Vocations In Handwriting— Day-To-Day Attitude Is Good Characteristic

By ALEX SJOBERG (C.G.A.—I.G.A.S.)

One of her friends happens to be the intellectual, spiritual type marching in his vivid imagination, above the clouds, Harry (we'll call him that) puzzles our nurse assistant, "Harry is always in orbit," she said once, chuckling. "But who am I to judge?"

Once she sent us a newspaper clipping which dealt with an interview of John Wayne, the cowboy actor. Wayne said: "Don't judge other people until you know the experiences they have been through, and then only if you understand their experiences." In an accompanying note our nurse assistant said: "I'm certain I'll never understand what goes on in Harry's mind, but as long as he gets a kick out of his trips to Mars that's all that counts." In her mind she is of the earth, in his mind he soars among the stars... and intellectually never the twin shall meet.

Many times children will start out writing like this, but depending on the developing influence of experience, the writing often will change, reflecting the general or specific development of various traits. We know a successful writer of do-it-yourself articles who writes like this... but despite the difference in the degree of skills they all have a down-to-earth, day-to-day approach to tasks and problems. And there is no doubt that these good people are largely responsible for keeping the world on an even keel while others trip the abstract light fantastic.

While her determination is not short-lived determination is persistence and will power and she knows enough not to undertake tasks she realizes she will not complete.

Is this week's specimen you will find reproduced certain strokes of her writing. The important thing to consider is the fact that there are no pronounced upper or lower loops, that the emphasis is on writing pretty well on the base line. It is basic to such writers to feel happiest when they are in intimate contact with the everyday environment.

Neighbourhood Notes
Friends and former neighbours of the Don Hellings family will be interested to hear they are enjoying living in California very much. The Hellings were residents of Brookside Road for some time and moved to California to live last fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Kerwin visited Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Minihine last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Butler enjoyed a winter holiday last week in Huntsville, curling in the Muskoka International Bospital and with lots of snow up north they spent some time skiing too.

Mrs. Forest Snell flew to New Smyrna Beach last week where she is planning to live.

Mrs. H. G. Robertson is in the Grace Hospital, Toronto and her many friends in the district wish her a speedy recovery.

We are glad to hear Mrs. Healey is home from the hospital and making a good recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Kerwin entertained Mr. C. P. Wyman, General Manager of Bishop Products Ltd., and Mrs. Wyman and 14 members of the staff at a curling party and buffet supper afterwards at their home.

Jefferson Cubs, Brownies and Scouts
The Cubs had a pleasant hike last Saturday at Maple Downs Golf Course when they followed various animal tracks, deer, jack rabbit and squirrel. They finished up at Pete's for hot chocolate.

Here is a reminder about the York Summit District Sixers' Council on Saturday, January 28 at 2 p.m. in Markham United Church.

Sympathy
The sincere sympathy of the community is extended to the Duncan family of Brookside Road on the death of Mr. George Duncan Sr.'s father after a lengthy illness. Mr. Duncan was buried in Sudbury.

Women Volunteers—Working Army In Dedicated Fight Against Cancer

Ontario's Minister of Health, Dr. M. B. Dymond, addressed delegates from the largest working army of women volunteers in the world at luncheon at the Lord Simcoe Hotel, Toronto, January 18th.

Those attending the conference from Richmond Hill and District Unit were the following, Mrs. W. Lennox, Richmond Hill, Mrs. C. Nichols from Unionville and Victoria Square, Mrs. Burgin, Stouffville, and Mrs. O. Stalter, Markham.

Ontario Division's Women's Service Committee, the Canadian Cancer Society, representing delegates from 83 Units and 198 branches throughout Ontario, gathered together January 18-19th for their 1961 Women's Service Conference. They challenged each other, and every woman in Ontario, with the job ahead in the fight against cancer during the coming year.

Feature of the conference was "Front Page Challenge," a lively

Management Praised—
Eighty Senior Citizens Cared For At York Manor

That haven for senior citizens, York Manor, operated by the County of York, cost $91,035 to run in 1960, it was shown at the meetings of county council last week.

The revenue which carried it came from Old Age Assistance paid to blind persons amounting to $3,596. Old Age Security payments and other payments by residents brought in $35,482. Sundry payments accounted for approximately $1,100. Largest income came from the provincial subsidy, totalling $39,294. Actual direct cost paid by York County taxpayers was $11,520.

Food and salaries were the two greatest items of expense. The former cost $19,194. Salaries amounted to $41,663. The sum of $7,053 was spent on welfare of residents. Improvements, maintenance, and operational costs ran to approximately $10,000 with household supplies and medical expenses accounting for $3,800 each.

Eighty Looked After
Eighty people were looked after in the home during the year — 42 male and 38 female, making the average cost per person approximately $1,140. Rising costs were reflected by the statement that per diem cost per person for 1959 was $2.79. The average food cost per person per meal was 36 cents.

There are 21 employees on the staff of York Manor, including the superintendent and matron. Staff conditions have been improved in recent years with each member working five days per week. There are three eight-hour shifts daily.

A good report on the condition of the home was given by Dr. W. L. Carruthers, County council, receiving the report on the home, expressed satisfaction at the management given by Mr. and Mrs. Peter Wilde.

Auxiliary Appreciated
Special tribute was paid to a hard-working group — members of the home's auxiliary, a volunteer body whose sole idea is to help make residents of York Manor happy and comfortable in their declining years.

There has been some controversy as to who might be admitted to residence in the home, the report to county council declared. Now eligible are those over 60 and incapable of properly supporting themselves or those mentally incompetent but who are not eligible for admission to an institution under the Mental Hospitals Act but who require care, supervision and control. Also eligible are those over 60, confined to bed but not in such condition as to require care in a public hospital or hospital for incurables. Included, too, are those under 60 who because of special circumstances cannot be adequately cared for.

Temporary Basis
Paying residents to the home for normal care are only accepted on a temporary basis and may be discharged if accommodation is required for indigent residents.
