

Graduates Receive Scholarships At Commencement Night Rap Story

"Graduates of Grade 12 and 13 belong to a small elite of successful people in the community," stated Superintendent Sam Chapman of York Central District High School, speaking at Bayview Secondary School commencement Friday night.

Mr. Chapman was guest speaker at the second annual commencement. The school's first Grade 13 graduating class included 11 boys and one girl.

"Later these graduates will realize the part played by their parents and teachers in their success," Mr. Chapman said.

He outlined four personal qualities the graduate has proven in himself. First quality is mastery over himself. "There is too much respect for personality and not enough for knowledge today," he charged.

The graduate has proven he has a never-ending thirst for knowledge and has acquired a degree of flexibility allowing him to adapt himself to a changing world, the superintendent said.

Character is the fourth quality of the successful graduate, Mr. Chapman stated. "It is not so much any 'moral decay' this generation has undergone, but the apathy and cynicism towards this decay," he told the graduates.

Valedictorian John Clement congratulated his fellow students on the speed with which they had welded the two-year-old school together.

He called for school officials to make education an enjoyable thing and reminded students that graduation did not end formal education.

John also received the H. L. Eubank Award and the York Central District High School Board Award for general proficiency.

Top students in the rest of the school were David Smith (Grade 9), Barbara Lowens (Grade 10), Roxanne Louw (Grade 11) and Bryan Cuchan (Grade 12).

Guy Campbell and Carolyn Wallbanks won school letters for academic, athletic and executive prowess.

In Aid Of Worthy Cause

Enthusiastic Response Thornhaven Sch. Bazaar

The annual bazaar held Saturday, at the Thornhaven School For Retarded Children had a thrilling and spectacular opening when Mr. John Addison, M.P. York North, arrived by helicopter.

Branches of oak leaves and banks of geraniums turned the entry-way into a perfect setting for posies and pickles. Mrs. W. McIntosh and her charming daughters Johanne and Barbara, dressed in old fashioned costumes greeted everyone, selling colorful bounties and nosegays along with the jams and pickles.

The attic treasure room was a most interesting place with bird cages, electric shavers, vacuum cleaners and hand painted dishes a few of the items sold by Mrs. C. Osler, Mrs. T. P. Moore and Mrs. V. Bloss.

The tea court sponsored by the Doncaster Ladies Club served almost 300 guests.

In the craft room the students and staff proudly sold the house markers, shoe-bags, waste paper baskets, pot holders and foam rubber turtles that held a cake of soap in the body. Every article has the name of the student who made it. Separate parcel post stations for girl, boy and adult proved very successful.

The apron booth sponsored by the auxiliary was sold out long before the 7.00 p.m. closing time.

Once again the Richmond Hill Girl Guides, under the direction of Capt. G. Rimmer and Lieut. J. Milligan, were the most successful candy sales people. Guides Ann Firman, Sylvia Inglis and Carol Shelton also worked for Gold Cord credits.

The home-bake room convened by Mrs. Wm. Strugnall, was a busy place which kept Mrs. J. Thomason, Mrs. M. Wilson and Mrs. E. Jennings on their toes. Helping in the fish-pond were Mrs. John Graham, Mrs. A. Wilde and Mrs. H. White. Toys new and old were handled by Mrs. W. A. Dowell, Mrs. G. Goulet and Mrs. S. Butterworth.

The gift table was sponsored by the Agincourt Kiwanians, assisting the president Mrs. Ann Pemberton were Mrs. R. Harbin, Mrs. E. Gartner, Mrs. G. Sands, Mrs. M. Sandford, Mrs. E. Nicholls, Mrs. A. Callardine and Mrs. F. Grehan.

Socks and mittens of every colour were among the knit goods sold by Mrs. Ray Nugent and Mrs. A. Mitchell.

In spite of the wintery weather the children's bazaar was held outdoors as planned. Messrs. Jack Thomason and Arnold Price were kept busy at the hot-dog barbecue. The balloon bust was in charge of Mrs. Don Hodgson. The penny toss was manned by Mr. Ray Nugent. The ponies were guided around the circle by Miss Dianne Anders and Mr. Wm. Stewart. Popcorn and freshie was sold by Mrs. Mary Redman. Tiny loaves of bread, very fancy cookies and even cream puffs were to be had at children's prices. Thornhill Girl Guides supplied and sold candy. Every article on the gift table was sold by 2.30 p.m. "They certainly enjoyed their very own gift table," stated Mrs. P. Somerville. The convener of the children's bazaar Mrs. W. Redman was assisted by Mrs. D.

Slate Jaycee Radio Auction For November 30

Plans are now well under way for that popular annual event — the "Christmas Radio Auction" sponsored by the Richmond Hill Junior Chamber of Commerce. The important date to remember is Friday, November 30.

Auction Chairman Phil Limpert points out that this year's event will be confined to Richmond Hill and immediate district, including Oak Ridges and Richvale, making the promotion a strictly local one. This is in keeping with the Jaycees' program of community betterment, as are the purpose and theme of the auction which will be "Shop Locally" and "Support Local Commerce".

The hardworking Jaycees have already received an encouraging response from businessmen in the area who are donating articles and services. These will be up for auction over radio station CFGM on Friday evening, November 30 and, to co-operate with local retailers, the air time period will be scheduled to provide the minimum of competition to the retail merchant during the prime shopping hours from 7 to 9 p.m.

The auction committee has this year adopted a policy designed to avoid inequalities in advertising coverage for the investing businesses. Specific advertising coverage for the participating merchants will be in direct proportion to the value invested by each business or industry, with a minimum investment of $15.00 being required.

Participating businessmen will receive one chance for each $15.00 value invested on a draw to be held following the auction. The winner of this draw will win a $150 package advertising bonus — $50 on CFGM and $100 in the local press — the advertising to take the form chosen by the winning businessman.

Businessmen still wishing to participate may contact Mr. Phil Limpert, auction chairman, at Turner 4-1861.

Watch future issues of "The Liberal" for further details, including a full listing of articles and services for auction and the donating merchants.

Hit Mayor's Plan Member, Deputy-reeve May Abolish Ban On Yonge Street Sun. Afternoon

Two members of Vaughan Township Council Monday night officially announced their intentions to seek office again this December.

Deputy-reeve Jesse Bryson and Councillor Mrs. Ruth McConkey will both be in the running again.

Councillor F. M. Windatt of Pine Grove announced October 22 that he would not seek re-election because of a conflict between his job and council meetings.

Neither Reeve Albert Rutherford nor Councillor Wilfred Keffer have made any announcement although indications are both will seek office for another term.

Nominations are slated for November 26 and electors will go to the polls December 8.

Former Maple Village Trustee John Neufeld is rumored to be considering seeking a seat on council. Mr. Neufeld came fourth when he ran for council in 1960. As yet he has made no official announcement regarding his candidacy.

There is a distinct possibility of the 1963-64 council being dominated by Maple residing, since Mr. Neufeld, Mrs. McConkey and Mr. Keffer all live in Maple. Mrs. McConkey Monday night expressed the hope this would spark election interest in other parts of the township.

Mrs. McConkey, a housewife and mother of five, became the first woman to sit on Vaughan council, following the 1960 elections. Her husband is a Toronto advertising executive.

During the past two years she has served as chairman of the township's waterworks committee. She finished second in the 1960 elections.

Deputy-reeve Bryson has been a member of council since 1957. He was the only council member to survive the 1960 elections.

A Purpleville area farmer, Mr. Bryson recalls that before the 1956 election he had no ambitions for a political career. "I attended the 1956 nomination meetings as an interested spectator," he recalls.

"Somebody took me into accepting a nomination and was lucky enough to win a seat on council."

Mr. Bryson made the move up from councillor to deputy-reeve in 1960.

In Vaughan, council is elected for a two year term.

The Sunday afternoon parking ban on Yonge Street is unnecessary according to a report tabled before Richmond Hill Township Council Monday night by its police committee.

A meeting between Department of Highways officials, police committee and Yonge Street Businessmen's Association, was held earlier to discuss the effect of new parking regulations on local business.

Government officials said the 7.30 to 8.30 a.m. ban Monday to Friday on the west side of Yonge was essential to promote continuous flow of traffic southbound during the morning rush hour.

Bing Lew, owner of the Town Inn, said he has lost almost 85 per cent of his business since the regulation went into force last June.

The police committee has promised to study the matter further.

It was agreed to keep the Sunday evening ban on the west side of Yonge between 6 p.m. and midnight.

More parking signs stating hours and times will be erected in the downtown area the report stated.
