Unusual school bus is part bike.

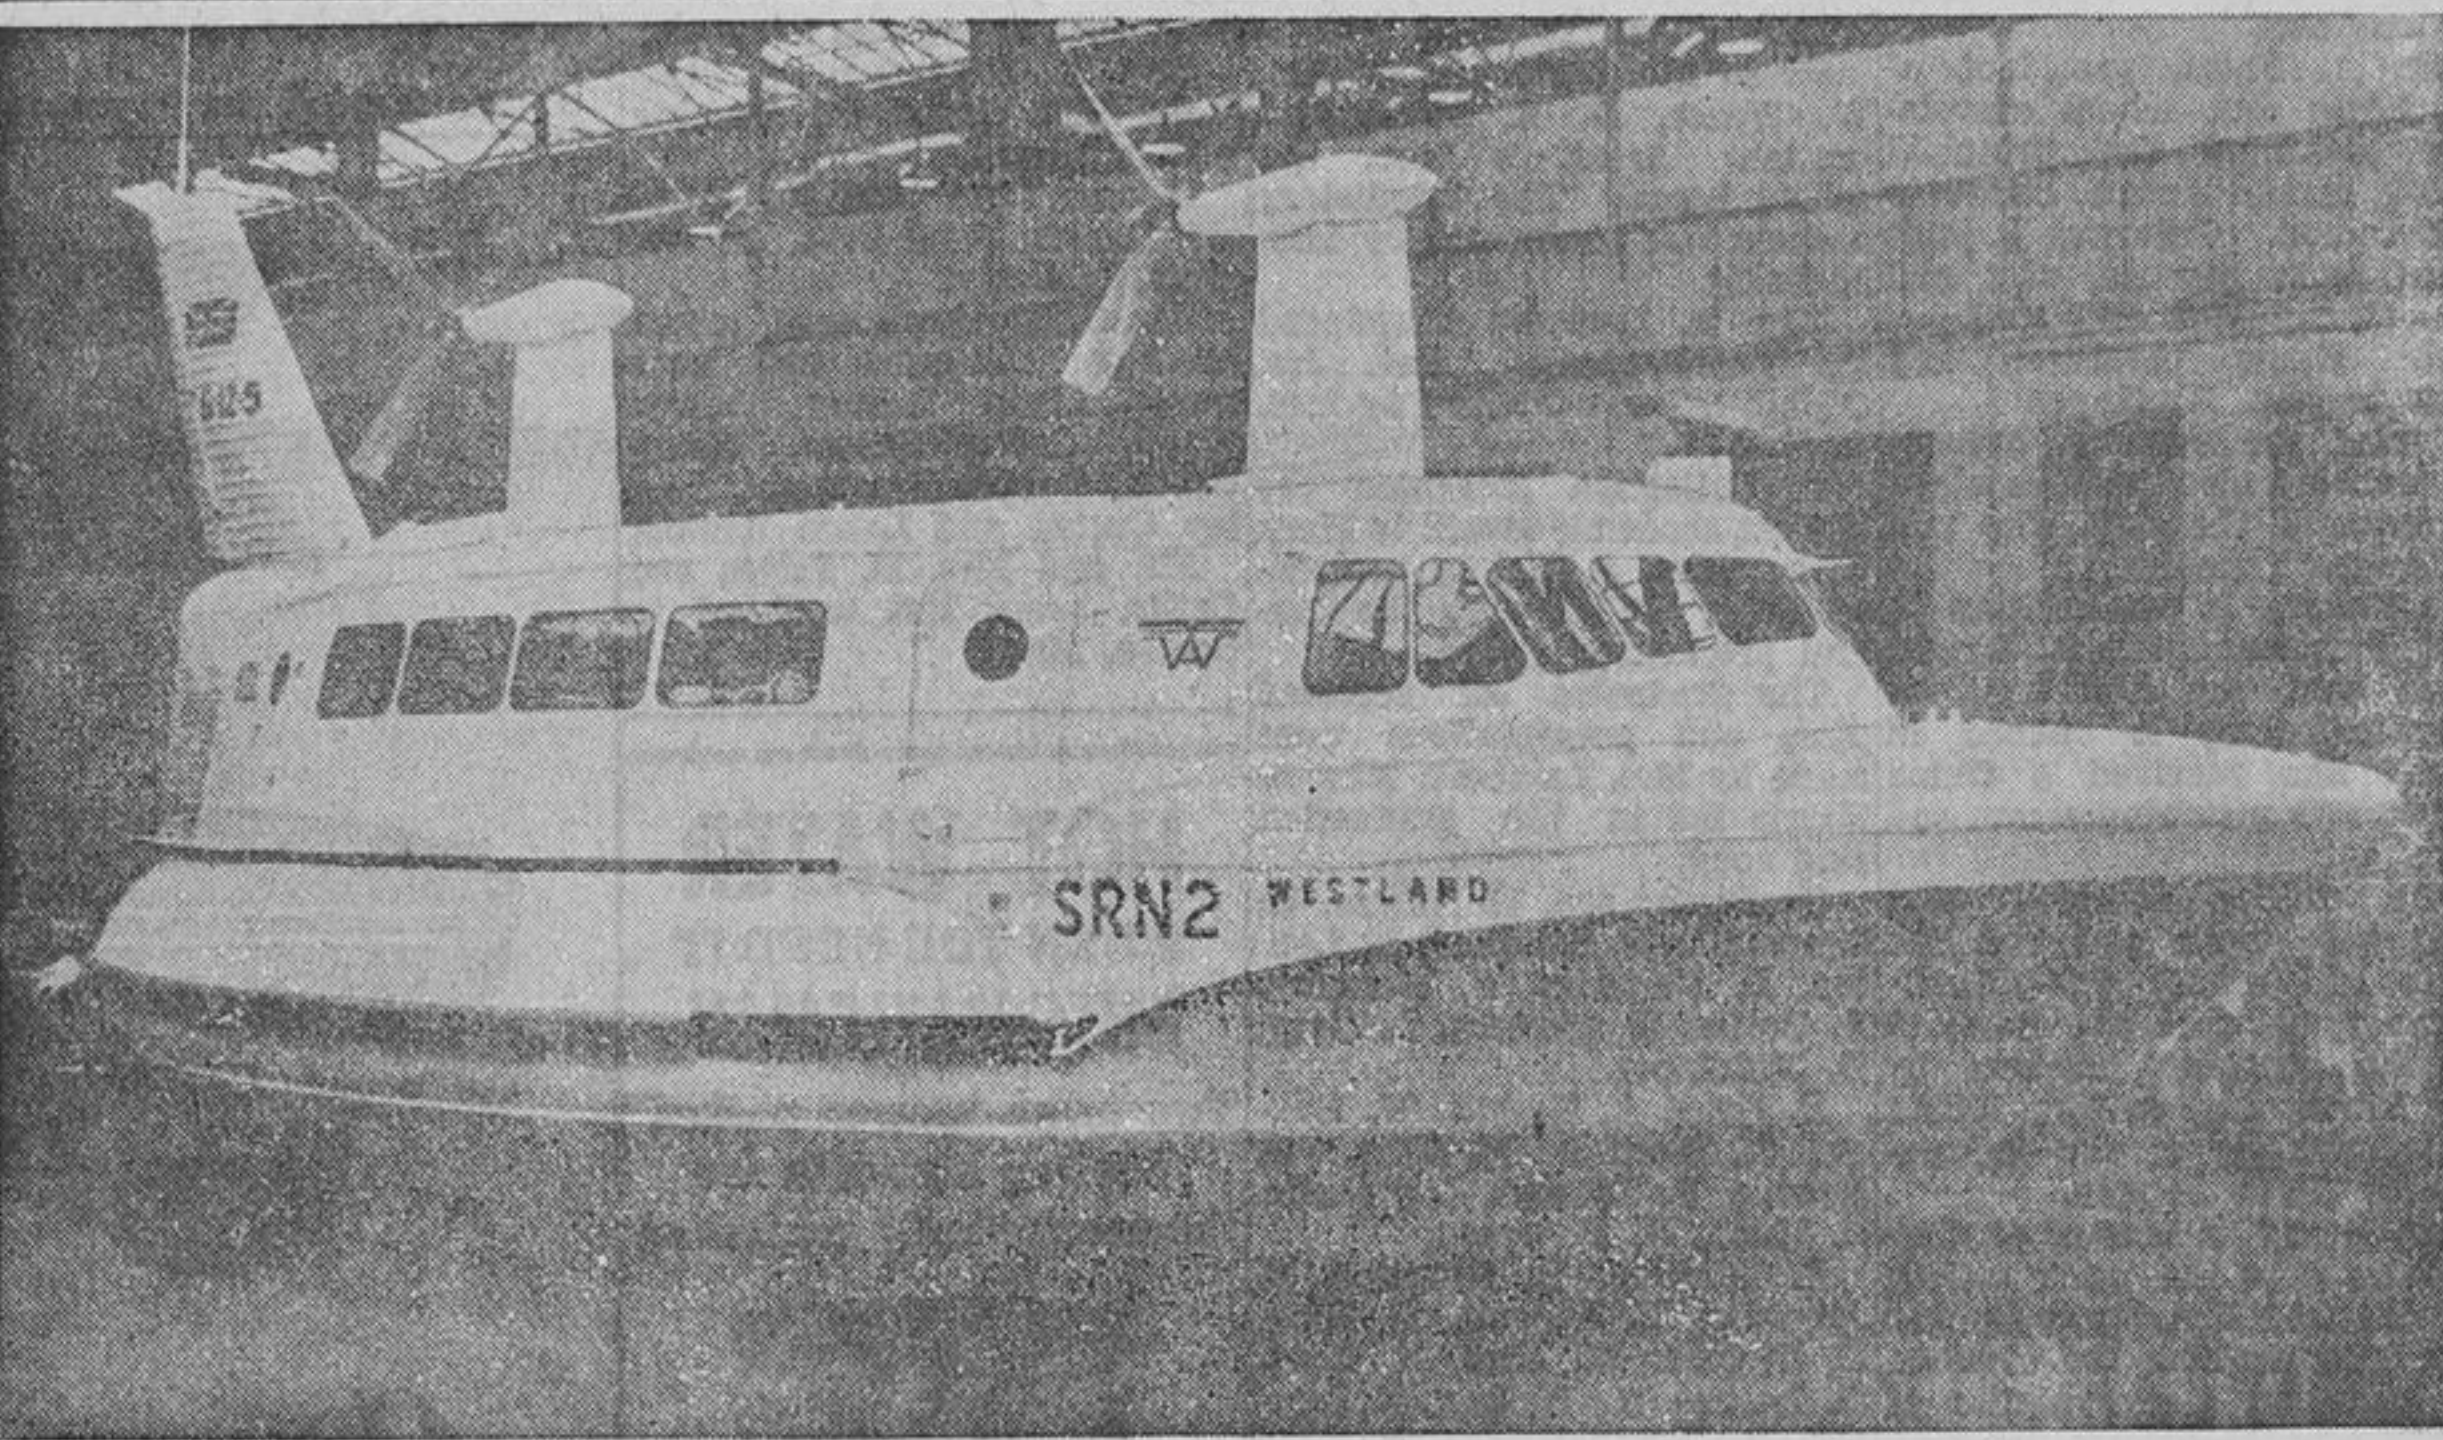

Milkman makes rounds on bike.

WHEELER DEALERS

FORMOSA is only 225 miles long and 85 miles wide, but it's teeming with 11 million bicyclists. Milkmen peddle their wares from bikes and farmers go to market on two-wheelers. Pedicabs serve as taxis and buses and some even have merry-go-rounds mounted on their tricycle chassis. Simple and economical, the bike is the best means of transportation for the majority of the island's people.

AN AIR CUSHION RIDE — Britain's first passenger Hover-Bus undergoes tests at Cowes, Isle of Wight. The craft, which can do 80 miles an hour, has cruising range up to approximately 200 miles.

Two Financing Methods Discussed By Professor Of Joint Co-operation

"The budget is the dollar expression of the education plan," according to Professor E. Bock of the Ontario College of Education. His remarks came during a discussion on "The Economics of Education," at a conference of Zone 3B of the Public School Trustees Association held at Oshawa June 22.

His remarks were reported to the Richmond Hill Public School Board at last week's meeting by Trustee W. H. Hutchinson who attended the conference.

In his talk, Professor Bock talked of two problems of the local school board. First he compared the advantages of central and local financing. Later he suggested methods, the local boards might use in getting the greatest productivity from the educational system.

He suggested that local financing stimulated local interest and provided for diversity and growth of ideas, according to Mr. Hutchinson, central financing assures greater equality of facilities and costs, he said. Equalization grants may be the best method of public school financing, Professor Bock stated. He felt that these should be controlled by the federal government.

Four methods of increasing educational productivity were mentioned by Mr. Bock. He said that greater motivation for the learner could be provided, especially by providing better teachers.

Professor Bock asked that a better correlation between education and life be attempted. Lack of correlation is responsible for drop-outs, he said. He suggested the application of the "Waterloo College Idea" in public schools would lead to fewer drop-outs.

Greater use of the tools

The partnership between municipalities and government in the effective programming of conservation work in the province was lauded this week by Dr. C. Ross Lord of Toronto, chairman of the Metropolitan Toronto and Region Conservation Authority.

Speaking to the Association of Mayors and Reeves in Port Arthur Tuesday, Dr. Lord pointed to the MTRCA as an example of partnership, noting there are "23 municipalities who are partners in the great work of conservation."

He said the great strength of the conservation movement lies in its co-operative nature.

"The Ontario government says, in effect, we are willing to help you if you are willing to help yourselves. Thus, a conservation authority can achieve success only if the municipalities concerned feel so strongly about it that they are willing to contribute 50 per cent of the costs," he pointed out.

During the afternoon, Mr. Turton participated in a group discussion of the topic "Are the Elementary Schools Doing a Job?"

Conflicts between high school and public school board members often arose, where each blamed their weaknesses on the other, Mr. Turton stated.

The group did come up with several conclusions. It decided on the importance of extensive research and the direction of culture into new channels.

The need for mature, scholarly public school teachers was also stressed. Higher standards for entry to teachers' college were suggested.

Speaker Urges Research In Curriculum Planning

Problems of research in curriculum and effectiveness of elementary schools were among topics discussed at the annual convention of the Ontario Urban and Rural School Trustees' Association held recently in Niagara Falls.

A brief outline of what had taken place was provided by Kenneth U. Turton, business administrator of the Richmond Hill Public School Board, at a board meeting last week.

Roy Sharp of the Toronto Board of Education delivered an address on research in curriculum development and planning. Mr. Sharp hoped that in the future the best available brains from the teachers' federations, universities, trustees and the Department of Education could form a curriculum institute to conduct research into curriculum planning from elementary schools to universities.

Changes In Principals —

Susan Kerslake, the school's top public speaker, made the presentation of the students' gift, a 35 m.m. camera. The students also presented Mrs. Rose with a bouquet of roses.

The program ended with a student production of a scene from Tom Sawyer. According to Mr. Ross, the plans for the presentation were initiated and worked out by the students.

Mr. Rose has spent six years in the Richmond Hill Public School system. He moved to Pleasantville when it was built three years ago.

Before that, he spent 19 years at Markham and one year at Langstaff. Mr. Rose, who has two sons and a daughter, still lives in Markham Village.
