

A SURE WAY TO MAKE THE BEST POSSIBLE DEAL

How much will it cost you to trade your old car on a new one this year?

There is a simple way to make that figure the lowest possible net price by helping the dealer you trade with.

Think about it for a minute and you'll realize that the difference figure is set essentially by two factors: what your dealer can get for your used car and how much it costs him to sell it.

There is a right buyer at the right price for every used car, but it often takes time to find him — sometimes three or four weeks. By letting your dealer know as long as possible in advance that you are going to trade with him you'll give him time to find the right buyer, even before you turn your car in.

It costs a dealer $3.00 to $5.00 per day expenses to keep your used car on his lot — $90.00 to $150.00 per month — which you can help him greatly reduce by this advance notice he has your car to sell.

If you get all your service work done with your trading dealer you'll enable him to "know" your car. He'll then be able to sell it with the confidence it will serve its next owner well.

It logically follows you should pick a dealer you would like to service your car throughout the year. If possible, a local one, who has a reputation for keeping his promises. Do this and you'll reap dividends in cash savings and increased satisfaction.

Dymond Discusses Health in Ontario

Alcoholism

Matthew B. Dymond, MD, CM, Ontario Minister of Health

If 90,000 Ontario men and women were found to be sick with one particular disease at one time newspaper headlines would shout about an epidemic. Every one would be made aware of the problem, we would all learn the signs and symptoms of the disease, and we would take steps to guard ourselves and our families against it.

There are more than 90,000 men and women suffering addiction to alcohol in this province today.

One in every six alcoholics in Ontario is a woman.

Most alcoholics are married, have homes and families, and they are trying to carry on their jobs after a fashion.

These men and women are found in every income bracket, in every kind of occupation, in every neighbourhood.

There are more of them in our large cities than in the rural parts of the province, and there are more of them clustered in the age group between 35 and 50; but some of them are found in every community and in every age group from late teens to the years of retirement.

We call these sick people alcoholics because they have developed a psychological and later a physical need for a chemical known as ethyl alcohol. They can no more get along without alcohol than we can get along without food. (True, some alcoholics can stay away from alcohol for a period of weeks or even months, but eventually they come back to it, and when they do they do so with a vengeance!)

Alcoholics are sick people who desperately need understanding and help. Condemning them, shunning them, or simply telling them to straighten themselves up won't help. It is too complex a condition for that.

What the alcoholic needs is an intelligent, well informed assist in the direction of sobriety and a better organized life. Good intentions and soft-heartedness are not enough. Medical care is often needed too, as well as social and spiritual counselling.

The Government of Ontario has a special agency dedicated to the task of helping alcoholics and of helping other citizens and professional people to help alcoholics more effectively. This is the Alcoholism and Drug Addiction Research Foundation.

The Addiction Research Foundation was set up by the Provincial Government in 1949. It operates a small hospital in midtown Toronto and out-patient clinics in Toronto, London, Ottawa and Hamilton.

The next column in this series will deal at greater length with the Addiction Research Foundation of Ontario and its broad program for coping with this very serious disorder alcoholism.

Any questions on the work of the Department of Health in this field, or suggested topics for these columns, should be sent to the Director of Information and Publicity, Ontario Department of Health, Queen's Park, Toronto.

Redevelopment Meetings Start

"Clean Up Yonge St." Is Challenge As Owners, Planners & Tenants Meet

The first of a series of four meetings which will give property owners and tenants of the downtown business area a chance to sum up the conditions which have led to the deterioration of Yonge Street in Richmond Hill was held this week. The meeting brought in people from the blocks immediately east and west of Yonge Street from Arnold and Lorne to Centre St. While attendance was not as large as hoped for interest was particularly keen.

Purpose of the meeting, Ross Scrimger, chairman of the Richmond Hill Planning Board, told those attending, was to determine their cause and suggest solutions. He emphasized that the primary purpose was to gather facts from which Planning Director Harold Deeks could draw conclusions in his redevelopment work.

"Clean Up Yonge" — One conclusion seemed to be reached by those attending the meeting — "Clean Up Yonge Street." Broken into classifications, the cleaning-up process had three main ones:

- (1) Get rid of the ugly boulevard separating sidewalk from roadway.
- (2) Get rid of the "fence" of hydro poles which made the street unsightly.
- (3) Provide proper downtown parking facilities.

Those attending the meeting were split into two teams for the sake of promoting discussion. One was headed by Harold Sanderson, redevelopment committee member, with Councilor Margaret Southwell acting as recorder. The other was led by Cecil Williams, planning board member, with Douglas Boyd, redevelopment committee member, serving as recorder.

Four-day Holiday For Some

Special schedules, time-tables and opening and closing hours have been instituted by most stores and offices, banks and transportation services in Richmond Hill and area for the Easter week-end.

Banks will close at 3 p.m. Thursday and will not re-open until 9 a.m. Saturday. They will close again at 11 a.m. Saturday and will remain closed until the regular opening hour Tuesday. This schedule applies to all banks in the area.

The post office, on Arnold Street, will be open from 8 to 10 Friday morning although there will be no postal delivery. Mail may be deposited in the box in the lobby of the post office from 8 in the morning until 8 in the evening Good Friday. Regular hours will be observed all day Saturday. On Monday the lobby will again be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. and the post office will be open for all business from 8 until noon. Postal delivery will also be carried out between these hours. The post office will be closed after noon but there will be regular delivery.

Trailways of Canada, the local bus company, will only make one run all day Good Friday, that being the Bayview Avenue run into Toronto. The bus will leave Richmond Hill at 8:35 p.m. There will be no Bathurst Street run and no local bus service. Regular schedules will be observed Monday.

100 Acre Grass Blaze Threatens House, Barn

About 100 acres of grass were burned off in one of Markham Township's largest grass fires Tuesday afternoon. The blaze, which is thought to have started from a cigarette thrown from a car, began on property belonging to Deputy Reeve Lawson Mumberson, and ran southeast along Don Mills Road. The fire, which ran over about three properties, at one time threatened a vacant house and barn but firemen were able to keep the buildings from igniting. Three trucks from Unionville and one from Richmond Hill answered the fire call.

A few hours earlier a large grass fire in the Lake Wilcox area threatened about seven homes. That blaze, believed to have been started by children, is said to have burned to within a foot of some of the homes.

Romeo Micucci

Romeo Micucci, father of Mrs. Eva Parisi of La Antina restaurant, Richmond Hill, passed away unexpectedly in Toronto General Hospital April 12. Prior to his confinement in hospital, Mr. Micucci had been living with a daughter in Willowdale.

Mr. Micucci left his native Italy and went to South America, coming to Canada when he was 17. His first employment was with a Canadian railway company but he travelled extensively in Canada and held various positions. A baker by trade, Mr. Micucci worked for Weston Bakeries for many years until his retirement about five years ago.

He is survived by his seven children, four daughters and three sons. Two brothers still live in Italy.

The funeral took place April 16 from Loblaco Funeral Home in Toronto and interment was at Holy Cross Cemetery in Thornhill. Officiating at the service were Father La Savio and Father Hayes of Mt. Carmel Church, Toronto.

Today's youngsters don't leave footprints on the sands of time — just tire tracks. People get the most kick out of life who do the least kicking.

Vaughan Tp. Planners Refuse Nursing Home

An application for permission to operate a nursing home in the Thornridge sub-division at Thornhill was turned down by Vaughan Township Planning Board this week. Presented by Clark Smith, it involved a large frame house, which Mr. Smith intimated he could sell if his application was approved.

Markham To Stay With County For Inspection Plan

Councillor Sumner of Markham Township Council put up a stiff battle Monday night against the increased charges of the York County Health Unit for inspection service for plumbing. Reeve Dean said the increase had come about due to the cancelling of a grant from the government.

Councillor Sumner said that in view of the rates to be charged he thought the township could handle the service without the county. However, Reeve Dean and Deputy Reeve Mumberson said they felt committed to the support of the plan, as members of county council.
