School Inspector McLeod Attends Banff Conference

W. J. McLeod, Inspector of Public Schools York No. 4, accompanied by Mrs. McLeod, was one of seventy school officials from Canada's ten provinces—mainly superintendents and inspectors—home from a two-week work conference at the Banff School of Fine Arts in Banff. They have been studying the problems of educational leadership in local communities at a course offered by the Canadian Education Association in connection with the University of Alberta at Edmonton.

Topics discussed ranged from staff evaluation and in-service training, through program development in elementary and secondary schools to the role of the superintendent in a rapidly changing society. "One of the greatest values of this course," said Dr. A. W. Reeves, the course director "lies in the opportunity provided for an exchange of educational ideas and practices between widely separated areas of Canada. The Canadian Education Association is to be congratulated on bringing school executives together from various provinces to exchange their thinking and points of view on current problems and issues in Canadian education."

This was the tenth such annual conference. In these ten years over two-thirds of the country's inspectors and superintendents have participated in this program. In addition to the school administrators, the courses have included representatives of the Canadian Teachers' Federation, the Canadian School Trustees' Association, the Indian Affairs Branch, and the Department of Northern Affairs.

Major addresses were delivered by eight leading educators and one internationally known journalist and editor. In the keynote address, Dr. C. E. Phillips, Director of Graduate Studies of the Ontario College of Education stated, "It is clearly the administrator's function to provide an environment favourable for teaching, just as it is the teacher's function to create conditions conducive to learning."

A real note of challenge was struck by Dr. Lawrence W. Downey of the Faculty of Education of the University of Alberta. "I believe that the educational leader should be conversant with the phenomenon of change or innovation for two very simple, but, I think, compelling reasons: in the first place, I am convinced that there will be a change in education in the years ahead - for change is an inevitable aspect of modern life - we might as well prepare for it and make the best of it; secondly, I believe there ought to be changes in education—for our schools are not yet all that they could or should be—it is the administrator's business to strive for school improvement, to change the schools in whatever respects they may need hanging."

CUB and SCOUT NEWS
Conservation
In our province we have a great heritage of natural resources. Boy Scouts have always made worthwhile contributions to the wise use of our renewable natural resources. There is scarcely any better way in which a Scout can do his duty to God and the Queen than by carrying out a conservation good turn.

In Scouting there are four proficiency badges relating to conservation: forest, soil, water and wild life. An opportunity is being given by the district, to those Scouts who wish to take advantage of it, (one which would not normally be available to individual boys), to go on two one-day trips during the summer and see some of the many parts of conservation. These trips are being arranged through the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests and the tours will be conducted by experts in the various forms of conservation.

One trip will take place during the last two weeks of July, the other a month later. One trip will deal with soil and wild life conservation. It will probably include visits to certain farms in the Newmarket area, and Midhurst Park, as well as observing certain things during the trip. The other trip will cover water and forest conservation, and will likely include visits to areas controlled by the Metropolitan Toronto Conservation Authority in the west part of the district and beyond, and the York County Forest.

Transportation arrangements are not final, but it appears that travelling will likely be by bus. If time allows it is hoped that a short swim period will be included during the trips.

This is a co-operative project arranged by district staff and executive, interested troop Scouters and the Department of Lands and Forests. It is hoped that as many Scouts as possible will take advantage of this once in a life time opportunity. Scouters should advise one of the following how many boys are interested in these trips: Gerry Goulah, AV. 5-5726; Doug Toogood, TU. 4-2319; Barry King, TU. 4-5266; or Bill Long, TE. 3-5614.

4th R. H. Cub Pack
There was a full turnout on May 30 to welcome back Chi' Barbara Suter after her illness and Akela Mike Birkett on his return from Europe. The boys showed their delight at the return of both leaders in a rousing grand howl at the opening of the meeting. After the inspection, cubs and leaders set off down to an evening of intensive training for the Cub Rally. Kim's game was one of the items which received attention and once again a new chum, Miles Crawford and his partner demonstrated their ability in this event. The pack will be very glad of their assistance at the rally.

Bagheera refreshed the pack's memory on the jungle dance "Mowgli's Hunting" which the pack will perform in competition with the other cubs in the district at the rally on June 9.

Special County Session

Will Study Unification Assessment, Welfare, Police

York County Council will have to hold three special meetings, it was announced at the June session, to discuss whether assessment, welfare, and police services should be operated by the county, rather than by the constituent municipalities.

All three subjects, as well as planning, have been the subject of considerable heated debate among municipal councillors and others for some years now, but it's understood that at least some county council members hope to bring one or more of them to a head some time this year.

The June session of county council opened June 5 in county building at Newmarket.

Province Ignores County
During opening debate on the report of the Warden and Commissioners Revere William Hodgson of King Township, said that Ontario Premier John Roberts is ignoring requests for an audience, made by the county's administration of justice committee, which Mr. Hodgson heads.

The county is objecting to sharing in the cost of Metro's new courthouse, proposed for the site presently occupied by the University Ave. Armouries. Since the county would have little or no say in the administration of this building, they want to erect their own courthouse, somewhere within the county proper.

Their request to be relieved of their share of the cost of the Metro courthouse has been rejected by provincial officials, and for two months, Mr. Hodgson's committee has been trying to obtain an audience with Premier Roberts, to make a personal appeal to him.

Mr. Hodgson said the premier has not even given his committee the courtesy of an acknowledgment of its requests.

"If anyone in this room has any influence that can help us to obtain this audience," he said, "I beg him to use it."

Grade 8 Students Visit Forest

Over 410 Grade 8 students from primary schools in York County visited York County Forest at Vivian, May 31 and June 1.

Pupils began tramping at the forest at 10 a.m. by school bus and private cars, and were welcomed by Commissioner Floyd Perkins and Clarence Davis of the County Forestry Committee, on behalf of the warden of the county. Zone Forester Bill Managhan extended to them the welcome of the department.

Following a resume of the history of the county forest and learned of the needs for the various types of management work carried out by department staff, the visitors were divided into two groups.

Deputy-revee Mrs. Caroline Ion, of Newmarket, smilingly suggested that the committee ask for the audience by telegram—and send it collect.

Mr. Hodgson said his committee will continue to try for the audience.

Besides the report of the Warden and Commissioners, county council also heard reports from the county assessor, the York Manor Commission, and the reforestation assessment, E.M.O., and property committees.

Air-Conditioning
By resolution, council approved of hiring an engineer to study the need for air-conditioning in the county building; approved payment of $8.00 a day to municipal liaison officers, while working with the county Emergency Measure Organization (in addition to the mileage allowance they already receive);

and learned of the needs for the various types of management work carried out by department staff, the visitors were divided into two groups.

One group conducted by Mr. Managhan, hiked through the coniferous plantations learning something about the history of each and the results of the different types of woods operations. The young people examined a hardwood stand and learned of the benefits of improvement cutting to produce quality hardwood lumber. They learned something of the products obtainable from well-managed conifer and deciduous forests.

The second group, under the care of Assistant Zone Forester John Simpson, were given instruction on tree identification, and learned of the needs for protecting the forest from insects, disease and fire. They had a chance to see the various tools and equipment used in management of the county forest, and movies illustrating forest conservation.
