Shows Good Form
Casting a critical eye on the work of Bill Cooper, Cookstown, is George Hostrower of Kitchener, right, one of the judges at last week's King-Vaughan Plowing Match held at Cloverholme Farms, Concession 2, King Township. This was the first year in competition for the young plowman who showed good form under adverse weather conditions. Mr. Hostrower praised the efforts of all contestants.

Nature Notes
By Richmond Hill Naturalists

The monthly meeting of the Richmond Hill Naturalists was held at the public library, October 19 and, under a new resolution, began promptly on time - 8 p.m. President John Lunn was in the chair. Three highlights of the evening were:

- 1 Showing of colored slides taken by members; 2 A talk by one of the junior group; 3 An intriguing quiz - presented by John and Mrs. Lunn.

Some of the beautiful slides shown included those taken by Ott Devitt of the blue heron and its nest of four green eggs, a loon's nest, blackbirds, and a fine picture of the rather rare cattle egret. Bob Cubit chose pictures (skillfully taken) of roses, begonias, zinnias, and other flowers, interesting to the horticulturist as well as the naturalist. Mrs. Collins presented slides of the unusual settlement of Eskimos picturing their customs and habits, a captured seal, their houses and their many dogs. One slide showed that, as elsewhere, children in the far north cannot resist the appeal of puppies. Another slide showed the unique cemetery of the Eskimos. Mrs. Peter Addison was successful in photographing, in its several stages, the life of the butterfly, as well as the Havana Sparrow, and an appealing nest of baby mourning doves.

Dr. Lillian Langstaff had the pleasure of introducing her grandson, Rolph Davis of King, who spoke briefly. It was evident that Dr. Lillian was pleased that her grandson was carrying on the family tradition of a keen interest in all things pertaining to nature. Rolph mentioned the problem of hunters, suggesting that signs governing their regulations might be printed in several languages, and that there should be a tighter control of the dangerous hunter, who is liable to shoot at anything. Rolph also told of a visit to Point Pelee, accompanied by several members of the staff.

The quiz had three phases, identifying birds by means of silhouettes, by slides and by sounds (their recorded songs). Juniors were asked to answer the first ten questions of each phase and the adults the entire quiz. The results showed that the juniors know their birds, auguring well for the future membership of the club. First prize in the juniors was won by Billy Redelmeier with seventeen correct answers out of thirty. Bob Cubit captured the prize for the adults, and was rewarded with a special trophy fashioned by Bob Campbell - a plaque whereon sat an alert little owl casting a covetous eye on the remnants of a field mouse, spiked on the end of a root. The ensemble included the trap that caught the mouse. With the assistance of president John, Bob slowly unveiled the trophy accompanying the unveiling with his dryly humorous comments, stating emphatically that the trophy could not be won by any individual for "more than thirteen consecutive years."

The recorded songs of the birds were beautifully clear, and included those of the robin, meadowlark, ruby crowned kinglet, pileated woodpecker, fox sparrow, yellow breasted chat, and (though not in the contest) the odd croaks of the Caracara (Mexican buzzard) one of which was found at Lake Superior this year, having struck a lighthouse in flight.

Woodland Public School held an impressive graduation ceremony and banquet at the school's new auditorium October 22.

Despite the pouring rain that drenched the school area that evening there were only two absentees in a class of 29.

Principal Gordon Learn was delighted to receive from the departed students, a fine painting to grace the halls of the school.

A much enjoyed feature of the program saw Terry Tamblin, speaking on behalf of the graduates, comically predict the fate of his successful classmates.

The outlook he gave had three of the girls being feature dancers at the Latin-Owen Club; one fellow would own the Toronto Maple Leaf hockey organization; another fellow would be the first man to run the three minute mile and a girl would represent Canada in the world tiddlywink championships.

Receiving honor trophies from the school and a cheque from the Doncaster Community Ladies Club were Linda Brain and David Bagg.

Alan Carle of Morgan Ave., celebrated his 10th birthday October 26.

Harry Mizen of Sprucewood Drive leads the contestants in the Doncaster Community Ladies Club euechre marathon with 80 points.

The Henderson Avenue School graduates will celebrate with a party at the school November 2.

Sandwiches for the Thornhaven School's annual bazaar and tea were made by Mrs. F. Baxter, Mrs. Garvey, Mrs. Bundell and Mrs. Greenfield at their homes with the help of a group of women which each had organized.

Before an audience of 150 students at Henderson Avenue Public School 10 students competed to represent their school at the 16th Avenue School in the public speaking finals October 25.

The trials were held October 23. Copping first place was Susan LePage of 26 Almond Ave., second was Sheridan Petrunia, of 37 Delair Cres.; Leslie Martin of 20 Steeles Valley Rd. was the runnerup.

At the area meet, in the 16th Ave. School, Sheridan Petrunia, took first prize and her school mate Susan LePage placed second. Woodland's David Honsberger captured third prize.

These winners competed for this area Monday of this week for the Markham Township Championship.

Ann Russell of Proctor Ave. chartered a ride on a horse which was at the Thornhaven Bazaar for Retarded Children on Saturday October 27. She, being in her teens, did not want the horse led around the ring and insisted it be set free. Unfortunately she fell from the animal and suffered a chipped elbow and bruises.
