(By Margaret I. McLean)
"What is education?" asked Mr. Maynard Hallman, Inspector of Public Schools, York 3, as he addressed an attentive audience at the official opening of the 16th Avenue School in Richvale on April 30th. "It has been defined as what you have left after you forget everything you learn in school. It has many purposes — to make better people, to develop innate capacity, to make the child useful to society. In Ontario the official purpose of education is to prepare a child to live in a democracy," he stated.

Mr. Hallman went on to point out that education must predict the demands that the society of the future will make on the children of the present. The child must be prepared for the brave new world with the facts we know today. This poses many problems. Will the child have to know addition in a tomorrow when everything is done by I.B.M.? Will all reading be on tapes? There is no doubt that new methods are changing our outlook in education.

Fundamentals Unchanged

With all these uncertainties, Mr. Hallman felt that there were some fundamentals which would survive the changes. These were the ability to think, to solve problems and make judgments; the skills of communication, the need for which will become more urgent; the need for a sound and healthy physique; the need for an intimate knowledge of environment, to be gained by the study of geography, history and science; an aesthetic need, for the appreciation of good literature, art and music, made even more necessary by increased leisure time; a need for what he called the "Fourth R" — responsibility — it will be necessary to place greater emphasis on co-operative activities involving group procedures; a fifth "R" would be necessary, concluded Mr. Hallman — religion. In the brave new world, one cannot survive without faith.

The meeting was chaired by chairman Lionel Frost of the Board of Trustees of Township School Area No. 1, Markham. He introduced Reeve Wilfred Dean who congratulated both the ratepayers of the district and the trustees for having put up such a fine school. "We look forward," he said, "to the time when the children of this school will take their place as fine Canadians. We hope the school board will continue to supply as fine an education for the children of this area."

Headford News

Representing Headford, Christine Terry, Sharon Rumble and Kathleen Burton attended the C.G.I.T. Rally held in Thornhill United Church on May 5. Minister, Rev. MacDonald spoke to them on the importance of a Christian service in youth. An interesting item on the program was a film on 'How to get along with your parents'. For recreation instruction Mr. and Mrs. I. Foster taught them Scottish Folk Dances.

Headford United Church cancelled the May 5 morning service to allow the members to attend the anniversary services at Brown's Corners.

The barn behind the home rented by Douglas Calder is being torn down by the owner Mike Dunlevy. It had deteriorated beyond use and recently missed being demolished by fire.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Wellman and family visited with their aunts the Misses Margaret and Leta Marshall, Toronto, Sunday May 5. In the morning they enjoyed service at the St. Clair Church of the Nazarene.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Wellman and family, Queensville were guests of their mother, Mrs. William Wellman.

Mrs. William Wellman had the happy experience of spending a day with a friend of her daughter Ruth. Mrs. Joe Sniezik. The Sniezik family has recently moved to Richmond Hill from Kenora.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Clark and Jean visited friends in Oshawa during the week-end.

Brooms, hoes and paint supersede social activities in Headford but anticipation is rife and should produce news eventually. "When I get the kitchen painted," "When I get the garden in!" "Just wait until I get the housecleaning done and then— Even the children, "Oh Boy! just wait until school is over! When I go to camp—" It's Spring fever.

Signs of Spring
One resident offered, "No, no news but can you translate this English sentence into English, "It is meant to meet to mete the correct mete."

Can you? The Oxford dictionary has it. "It is fitting to get together to allot the correct boundary."

Spring is evident too on the farm, stiff legged little lambs, awkward calves and beautiful soil, nursing the seeds that will soon be showing green.

Mrs. Freeman Barker is watching her seedlings hatch. Each day there is a fresh batch of fluffy babies.

Architects & Builders
Trustee John MacKay, chairman of the property committee of the board introduced Mr. P. D. Deciantis and Mr. J. A. Rice, the contractors responsible for the building of the school, stating that in spite of all the difficulties encountered in building the school, they were most co-operative and it had been possible to open the school on schedule.

Mr. MacKay then introduced the architects who designed the school, Mr. D. K. Jackson and N. J. Ypes. Mr. Jackson addressed the meeting briefly. "We did not design a school" he stated. "We designed a building which was bright and cheerful and conducive to instruction and learning. Its transformation into a school was the work of Mr. Meyers and his staff." Mr. Jackson noted that the design of the building incorporated some ideas which departed from the conventional. It is a core type plan and the main concern was to give the classrooms the best location, on the outside, with the best light and ventilation. The boiler room, washroom and administration and storerooms are in the centre, with classrooms on the outside. Because of this design, they were able to shorten the building. The classrooms are also some six feet shorter than the conventional room, for economy and to balance the design. Wardrobes are provided in the corridors which makes for easier maintenance as dirt is not taken into the classrooms.

The gorgeous spring sunshine which we have all been enjoying enables the Horticultural Society to announce its first flower show of the season — The Daffodil Show. It will be held at the Lions' Community Hall on Thursday, May 10 at 8 p.m.

Convened by Mr. Doug Boyd it will provide eleven classes for daffodils and narcissi, three classes for early tulips and six for arrangements.

As guest speaker the society welcomes one of its most active members and past president, Mr. Russell Tilt who will discuss the parks of Richmond Hill. He brings a wealth of experience to his subject for after thirteen years with the Department of Lands and Forests, he is now Secretary of the Ontario Parks Integration Board and Chairman of our own Parks Committee Board. He is thus in a position to report to us in a very personal way the present situation in our town.

Mr. Jackson then thanked the board and their business administrator for their co-operation and told the audience, "You are fortunate in having such people represent you in the important field of education."

The principal of the school, Mr. S. B. Meyers was introduced by Mr. J. D. Stone, chairman of the finance committee. "Some of you have seen the school and have appreciated its aesthetic and practical value" said Mr. Meyers. "The structure of a school does not affect the basic learning of a student but it does affect his attitude and makes for greater effort on the part of not only the pupils but the teachers." Mr. Meyers then called upon the members of his staff to rise and be introduced to the audience.

"It is my privilege to bring to your school the word of God" said Rev. J. V. Mills, B.D. in presenting to the school a bible on behalf of the Public School Trustees' Association of Ontario. Mr. Mills noted that presenting a bible to a new school had been the custom of the association for many years, and that it was a book from which the girls and boys would derive great blessing. He emphasized that it was not a denominational book, but the word of God, and not given to any one sect or denomination.

A moving prayer of dedication was then offered by Rev. H. R. MacDonald, minister of Thornhill United Church and president of the Thornhill and Richmond Hill Ministerial Association.

Ratepayers
Mr. C. F. Gerard of the Richvale East Residents' Association thanked all those involved in the building of the school, and especially the twelve teams of people who went out through the district before the school was started to help get the names, addresses and ages of the children to help the trustees make the decision as to whether or not to build a school.

After the adjournment of the meeting, the members of the audience were conducted on a tour of the school by some of the students and then enjoyed refreshments in the auditorium.

A meeting to organize the Markham 4-H Calf Club was held at Victoria Square Hall, April 25, and the following officers were elected: president Roy Robinson; 1st vice-president George Boynton, secretary Carol Morris; press Bill Robinson.

Club leaders are agricultural representative Dan Rose, Newmarket; assistant, Allan Orr, Victoria Square; Lester Weatherill, Unionville; Don Brodie, Headford. The next meeting will be held on May 16 at Master Feeds farm, at 8 p.m.

AURORA: A suggestion has been made by S. J. Gooding of the museums division of the Ontario Department of Travel and Publicity that Doan Hall, one-time home of Charles Doan, prominent pioneer merchant and Aurora's first reeve, be turned into a museum. The suggestion was made recently when Mr. Gooding toured the home to study the prospects of turning the building into a museum.
