

KING CITY, OAK RIDGES LAKE WILCOX

"The Liberal" is always pleased to publish items of interest regarding people and events in the Oak Ridges-Lake Wilcox and King City districts. Our news correspondent in King City is Mrs. William J. Houston, telephone Temple 3-5457; and in Oak Ridges-Lake Wilcox, Mrs. Lillian Atcheson, Wildwood Ave., PR. 3-5479.

King City Notes

Date of the first commencement of King City Composite School has been set for November 9.

Mr. A. W. Sparks, representative of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, will be the speaker.

In addition to intermediate certificates, 26 secondary school graduation diplomas will be presented to successful Grade 13 students of the past year.

Frank Phorson returned to his home in Sunderland, England, after visiting the family of his son, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Phorson and children, Jane, Howard and Graham of Banner Lane.

Mr. Phorson left by plane from Malton after a three-month holiday here. He had nothing but praise for King, which he saw for the first time, and plans to return in a couple of years.

Mrs. Pearl Wilson has been receiving greetings from friends while a patient in Toronto General Hospital for the past month.

In honor of bride-elect Miss Angela Powell, Mrs. Alex Campbell of William Street, entertained about 25 neighbors and former school friends at a miscellaneous shower.

Miss Powell left for Bermuda, where she and William Yeager of the U.S. Navy are planning to be married.

Nine tables were played at the euchre party arranged by King City Women's Institute October 17 in Cadden's garage on Concession 3.

Prize-winners included: Mrs. Donald McKechnie and Howard Neill, first prizes; Mrs. Warren McKendry and Roy Hollins-Smith, second; and Mrs. Allan Smith and Austin Rumble, consolation. Refreshments were supplied by the women attending.

King City Guide and Brownie leaders will be represented at the Guide Training Conference November 3 in Richmond Hill United Church.

From 9.30 to 3.30 p.m., training groups will be attended by central area commissioners and deputy area commissioners, division commissioners, district commissioners and guiders. Net $1,700.

The women's groups of All Saints Church were "delighted" with results of the mammoth Fall Fair they held in the church auditorium.

While ticket returns were still incomplete, an estimated $1,700 was cleared from the largest undertaking to date. Many friends motored from the city for the morning and afternoon event October 20, at which luncheon and snacks were provided.

The book stall was an interesting spot, where hard cover novels were sold for 25 cents; pocket books, 5 cents, and comic books one cent each.

The home-baking booth rapidly cleared the donated supply of cakes, pies, buns and wide range of dainty jars of jams and jellies.

The apron booth had a variety of well-made styles, from black net hostess aprons to more practical ones.

Knitting, sewing, rug-hooking and weaving crafts were found at the crowded tables. One donation was an attractive patchwork quilt.

About 50 oil paintings, framed and unframed, created much interest in the art section. Hand-painted baskets, trays and tables were popular purchases.

Jewelry was inexpensive and included pins, earrings and necklaces. On the stage, bargains galore were found at the hat bar and the tables of antiques and treasures. Much time had been spent in preparing the dried flower arrangements.

The fish pond and table of home-made candy attracted a cluster of children in the foyer.

Rev. E. H. Costigan opened the bazaar in the morning and greeted visitors.

Proceeds will be divided among the Chancel Guild and Afternoon and Evening Branches of the W.A.

Names Violets After Family

Mrs. William Derrick of King City, attended the family surprise party in Cooksville, honoring the 75th birthday of her mother, Mrs. Flora O'Brien.

The dinner was arranged at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Armstrong, with whom Mrs. O'Brien lives.

Among the many gifts was a dozen varied African violet plants from a daughter, Mrs. Frank Fisher of Toronto, who had named each flower after one of Mrs. O'Brien's children.

An accompanying poem, "My Mother's Garden", written by Mrs. Fisher was read. The plants increased in the collection. Mrs. O'Brien had already started.

The two dozen guests included other daughters and sons, Mr. Charles (Bud) O'Brien, Mrs. Jack McDowell of Walkerton, twin of the late Mrs. Clarence Armstrong; Mrs. Ray Hall of Toronto, Mr. Henry O'Brien of Doncaster, Mrs. Rudy Stockert of Thornhill, Mrs. John Cheyne, Mrs. Bill Crewson and Mr. Bill O'Brien, all of Toronto.

The first King Scout Troop Ladies' Auxiliary gathered clothing and toys this week for the rummage sale tomorrow evening from 7 to 9, and Saturday morning 10 to 12 at Oak Ridges Plaza.

King City Firemen's WA met at the home of Mrs. Stan Roots, Con. 3, and revised the date of the annual turkey dinner.

Mrs. John Monkman was named copvener of the November 7 dinner in King City United Church.

Among those on the committee selling 125 tickets are Mrs. Len Robb, Mrs. Robert Berwick, Mrs. Harold Kirby, Mrs. George McDonald, Mrs. James Sim and Mrs. Monkman.

In spite of light rain October 20, the outdoor auction of household goods at the South Keele Street home of William A. Carson drew a good-sized crowd of bidders.

Some interesting antiques were in the collection auctioned by Harold Russell, with the aid of his bookkeeper, Gordon Orr.

Bids were numerous on the chiffonier that had belonged to the late Mrs. Carson's grandmother. A young couple happily left the scene, lugging the ancient hall stand, which they managed to tie to the trunk of their contrasting modern car.

Several customers had never before seen a buffalo robe, the type that used to be tucked into cutters, and they examined this item closely.

Almost everything sold, the refrigerator, washing machine, chessterfield set, rugs, dressers, rocking chairs, wash-stands, beds, tables, pictures, books, trunk, carpentry and gardening tools.

Women lingered to inspect the lovely dinner set in blue willow pattern. An old-fashioned cake plate was in the form of a King's crown, the lid lifted by the top jewel.

The family was pleased with results of the sale. The morning of the auction Mr. Carson made arrangements to sell the house, which he has occupied for 20 years, since selling his farm north of the village. The farm property is now owned by John Whalley.

In 1953 Mr. Carson served as village trustee, the same year as the late Ross Walker and Crawford Wells. He was 87 on his last birthday. Had Mrs. Carson lived another few months, they would have celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary next February 10.

Mr. Carson has two daughters, Mrs. Ewart Patton and Mrs. Jack Cliff. Since September he has been living with the Patton family on North Keele Street.

Mothers were busy looking out overshoes as the first layer of snow covered King City last Thursday.

Cub Hunting

One apple-cheeked Cub reported an exciting adventure on Apple Day.

After lugging his basket up a long laneway at Laskay, the lad was greeted by a sign flourished by the householder. "We shoot every third salesman!"

The man dug into his pocket for a donation and grinned. "It's all right. You're just the second one today."

Arrivals

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Cassavoy welcomed a son at Peterboro. Mrs. Cassavoy is the former Patricia O'Brien. The baby is a grandchild for Mr. and Mrs. Harold O'Brien.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church WA annual bazaar November 3, is being convened by the president, Mrs. Albert Holman.

Mrs. William Willoughby will be in charge of the tea corner; Mrs. Charles Gordon, the table of home-baking; Mrs. H. Lenhardt, dry goods; Mrs. Fred Curtis, delicatessen; Mrs. John Phillips, parcel post and knick-knacks; Miss Lillie Anderson, candy.

Susan Broad Cops Speaking Contest

Twenty-five students of Grades 7 and 8 competed in an oratorical contest recently at the Oak Ridges Public School.

Susan Broad was named the winner for her speech.

Lasting between five and seven minutes, the speeches were judged by Rev. Mr. Winch, Mrs. Gardiner, and Mr. Reid, principal of the school.

Susan, then competed with six other students who were winners at their individual schools.

Contest was held at the Kettleby Public School for students in King Township.

Although Susan didn't win this contest, she made a very good speech and was not far behind the winner.

Bonnie Lynn Sangster, Bond Avenue, had eight friends in to celebrate her fourth birthday recently. Bonnie has just returned from Newmarket Hospital after a tonsillectomy.

Indian Chief Speaks

Chief Lorenzo Big Canoe, head of the Indian band at Georgina Island Reserve, was the guest speaker at the regular meeting of St. Paul's UCW recently.

Chief Big Canoe, a most striking figure, spoke to the ladies on the work and interests of his people. He also pointed out that chiefs are now elected instead of a son following his father as chief.

Many leave the island each year for work further afield, and the children attend school on the mainland, the chief said.

Due to Chief Big Canoe's interest and efforts, an Indian Village of a bygone era is springing up in the reserve as a means of preserving the band's culture and the young folk are being taught some of the old arts.

A new church is being planned for the reserve, which will be ready next year.

The ladies enjoyed an informative evening, learning about Chief Big Canoe and his people's culture, which is the oldest in Canada.

Grant McCachen and Schell Styromo attended a meeting at the Summit Golf Club recently to hear plans for a campaign to help the new York Central Hospital, Richmond Hill, and the extension being made on the York County Hospital, Newmarket.

Service clubs are being invited to assist financially, in some cases by "adopting" one room or ward. Mr. McCachen and Mr. Styromo attended as representatives of the Oak Ridges Lions Club.

A Guider's training conference is to be held at Thornhill United Church, November 3. All Brownie and Guide leaders are invited to attend.

Coffee parties were held recently by members of the Brownie and Guide Association, with proceeds going to the Brownies and Guides of Oak Ridges and Lake Wilcox.

The home of Mrs. Rita Szeler was open to the people Tuesday afternoon. Coffee and assorted cookies were served and people chatted with friends and neighbors. About 16 attended the afternoon session.

In the evening, Mrs. Laura McDonald, Maple Grove Ave., Oak Ridges, opened her home and about 50 attended a coffee party.

A bridge and euchre is being planned for November 21 at the Legion Hall, Oak Ridges, under auspices of the Oak Ridges Legion. Proceeds are for the local Brownies and Guides. Admission will be 50 cents for the evening and refreshments will be served. There are to be numerous prizes for men and women.

October Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Harrison are seen following their recent wedding in Teston United Church. The bride is the former Diane Jackson of Dew Street, King City, and she is the daughter of Mrs. Harvey Jackson and the late Mr. Jackson.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harrison of Thornhill.

Three Clubs Participate

Seventeen members of King City Women's Institute had a hilarious time presenting their share of entertainment when they and Kettleby members were guests of Schomburg WI.

The King City group's main contribution was a so-called fashion show, in which the models were cleverly dressed in different kinds of paper.

Introducing "the exclusive showing arriving from Paris and the Continent by rowboat," Mrs. Warren McKendry as commentator was strikingly attired in an ankle-length lame suit with peplum, brown fox furs, and a green straw hat trimmed with a red flower.

Designers appeared with the models. Mrs. Bruce Hall was introduced as, "Miss Simplicity, designer of simple clothes for simple people." Decked in a white gog hat, black hornrimmed glasses and an old blouse and skirt, she managed to plod around in enormous plastic feet worn over her shoes.

The "symphony in sportswear" created by Mrs. Hall and recommended for wear in the south seas on a winter vacation turned out to be a complete hula outfit, cut from newspaper, and modelled by Mrs. Austin Rumble.

Mrs. Norman Wade was billed as "talented designer Lord Helpus", and wore tuxedo coat, a pair of striped jeans and derby hat.

She was credited with the "fabulous off-the-shoulder ball gown in exotic colors fashioned for Miss Annie McBride, Chateleine of Clearview Gardens". Showing "the very items to wear to your next twist party", Miss McBride was swathed in pastel pink, green, mauve and yellow from paper rolls and had a matching hat.

"To add to the confusion comes Madam Van Winkle, a real rip at designing nightwear", Mrs. McKendry welcomed designer Mrs. William Willoughby, who wore her father's striped nightgown, with added low back belt, and old-fashioned nightcap. The commentator expained she has stayed awake nights dreaming up this exciting nightgown for Marilyn Munroe. "This little number is just the thing for reading in bed. Note the roomy pocket, an excellent place to store comic books, complete with frilly pink and white bed-jacket."

Mrs. E. J. Munroe, whose first name is Marilyn, was dressed completely in an outfit made from comics and she had curls hanging from her nightcap.

Mrs. Beverley Feindell, arrayed in worn housecoat and head grill, was known as "Mrs. average everyday housewife, 'Dishmop Millie', who can't afford any new clothes herself, but has designed this stunning ensemble in an interesting conversation print for her maid, Miss Lillie Anderson."

The outfit labelled, "Just right for travelling abroad shopping in Paris, scrubbing floors, making pickles or just plain gossiping" was elaborately draped on Miss Anderson and cut from telephone pages.

Concluding the parade, Mrs. Eugene McCoy was introduced as, "Moneybags Van Rockefeller, designing an original something-or-other for Lady Grotlocks, our beloved president."

All bowed respectfully at the entrance of Mrs. Burt Weyer. Mrs. McKendry pointed out, "Materials for this creation are in such great demand we find it almost impossible to fill orders... just right for late afternoon or early evening wear, if you can afford it."

Wearing a basic black crepe paper dress with long black gloves, Mrs. Weyer mounted a step-ladder so her designer could adjust the top dress layer of paper money and gold candy coins trimming her hat. From a handy sack she tossed grocery coupons with abandon among the audience, indicating her lack of financial cares.

Dressed as a clown, Mrs. Verdun Gordon managed to prove more of a hindrance than help in assisting with scissors and tape.

An appreciative audience warmly applauded the unique fashion parade.

Mrs. Arnold Peter from King City sang, "Christopher Robin", and, "Bless This House", accompanied by Mrs. Gordon.

A paper on, "Racial Prejudice," read by Mrs. Delbert Booth of Kettleby and tap dancing by Miss L. Davis were well received.

If man is to live as long as nature intended him to, if laws for the preservation of health are to be put on our statute books; if the wonders of science are to be applied to provide the wellbeing of humanity, it will not be the result of the automatically benevolent action of our elected representatives to parliament but because the average voter who elects our representatives has taken sufficient interest in his own destiny to take a hand in moulding it.
