Assoc. Annual Meeting

Contract Given, Plan Early Hospital Start

Construction work on the new hospital to serve Richmond Hill 900, and that approval of the and the southern part of York Ontario Hospital Commission, County will commence soon. This welcome announcement approval and the passing of the deputation bylaw by the County of York are anticipated in Central Hospital Association held in the Lions Hall Tuesday evening. In making the announcement Hospital Trustee Chairman D. H. Storms said, "It has taken time, but now it is assured you will get your hospital." York Central Hospital Association was organized about two years ago with the object of providing the people of the southern part of York County with much needed hospital accommodation.

The chairman reported the contract for the new hospital to be built at Richmond Hill has been let to the Angus Robertson Company for $1,953,900, and that approval of the Ontario Hospital Commission, the Ontario Municipal Board and the passing of the deputation bylaw by the County of York are anticipated in the very near future.

The fifteen acre site of the new hospital has a beautiful and ideal location on the Vaughan Road just west of Richmond Hill town limits in the Township of Vaughan. Work of construction is expected to start very soon.

The total cost of the new hospital, including land, furnishings and complete equipment will be $2,625,403. Chairman Storms reported to Tuesday's annual meeting that financing plans have been completed with a budget outlined to extend right up to official opening.

The expenditure will be financed by federal, provincial, and county grants and a fund raising campaign which is now getting under way. County of York grant will be $1,180,000, provincial grant $428,833.32, federal grant $351,173.32, campaign objective $450,000, leaving a balance of $215,396, which will be financed by bank borrowing.

The fund raising campaign will be carried on in conjunction with Newmarket Hospital where an expansion program is underway and the objective of the joint drive under the County of York United Hospital Appeal will be something over one million dollars.

The total cost of the expansion program in Newmarket and the new building in Richmond Hill will be over 5 million dollars and will be paid by the federal government 16 per cent, provincial government 18.5 per cent, County of York 45 per cent, leaving 20.5 per cent to be raised by public subscription.

Chairman Storms reported that eleven of the county's best contractors had tendered on the original plans, and five firms on the modified plans. In the final tender the five firms were all within a $15,000 range. The chairman expressed genuine satisfaction with the firm entrusted with the contract and said he was sure they will do an outstanding job.

The chairman's report which reviewed in detail the progress of the hospital project paid tribute to the work of the Board of Trustees, and expressed thanks for the co-operation of the medical profession, York County Council, municipal authorities and officials, and the people generally for good will and support.

The 2nd annual meeting of the Hospital Association was opened with prayer by Rev. Father Robinson, and guest speaker was Stanley Martin, secretary of the Ontario Hospital Association. He congratulated the members of the local Hospital Association on their efforts and gave an interesting talk reviewing the founding and growth of the voluntary hospital movement in Canada. There are in Ontario today 230 hospitals in operation giving our people accommodation second to none in the world. He commended the idea

Action On Election Day

A beehive of activity all day long was the home of Mrs. John W. Wishart, 277 Elmwood Ave., Richmond Hill, as voters flocked to the polls in York North Monday. Elected with almost a 1,000 vote majority was Liberal candidate John Addison. He defeated C. A. (Tiny) Cathers who had held the seat since 1957 for the Conservatives. Liberals Regain County With Narrow Majority

A Liberal tidal wave swept through traditionally "Tory Toronto" on Monday engulfing York North in its path.

Thirty-two-year-old Liberal candidate John Addison recaptured the riding for the Liberals defeating C. A. (Tiny) Cathers who had held the seat since 1957 for the Conservatives.

Mr. Addison polled 17,912 votes to Mr. Cathers 17,070. Stanley Hall of the New Democratic Party got 7,746, and Social Credit candidate Alex Ford trailed far behind with 514 votes.

A jubilant Mr. Addison told The Liberal Tuesday that he was "very happy" with the results and lauded the efforts of his many supporters who had worked so hard on his behalf.

He said a serious financial crisis faces the country at this time and predicted another election "very soon."

"The dollar is under extreme pressure at the present time and it is my belief it is not firmly pegged at 92½ cents as Mr. Fleming would like us to believe," Mr. Addison said.

He said that when the real figures are released they will show that Canada is in far worse shape than anyone can imagine.

Will Balance Budget

"My party is dedicated to balance the budget within two years time and put the financial affairs of this country back on a sensible basis," the newly elected member stated.

"I will be available at all times to deal with the problems of the people living in York North," Mr. Addison said.

Former Conservative member Mr. Cathers said he was surprised the way the vote went in the Toronto and York ridings.

Asked if he thought an early election was possible, Mr. Cathers said he did not think it was necessary.

"Mr. Diefenbaker is still the Prime Minister of Canada and the Conservative party still has the majority of seats in the House of Commons. I can see no reason for an early election," Mr. Cathers said.

In 1958 Mr. Cathers rolled up a 12,000 vote majority but saw it swept away under the Liberal avalanche Monday. He was first elected to the commons in 1957 ending a 22-year Liberal reign.

Mr. Cathers said he was amazed at the strong Social Credit showing in Quebec but dismissed them as a threat nationally. He also was surprised at the jump in votes garnered by the NDP in this riding.

"I intend to work around my farm for a couple of months and other than that I have no plans for the future in the political field," Mr. Cathers stated.

NDP Shows Increase

An increase of almost 6,000 votes over 1958 for the NDP surprised many political observers in the riding. In the last

Against Apartment Construction In Downtown District Of Town

Discussion of the Hurlburt Apartments was revived at Tuesday night's meeting of the Richmond Hill Planning Board. An objection to their erection came in a letter from the West Central Ratepayer's Committee.

The letter reiterated the fear of nearby residents that construction of such a building would put further strain on present road, drainage, and school facilities.

The matter of the building last came up at a council meeting May 29, 1961, when the ratepayers asked council not to allow apartments in the area.

Permission to erect such a building in the area would require an amendment to the present zoning bylaw. Both the planning board and ratepayers have objected in the past to such amendments because they would decrease the effectiveness of any attempts at town planning and lead to "spot zoning."

Board members suggested Monday night that amendments should be avoided until Planning Director Harold Deeks could complete his study of the redevelopment problems in the downtown area.

Proposed building of the Queen Apartments in this area would create many of the same problems, said the board. Planning Board members felt the area where these apartments would be built (Elizabeth and Centre), was in need of redevelopment.

Present taxes on the proposed site of the Hurlburt Apartments are only $1,000, whereas taxes on the new building would be $17,000, the board stated.

Will Take Board 2 Years To Repay Official Error

A $78,682.42 overpayment of grant in 1961 by the Department of Education to the Vaughan Township School Area Board received lengthy discussion at a meeting of the board last week.

The discussion was prompted by the reading of a letter from the department, thanking the board for bringing the error to their attention and setting forth the terms of repayment.

One-third or $26,227.47, will be recovered from the department from the 1962 grant, and the other two-thirds will be collected in 1963. The board had hoped to have the repayment spread over three years.

Trustee Terry Goodwin pointed out to the ratepayers in attendance that the departmental grant structure is very complicated.

He stated that the board had ended the year with an apparent surplus of approximately $79,000, but during budget discussions he had raised some questions about the origin of this large surplus.

Prompted by these questions, Trustee Wm. Kerr and staff members delved into the figures and found the department's error. The audit did not take place until some time later, and the error was discovered at the last moment, so that hurried revision of the budget was necessary for the 1962 tax bills.

Ratepayers Critical

In answer to critical comments by a couple of ratepayers, "The Liberal" reporter, the only representative of the press present, was invited to attend and report the committee meeting which followed adjournment of the regular meeting, Murray Harris of the auditing firm of Wilton Eddis and Company and staff members explained how the department's error occurred.

Briefly it dates back to the setting up of the Vaughan Township School Area in December 1959. The area was required to pay to other boards $139,111.81 for the capital assets (school buildings and contents). The department paid Vaughan School Area a grant on the debenture raised to pay this sum.

The department intends to continue paying on the outstanding debenture. Vaughan Township School Area Board will receive more money in grants over the period the debenture still has to run, than the amount they are required to repay in 1962 and 1963.

This increased the percentage of grant the board was eligible to receive from 51 to 52 and also the grant for average daily attendance by $1 per pupil which is also added to the amount of overpayment.

Must Pay

The board has no recourse but to repay the money received in error as the department will deduct it from the total grant receivable in 1962 and 1963.

Mr. Harris commented: "I don't know how we could have known we were overpaid. It was a very unusual set of circumstances."

The administrative staff took their findings to the department and spent three days with department officials in arriving at a solution to the problem. The department's letter expressed gratitude to the staff for bringing the error to their attention. Members of the board spoke in praise of the hard work put in by the staff in discovering this discrepancy. The auditor commented that it is common practice for municipal bodies to accept the calculations of grants as gospel, but it was stressed by staff members that a thorough check was made in the board's office of all departmental figures.

Will Seek Town Council Seat

ROBERT SAUNDERS

The first announced candidate for this year's town council elections entered the political field this week. Mr. Robert Saunders, 28, of Benson Avenue, will seek a town council seat in the December voting.

He comes well qualified for public life with a background of 10 years of service as a member of the staffs of Vaughan Township and Newmarket. Mr. Saunders graduated this spring from the municipal finance and administration course sponsored by Queen's University. At present he is studying for his degree in political and economic science.

Mr. Saunders is ending his association with Vaughan Township shortly and will enter the insurance field in Richmond Hill with Mutual Life. Mr. and Mrs. Saunders have two children.

To Appeal Bylaw Before Ontario Municipal Board

A Rexdale businessman, Frank Lamb, will appear before the Ontario Municipal Board to contest a Vaughan Township zoning bylaw which prohibits expansion of his Birch Avenue furniture warehouse.

The matter came up at the June 13 meeting of the Vaughan Township Planning and Building Committee.

On Mr. Lamb's property is a warehouse for "Lamb the Mover," Mr. Lamb's firm. It was built before passing of the bylaw which restricted the area to residential use only.

The bylaw did not affect the warehouse as it stood. But when Mr. Lamb sought the planning board's permission to expand his facilities, he was refused on the basis of the new bylaw.

Mr. Lamb submitted a "Notice of Motion" to the OMB asking it to review the zoning bylaw as it applied to his property.

The planning board recommended that Township Solicitor T. O. Fraser appear at the meeting to object to the motion on behalf of the township.

May Air-Condition The County Building

County council has approved hiring an engineering firm to study the advisability and feasibility of providing air-conditioning for the entire county building.

The resolution, based on a recommendation of the county's property committee, carried by one vote, after Woodbridge Reeve, Norm Carrock said that it was useless to spend money on a study of air-conditioning, when the county couldn't afford to provide seat-cushions for council members.

The recommendation was made as a result of complaints of poor ventilation from the Children's Aid Society, and from Junior and Family Court Judge George Sweeney.

Polling Booth Hub Of Democracy Election Day

Canadians went to the polls on Monday — and cast one of the largest votes in our history — but few voters realized the voting entailed before and after election day, in order that votes may come in from every eligible voter 21 years and over, without causing the voter any inconvenience, fuss or bother, other than going a few blocks, or less, from his own home to "sk" his ballot.

Skipped over the weeks of preparation — before the big day — we thought "Liberal" readers would be interested in hearing the story one scrutineer had to tell about June 18 at her polling booth.

Two weeks prior to Election Day, Jane Doe was contacted and asked if she would act as a scrutineer. Jane accepted with pleasure, for she had always wanted to find out just what went on behind the scenes during an election.

On Monday morning she reported for duty at 9 a.m. and found the deputy returning officer and the poll clerk ready for action in a comfortable recreation room in a private home — there was even a cheerful log fire burning in the grate, for the day was gray and cool and rain, which later fell, was then clouding out the June sun.

Jane Doe was officially sworn in as a scrutineer, for party

A Happy Winner

"B" while Candidate "A's" scrutineers watched.

Anticipating a large vote, the pencils were already sharpened and private booths curtained off.

The first elector arrived at 9:05 a.m. and from then on, until the outside door was locked tight at 8 p.m. a steady stream of voters filed before the D.R.O. and poll clerk, giving their name and occupation to these two officials, while the scrutineers checked them off their lists of voters.

Each party seeking election is entitled to have one scrutineer present. But it was not until late in the day that Candidate "D's" scrutineer arrived on the scene, and Candidate "C's" never did get there.

In the meantime, Jane and her fellow scrutineers met their outside helpers — "floating" scrutineers, who travel from poll to poll — and watched the votes roll in.

Her First Vote

A pretty young girl came shyly forward to the table and gave her name, then with a look of timid pride withdrew to the booth, marked her ballot and returned to the table. "No, no," cried the frantic D.R.O., as the girl sought to drop the ballot in the box, "I have to tear off the number, or it would not be eligible to be counted
