SPRING COMPLAINT

This time of year there is one service problem that every car owner should attend to without delay. It is mis-aligned front wheels due to winter ruts and spring pot holes.

The pothole problem is a temporary one, of course, but it is the grand finale to a torture test you have been giving your car over winter's ice and ruts. The aftermath can include cut tires and M. R. Bear damage to springs, shocks, wheel bearings, tie-rod ends and the whole exhaust system.

The best remedy for pot-holes is to cut your speed so you miss as many as possible! But even though you miss 'em all, you can be sure that the rough roads of winter have set you up for some major bills in the future, unless you take preventive action now.

Failure to correct misalignment can result in rapid and excessive wear to your front tires. We will be glad to check your alignment along with a general examination of your muffler, tail pipe, brakes, etc. Tightening body rattles, a few crucial spots is also a good idea. Winter is tough on shocks absorbers and in any once-over they should receive special attention.

Like good doctors, our mechanics have no desire to operate unless absolutely necessary. If there is nothing wrong, they'll tell you.

Don't forget the May Dance, Friday, May 5th, sponsored by the King City Home & School Association to be held at All Saints Anglican Parish Hall.

'Service For Patrons' Is Reason For Court

For the first time in many years Richmond Hill has its own traffic court. The first session was held in the Council chamber at the Municipal Building on Wednesday, with Magistrate O. S. Hollinrake officiating. Mayor James Haggart, by invitation of Col. Hollinrake, occupied the bench with him during the opening ceremonies.

With "service" being the keynote of modern merchandising, even justice is beginning to conform to the pattern. Opening of the court will save time and travelling for local offenders, although it is doubtful whether all its patrons will appreciate the efforts made in their behalf.

'Liberal' Staff Member To Discuss Handwriting On Channel 9, Monday

Certified Grapho Analyst Alex Sjoberg of 'The Liberal,' whose weekly column "Character In Handwriting" has become a popular feature of the paper, will demonstrate his science Monday evening over CFTO-TV (Channel 9) between 11-1:30 p.m. on the 'BETTER LATE' hour. The analyst, who helped bring this branch of psychology to the attention of the public through his own radio program some years ago, by numerous articles and public appearances, said, "Handwriting, which is brain-writing, is a speedy, easily understood and effective means of helping the individual understand himself a little better, to the point he can get more out of life." So to those interested in human nature in general, it will be Channel 9, 11-11:30 p.m. Monday.

Coming Tuesday Is Budget Day

Next Tuesday will be "Budget Day" in Richmond Hill. Mayor James Haggart told members of his council on Monday evening. Working in committee, members will assemble at 9 a.m. and will stay with the job until the rate is struck.

While no official estimate has been made by any member of council, "guesstimates" are calling for a three or four mill raise. It is likely to occur because of items completely uncontrollable by council, such as the big high school demand and the county levy.

With the public school board "doing right by our Nell" and looping off a couple of mills on its levy, the municipal "pencil-sharpener" may come up with a three mill increase. One pessimist has come up with a seven mill forecast. Anything from that point down, he says, will be "gravy". Here's hoping for lots of it.

Local Ford Dealer Makes Unusual Offer

R. D. Little & Son Ltd., Richmond Hill's Ford, Monarch Falcon dealer has come up with an unusual offer to the motoring public. A three day Free Driving Trial on new cars. As far as we know this plan is unique inasmuch as a potential customer will be able to test drive the actual car he plans to buy for a period of three days. When interviewed by "The Liberal" this week Mr. R. D. Little president said: "We feel that a lot of competitive owners will take advantage of this unique offer and we hope to prove that it doesn't take high pressure selling to sell a quality line. It's certainly a different approach to retail automobile selling isn't it?"

Apartment Plans Again Discussed Without Results

That perennial topic, the proposed Hurlburt apartments at Centre and Elizabeth Streets, came before Richmond Hill Planning Board at its meeting this week and suffered the usual fate — deferment without decision.

The subject is certain to be "hot potato" when town council and planners hold a joint meeting next Monday. Getting ready for the discussion, Chairman Ross Scrimger asked for preparation of a précis of activities in connection with the Hurlburt application, so that it would be made clear where "procrastination" had occurred. "There is no reason why we should be needed and the finger of scorn pointed at us," he asserted. "If the Mayor and council want this to go through then they should instruct us," he added.

Council Unimpressed At Developer Threat To Appeal To O.M.B.

A threat to take the matter to the Ontario Municipal Board failed to worry members of Richmond Hill Town Council at their meeting this week, when Lawrence L. Wynne of Freewin Builders Limited was refused a change in zoning covering property at Elmwood and Colborne Streets. Purpose was to allow the building of semi-detached residences.

Mr. Wynne claimed that the proposed semi-detached houses, of which he showed pictures, would be an asset. When councillors unanimously refused his application, he told them that the municipality was short-sighted.

Deputy-reeve John Bradstock wanted to know what advantage there would be to the municipality in having the type of building Mr. Wynne proposed. "We have an over-supply of semi-detached right now," asserted Mayor Haggart. "That's your privilege," the latter told Mr. Wynne as he issued his threat to take the matter up with the Ontario Municipal Board.

Departure From Normal Pattern Marks Sessions

Regular sessions of the Toronto East Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church are normally held in Toronto. Departing from the normal routine for the first time, the Presbytery staged its regular session in Richmond Hill on Tuesday. Special meetings have been held in the Hill at long intervals in the past.

Another unusual departure from regular custom took place at this week's gathering. A woman is rarely very much in evidence as the Presbytery holds its session. At the dinner served by the Women's Association of the local congregation Miss Mary Dawson of "The Liberal" staff was honoured by an invitation to tell visitors the history of the local Sunday School, which this year is celebrating its 150th anniversary.

The afternoon and evening sessions of the Presbytery were convened by Moderator Rev. P. Sterling, minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Toronto.

HAVE YOU HEARD THIS ONE?

The husband's proposal that he take two weeks off to go fishing with the 'boys' was getting little sympathy from his wife when he lamented: "All I do is work, work, work... like a horse. I haven't had a vacation in years." "And since when," replied his spouse, "does a horse take a vacation?"

All joking aside it wasn't too long ago when women had to work like horses to keep their family's clothing clean. But what a different story it is today with the modern dry cleaner on the scene. Now all the homemaker has to do is pick up her phone to have garments picked up and made spotlessly clean. Our own number is listed below for your convenience.
