Mrs. Ray Jennings, president of York Centre W.I., touched upon branch activities that include friendship, leadership, membership, fellowship and citizenship bringing privileges to all.

She dealt with the area convention in Toronto and the November work in Newmarket, reminding members to share with others through their branches this time of year.

Mrs. Jennings said the Associated Country Women of the World build "bridges of goodwill across the world". She considered the backbone of the W.I. is formed by branches, members and homes "and a nation is as strong as the homes in its borders".

She stressed the community service and education possible through W.I. work.

Taking the motto, "Look back and give thanks; look forward and give courage", Mrs. Laura Relling spoke of community history gathered in the "Lady" weeding books and efforts to preserve the home of the W.I. founder, Adelaide Hoodless.

She paid tribute to Mrs. Jennings as "the first lady of King Township" and said it was fitting she should be president of the W.I. since her family had lived on the second concession of King 118 years.

Now that King City is no longer under the strict regulations controlling use of water that have been in effect several months, the news isn't much help to gardening enthusiasts, but it comes just in time for the backyard rinks springing up around the village.

Closure Protest Must Be Voiced Within 20 Days

King Township and King City councils have until Christmas to protest to the federal transport board against the CNR's application to close the local station agency.

A letter from C. W. Rump, secretary of the board, informed the councils the board is considering closing the station providing the CNR appoints an express agent to handle parcels.

A number of local residents and firms added their protests to those of the councils at two meetings with CNR officials last month.

Mr. Rump's letter gave the councils 20 days in which to submit their objections.

Tax Fight Looming At Lake

A tax battle between public and separate school supporters in the Lake Wilcox area is shaping up. Linden Hanson, South Road, speaking at a meeting of public school supporters last Wednesday night, revealed apparent injustices in the township's tax collection policies.

Mr. Hanson was speaking during an adjournment at the annual meeting of ratepayers of the Lake Wilcox school section, S.S. 13, Whitechurch Township. Fewer than a dozen ratepayers attended the meeting.

Mr. Hanson contended the action of Whitechurch Township Council in relieving separate school supporters of the responsibility for the debentures was incorrect.

Separate school supporters should continue to help pay for the debentures, Mr. Hanson stated. He claimed the debenture payments worked a hardship on the remaining public school supporters. Only 10 of the 14 rooms in Lake Wilcox Public School are now in use.

Mr. Hanson invited other public school supporters to attend a township council meeting early in 1963 to protest against the township's handling of the problem.

The adjournment of the annual meeting was called because tax collection is not the responsibility of the school board. After discussions of the problem, the meeting reconvened to nominate Mrs. Flora Munro as trustee for a third three-year term.

Mrs. Munro, chairman of the board for 1962, had previously announced her intention to retire. She accepted the nomination only when the meeting failed to nominate any other candidate.

Other members of the board are William Haappa, who has two years of his term to go, and Murray Brown, who will be in his final year in 1963. Mr.

Brown is slated to be chairman for 1963.

Early in the meeting, Mrs. Munroe said the poor attendance at the meeting showed ratepayers apathy towards school business. "But you should hear the howl when they get their taxes."

Chief accomplishment of the 1962 board was the establishment of an opportunity class for 10 students at Lake Wilcox School. The class is designed for slow learners.

One member of the audience asked why the school section was still waiting to get the township levy of $21,465.06.

"Whitechurch Township is always late in sending their money," commented Mrs. D. I. Cole, secretary treasurer of the board. "The check usually comes with my Christmas cards."

"Perhaps we should send the township a bill for the interest that would have accumulated on the money," another member of the audience laughingly commented.

A third member of the audience suggested that residents in the area were in no position to chastise the township for being tardy. He stated that 60 per cent of the taxes in the Lake Wilcox area were overdue.

Mr. Hanson contended the board's expenditure of $185 for sports equipment was too small.

Principal Carl Hall replied the board had been trying to limit expenditures and had some carryover of equipment from other years, but that he had still exceeded his budget of $150.

Sunday school classes attended their respective Christmas parties at St. Paul's United Church December 7 and 8.

On Saturday the little tots arrived who attend the kindergarten classes of the Sunday School and also enjoyed ice-cream, cookies and a candy cane.

The object of this church Christmas party is to have the children bring a white gift for someone needy rather than to receive a gift for themselves.

The congregation also take white gifts to church and baskets are made up for people in the community.
