Firm Given Green Light To Work Night Shift

McNamara Construction Company has been given permission by Vaughan Township council to work a night shift in completing work on the new CNR access line between Main Street and the Weston-Woodbridge Road. Permission was needed because of the township's anti-noise bylaw.

Night work in the area will be permitted from September 20 to October 31. George Stunden, representing the firm at Tuesday night's council meeting expressed hope that it wouldn't need all the time requested.

The area in question is not close to any built-up areas.

4,500 Students Answer Bell At 9 Town Schools

Close to 4,500 youngsters were on hand when the roll was called at Richmond Hill's six public and three separate schools Tuesday morning.

This was the enrolment expected, according to Public School Superintendent Gordon McIntyre and separate school head Mother St. Dominic.

Beverley Acres School had the largest registration in town and the largest registration of new students, Mr. McIntyre said.

MacKillop has the second largest roll. An unexpectedly large kindergarten enrolment there may require some juggling, he said. Kindergarten enrolment is up from 65 to 79.

Enrolment at St. Mary's Immaculate and Our Lady of Fatima Separate schools totalled 305 students. According to Mother St. Dominic, this figure is slightly larger than had been expected.

Our Lady Help of Christian registered about 600 students.

Decides Against Fourth Term On Hill School Board

Touster Mrs. Irene Worrell has decided not to resign from the Richmond Hill Public School Board until the end of the year.

At a recent meeting, she told the board that outside commitments had made it difficult for her to do her job properly. However, the board persuaded her to withdraw her resignation and complete her term.

Mrs. Worrell said she will not run for the board again this fall. She will have been on the board for three years at the end of 1962.

During her time on the board, she served on the personnel and research committees.

She was charter president of the Beverley Acres Home and School Association in 1957 and served for two years.

Water Quality 'Not Up To Par' Report States

Further work will have to be done on the new Uplands well in Vaughan Township.

The township's waterworks committee has reported to council that pumping facilities were now operating satisfactorily but the quality of water was not up to par. The high mineral content was excessive, the report stated.

Purchase and installation of a hypo-chlorinator to improve the quality of the water was recommended by the committee. Estimated cost of the new equipment is $2,500.

Deputy-reeve Jesse Bryson asked how much longer part of Markham Township would continue to use water from Uplands. He suggested that Markham should be reminded that the water was not available indefinitely.

Uplands well is located at the westerly end of Longbridge Rd.

Hot Weather Takes Toll Of Wells In Elgin Mills

Hot, dry weather has combined with increased building in the Elgin Mill Sideroad area to create a water shortage for the first time in many years.

Edward Sprague, 466 Yonge St. N., was forced to drill a new well when his well went dry for the first time in 30 years. He claims there is only about five feet of water in the new well.

A neighbor, Albert Jones of 6 Leonard St., has been getting water from Sprague since his well went completely dry. Many residents in the area are now using town water. It first became available about three weeks ago.

Mrs. Margaret Richards, who lives on Elgin Mills Sideroad, now has town water. Her own well went dry for the first time in 43 years. She told "The Liberal" there has always been plenty of water previously.

Both Mrs. Richards and her neighbor, Mrs. Harry Gooding have had to take their washing out and have depended on neighbors and friends for water for household use.

MORE CONTROL NEEDED BOARD TELLS COUNCIL

Members of Vaughan Township's Planning Board have voiced their opposition to the building of a new Superior Propane plant in the municipality unless the township is given greater control over safety precautions in such a plant.

In contrast, council members expressed enthusiastic support for a plant in the township. The matter came up for discussion at a joint meeting of planning board and council Tuesday night. Application is for a site at Keele Street and the Langstaff Road.

Council and planning board had been asked to comment on the application by Chairman Charles Miller of the Committee of Adjustment. The township's zoning bylaw brings the application before the committee since it involves a dangerous use.

Deputy-reeve Jesse Bryson explained that council had discussed the question previously and there had been agreement that the plant should be kept in the township.

He suggested that the community could not afford to lose the industry because of the number of local people employed there. The only question should be of the plant's location within the township.

G. W. Keffer added that Superior presently employs some 45 residents. He estimated that a new office building which would be part of the plant would employ about 40 people.

Superior Propane has shown evidence of good faith in their building plans, Mr. Miller noted. According to federal law, all tanks must be at least 400 feet from any public building.

Plans call for the tanks to be well over 400 feet from the proposed office building. They would be over 1,000 feet from any building.

P. A. Deacon of the planning board expressed fear that construction of such a plant could lead to deterioration in the area.

Safe As Anywhere Assuming that the township was going to keep Superior, the proposed site was as safe as anywhere in the township.

Propane and other types of liquid fuel are a part of modern life, Mr. Bryson noted. As such, room for their storage must be provided and a municipality should try to accommodate such plants, he said.

Mr. Deacon suggested that the township should try to set up its own restrictions to ensure safety in any new plant.

He suggested that the proposed plant be required to have a trained expert on duty at all times as a watchman.

There seems to be a lack of inspection for such plants at present, D. Golding of the Planning Board suggested. He asked if instruments could be installed which would show any flaws or leaks in the plant's equipment.

Councillor Ruth McConkey told Mr. Golding that such instruments are available.

Chairman Bob Kirk of the Planning Board noted that the municipality could exert definite control over fire safety precautions by the plant. He suggested a sprinkler system would be an effective safety precaution.

Let Tenders For $39,120.26 On Three Projects

Markham Township Council Tuesday afternoon accepted bids on three projects which will cost the township $39,120.26.

A contract for surface treatment of five miles of township roads went to Miller Paving of Toronto for $16,504.26.

Included in the mileage is one mile of Steeles Avenue from Highway 48 easterly; 1.3 miles on Con. 10 from Highway 7 to 16th Avenue; 1.3 miles on 16th Avenue from Con. 5 to Don Mills Road, and 1.3 miles on Con. 5 from Highway 7 to 16th Avenue.

Council received five bids on the project. Leo Construction of Downsview won the tender for construction of a twelve-inch watermain on Don Mills Road south from the pumphouse to a new industrial subdivision south of the new CNR bypass. Their bid was $12,895.

Armo Drainage and Metal Products of Islington won the tender for pipe supply along Proctor Avenue. Their bid of $9,721 was lowest of five.

John Addison MP Protests Mail Cut

John Addison M.P. York North in a statement issued this week strongly criticized the action of the Federal Government in cancelling the planned introduction of house to house mail delivery in the Richvale-Yongehurst area. The service was due to commence September 1st.

Announcement was made by Ottawa in June that the area south of Richmond Hill would be served by house to house delivery. Post office officials suddenly announced last week that the Diefenbaker Government's austerity program had forced cancellation of the service.

"The Federal Government has once again failed to carry out its election promises," stated Mr. Addison. He compared it to the government's P.E.I. Causeway which had been promised before the June 18th Federal voting.

Mr. Addison promised to continue to press Ottawa for an early solution to the delivery problem. "Fast efficient mail service is a basic necessity and our people expect a high level of service," stated Mr. Addison. "If austerity savings must be made they should not be made at the expense of mail service."

"Best Ever" Boy Says

Had A Fine Time At EX With New-Found Friend

(By Mona Robertson)

Somewhere in Toronto there is a mother who 'lost' her little boy at the CNE last week, for three hours. And somewhere in this community there is a mother of married sons, who told us quite an amusing story of her part in the 'recovery' of this boy.

Oh, we know there are dozens of little boys and girls who get lost and mislaid each day. Ex is open. And we know how panic stricken both children and parents are until they are restored to each others' arms.

We know too, that children should be taught "never to speak to strangers", because some people abuse the innocence of youth and plant fear in the hearts of young and old alike, by their cruelty and evil.

But despite this, and perhaps because of this, we enjoyed this story which was told to us. It restores slightly a sense of balance and rightness to every day living.

The lost little boy was pint-sized, and about seven years old.

He became 'lost', at 10.30 a.m. At 10.35 a.m., a motherly-looking woman, who had gone to the Ex from Richmond Hill, was walking casually through the Women's Building, stopping here and there to examine the exhibits. Suddenly a demonstrator queried her, "Would your little boy like a balloon like this?" He held out a big balloon, in the direction of her right arm, about as high as a pint-sized boy's head.

Started the woman looked down and there stood a little boy, snuggling up to her, his saucer-size blue eyes intent on the balloon. "He's not my little boy", the lady said, "but I guess

Plan To Widen 2 Main Highways In York County

Plans for further widening of two of the county's main highways by the Department of Highways came to light at Tuesday night's Vaughan Township Council meeting.

Council was asked to make available to the department information on existing watermains and services buried near Highways 7 and 11 which would affect their widening.

According to a road committee report, Highway 7 would be widened to four lanes from Bathurst Street to Highway 400.

Highway 11 (Yonge Street) would be widened from Steeles Avenue to Thornhill to four lanes with safety islands, according to a report from the waterworks committee.

Area Soldier Spends Year In Congo

A 25 year-old Richvale resident has returned to active duty with the Canadian Army after spending his 60 day leave at home. He is Sgt. Frank Martin of the 57th Canadian Signals Corps, who lives at 67 Oak Avenue.

Sgt. Martin's two-month leave came after he had spent a year as part of a 200-man Canadian contingent in the United Nations police force in the Congo.

He left August 11 for the comparative peace of a post at the Ottawa Wireless Station. In the Congo, Frank was stationed at Kamina Base in Katanga Province, 1,200 miles from Leopoldville and helped set up a complete communications system for all of the Congo.

All six Canadian detachments stationed in the Congo specialized in communications, Swedish, Irish and Austrian troops made up the rest of the UN police force.

Frank recommends the army as an excellent place for career training. He joined the army December 18, 1952, and received two years of apprentice training in radio and teletype.

In December, 1954, he became a member of the regular army and was posted to Camp Borden.

After a month's stay at Camp Utopia, N.B., he went to Germany in October, 1955, where he was stationed with 6,000 other Canadians at Fort Prince of Wales Camp in Hamer.

He returned to Canada in December of 1957 and was stationed in Camp Petawawa and Camp Borden, before going to the Congo June 7, 1961. Sgt. Martin recalls the year in the Congo as an enjoyable one. Canadians were well received there. Frank claims that the accommodation was excellent and that Canadian food was always available.

He was involved in one minor skirmish which lasted for six days, but involved no casualties.

Frank attended Morse Street Public School, Richvale Public School and Richmond Hill High School.

A top athlete, Sgt. Martin played minor hockey in Richmond Hill and softball and basketball in the army.

In 1961, he played for the Camp Petawawa's Ontario Army Basketball Champions. He played on a softball team that won the Ontario championship in 1960 and the Canadian Army Championship team in Germany in 1957.
