was this job with the Toronto and York radial line that brought him into contact with Ontario Hydro. The Manager of the line suggested to Norm that he transfer from the car barns to the line crew and work as a line-man, since Ontario Hydro was taking over the railway. This work also brought him into close association with his long-time friend Dunc Chamney, formerly Bond Lake Rural Power District superintendent and now Ontario Hydro's Central Region Personnel Officer, and eventually as a member of Mr. Chamney's staff. The two met when Norm and Dunc were both riding the radial line to do various jobs in the Sutton area. At that time in the early 1920's, Dunc Chamney with a crew was building the electric service for the village of Sutton, and Norm Chatterley was installing the lights in the former radial line station at Sutton. They became good friends as a result of their numerous contacts and this friendship has broadened over the years.

After working as a lineman for the Toronto and York radial line, Norm Chatterley joined Ontario Hydro as a lineman in July, 1924, and was attached to the Bond Lake R.P.D. staff, where friend Dunc Chamney was in his charge. Probably the warmest tribute was paid to Norm by his former boss, who declared that

Vaughan Twp. To Regulate Moving Of Buildings

Vaughan Township is to have a by-law to regulate the moving of buildings on or across township roads and to authorize the issuing of moving permits. This move, made at its January 23 meeting, was the result of a recent happening when a house was moved up Dufferin Street to No. 7 Highway. In the process of moving, the house knocked over a number of mail boxes. Township police got wind of the affair, held up the trucker overnight until he agreed to sign an agreement to put up the mail boxes. Had he refused to do so, the township would have been held responsible by the irate property owners.

Markham Council Gets Over Hurdle On Library Taxes

The Thornhill Public Library was repita to have the highest per capita circulation of its books of any public library in the province, Councillor Alan Sumner told members of Markham Township Council at their Monday evening meeting. Circulation in recent years, he said, had risen from 3,000 to 18,000.

The circulation figures were disclosed when it was shown that, unconsciously, a financial hardship had been visited on the Library Board. The Board had rented property until recent years. Finally a suitable piece of property for a permanent headquarters had been secured. The Thornhill Lions Club had acquired the "Good Samaritan" in acquiring the property.

As, however, the Assessment Act did not permit tax rebates to be made except direct to the Library Board, the property, being owned by the Lions Club, was subject to municipal taxation. Township councillors jumped over the hurdle by deciding to give the Library Board a grant equivalent to the amount of taxes, some $290.00.

The Lions Club, it is understood, will hand the property to the municipality for the traditional "one dollar" when fully paid for.

Readers from areas considerably outside the immediate library neighbourhood were making use of its services in considerable numbers. It was reported. A suggestion that Vaughan Township should be asked to pay part of the grant was cheerfully dropped when Councillor Sumner pointed out that Markham's neighbouring municipality did not levy taxes on the park and swimming pool which lay within the Vaughan section of Thornhill Police Village.

AURORA - Council is informed that the local area one block west of Yonge Street is being considered as a location for a brewer's warehouse, a liquor store, and a large food supermarket.
