Reveal Drawings For New Church To Seat 526

Plans for a new church were revealed Monday at the annual vestry meeting of St. Mary's Anglican Church, Richmond Hill.
A model and architect's drawing show the proposed building will combine modern architecture with traditional concepts. Seating capacity will be 526.
Building of the new church was approved in principle at the meeting and a special vestry meeting will be called to iron out details in the near future.
Also approved, subject to final approval from the Synod, were plans for a new rectory on Arnold Street.
Budget for 1963 will be $66,000 including $10,000 for church outreach.
William Kedwell was elected rector's warden and H. C. Montgomery, people's warden. Harry Stanford was re-elected warden-emeritus.
Rev. J. F. O'Neill reported steady growth of the congregation with a membership now of over 600 families. Present facilities are strained to the utmost, he said.

Last week's Red Cross Blood Clinic held at Richmond Hill Public Library collected 224 pints of blood. Mrs. Warren Hall, 98 Ruggles Ave., Richmond Hill, chose last week to make her third blood donation. Looking on is Red Cross Nurse Aid Viola Bank.

Chairman William Hamilton of the blood clinic committee of Richmond Hill Red Cross was pleased with the small number of rejects — only eight. At last summer's clinic there were 37 rejects and 263 pints donated.

Assisting at the clinic were the Women's Institute, ladies of St. Mary's Anglican Church and the Catholic Women's League of St. Mary Immaculate and Our Lady Queen of the World Churches.

Bryson Battles In Vain To Stop Sunday Movies

Opposition from Deputy-reeve Jesse Bryson failed to prevent first and second reading of a bylaw authorizing the showing of Sunday movies at Monday night's meeting of Vaughan Township Council.

All four other members of council supported passage of the legislation.
Presentation of the bylaw follows a plebiscite last month in which voters in Vaughan Township favored Sunday movies 1,397 to 1,276.

Mr. Bryson voiced his opposition during reading of a report from the finance and general purpose committee recommending passage of the bylaw. He contended it was still the responsibility of members of council to take a stand on the matter. A check of the Ontario Municipal Act by Clerk James McDonald showed that council "may" pass such a bylaw, not that it "should" pass the bylaw.

"Sunday is a pretty important day," Mr. Bryson said. "We should recognize the sacrifices that have been made to obtain this day for us."

"We mustn't move so flippantly to open the door that will let part of Sunday go," Mr. Bryson warned. "Soon it could be the whole Sunday."

"Sunday is the cornerstone of our democracy," Mr. Bryson continued. "It is part of our great Christian heritage."

"I've done a lot of thinking on this matter," Mr. Bryson concluded. "Someday you will have to meet your Master. How are you going to face Him after passing something that doesn't help Sunday? That is why I will have to vote no on this report and on this bylaw."

Reeve Albert Rutherford explained he was always willing to hear other people's views. "But I'm not willing to force my opinion on anybody," he added.

"I'm not saying which way I voted," Mr. Rutherford said. "People in this municipality have indicated they are in favor of a Sunday movie bylaw. The majority, in most cases, must rule."

"I don't mind saying I didn't vote for it last month," Councillor Wilfred Keffer explained. "But as a councillor I can only continue to vote along with the people."

Mr. Bryson demanded a recorded vote on the resolution passing the report. Both the report and first and second readings of the bylaw were approved with the other four members of council defeating Mr. Bryson.

When that section of the report first came up, Councillor Ruth McConkey warned, "Time for another speech from Jesse." Council must give the bylaw third reading this week before it becomes law.

Reverse Policy To Let Builder Dump Sewage

Developers of Colmur subdivision in Markham Township were given the go-ahead to dump storm sewage into their sanitary sewers.

Permission from township council came Monday afternoon, almost two months after their first application stirred a storm of controversy just before election time.

When Colmur first applied November 26, Deputy-reeve Lawson Mumberson charged Reeve Wilfred Dean with unethical practices in dealing with the subdividers.

Mr. Mumberson, who was subsequently defeated for the reeve's chair by Mr. Dean, charged that the reeve's purchase of a house in the subdivision was "one of the most unethical pieces of business I have ever heard of."

Mr. Dean contended the subdivision agreement had been signed and explained he had only bought a home there when he was forced out of his Thornhill house by the widening of Yonge Street.

A subdivision agreement between the township and the developer now in effect calls for open ditches and septic tanks. No mention is made of sewers. Colmur chose to install sewers along with roads above township standards to enhance the homes in the development.

It has been township policy not to permit the emptying of storm sewers into sanitary sewers.

Predicts Boost Of 2-7 Per Cent

He urged that Richmond Hill be put in the world-wide picture as far as industrial expansion is concerned.

Claiming that overseas firms based in the United States have decreased exports into this country since devaluation of the Canadian dollar, Mr. Campbell said exporters are now taking a serious look at building plants in Canada.

"It is not profitable for them to ship to Canada on account of the dollar situation and tariff barriers and consequently quite a number of foreign firms are locating here to protect their market," Mr. Campbell stated.

"But Richmond Hill is out of bounds because we can't supply them with land to build their plants."

He predicted that if Great Britain does not enter the Common Market it will be an incentive for overseas firms to locate in this country.

However, if council takes a strong stand against annexation it means Richmond Hill must settle for small companies employing five to ten men, Mr. Campbell said.

"People will knock on our door to lend us money," Mayor William Neal said he was not against progressive development and would favor industrial annexation if the right deal could be secured for the town.

He reminded council it must spend $180,000 to repair sewers in Beverley Acres to avoid it becoming a slum area as well as installing storm sewers on Yonge Street before orderly redevelopment of the downtown district can begin.

Merchants on Yonge Street are losing business to the shopping centres because of inadequate facilities, Mr. Neal claimed.

The mayor said he based his campaign on no more annexation and a policy of consolidation, not expansion.

Ask Salary Rate Be Reconsidered On Yearly Basis

Richmond Hill's finance committee was asked Monday night to review method of payment to council members and bring back a recommendation to council.

The request was made by Councillor Al White who suggested a set yearly sum be considered instead of on a per meeting basis.

At their January 14 meeting council voted to stop paying themselves for meetings of municipal boards or commissions but to continue drawing $16 for regular council sessions or meeting of a committee of council.

Under the Ontario Municipal Act $1,000 is the maximum a member can receive in one year.

Mr. White said members are out several nights a week on town business and some remuneration should be paid.

By paying a set amount yearly council would know its administrative costs at the start of each term, he told council.

Reeve Floyd Perkins said members should not be paid for missing meetings and urged a clause be put into any agreement stipulating members would be deducted for not attending.

Claiming taxpayers should know exactly what wages councillors will receive before they are elected, Councillor Walter Seudts said he wasn't in favor of members adjusting their own salary.

Council members sit on eight boards and commissions as well as six committees of council.

Local Conservative Ladies Hold Gay Dance & Buffet At Lions Hall

The Richmond Hill Women's Progressive Conservative Association held a most successful dance and buffet in the Lion's hall on Friday night last.

Annually the association held a "January Dinner", but this year it was decided to hold a dance and buffet. The Lion's hall, on Centre Street East proved the most suitable place.

Major McKenzie, M.L.A., assisted the president, Mrs. Margaret Harrison, greeting the guests.

The hall with its huge clusters of evergreens hung around the wall, decorated with miniature blue and white lights and large silver chandeliers, complimented the cabaret style. Mr. Larry Lucas and his YPC helpers are to be congratulated on their special decorations which were greatly admired.

Mr. Norman Burling, orchestra leader, and his Kingsmen, with their talented master of ceremonies, Mr. C. Van Zant, presented a variety programme which also included square dancing, the Twist and in observance of Robbie Burns Day, A Rye Waltz. Major Lex McKenzie led off "The Gay Gordons". Noticeable on the floor was Mr. and Mrs. Lou Reid resplendent in the Robertson Clan Tartan.

Winners of the spot dances were: Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Doucette; Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Horne; Mrs. Sadie Lucas and Mr. J. Rimmer; Mr. John Graves and Miss Beverly Boland. A door prize and roses were also presented.

Harold Cain, 25 Abitibi Ave., Willowdale, died in Branson Hospital Monday following a head-on crash on Highway 11 a mile north of Langstaff.

Police said Mr. Cain was southbound and collided with a northbound car driven by Eric Nisbet, 21 of Webster Dr., Aurora.

Mr. Nisbet is in fair condition at Branson Hospital with multiple fractures.

Police have been unable to determine in which lane the crash occurred.

One Dead, One Injured In Head-On Collision

Alters Bylaw Procedure But Reeve Has Last Say

Deputy-reeve Charles Hooper moved into the chair of Markham Township council Monday afternoon to make a major physical change in the procedure involving the passing of bylaws.

Mr. Hooper was replacing Reeve Wilfred Dean who was in Newmarket attending a meeting of a committee of York County Council.

Each municipal bylaw must receive three readings to become law.

First major change came when Mr. Hooper instructed the mover of the first reading of each bylaw to read the preamble before moving its first reading.

After passage of the first reading, council went into committee of the whole to discuss the bylaw, clause by clause. Individual members of council were named to chair the committee.

Mr. Hooper explained that formerly the bylaw had been read for the first time before first reading was moved.

Council formerly went into committee of the whole to discuss a bylaw, but Reeve Dean remained in the chair.

Clerk H. C. T. Crisp had formerly been saddled with the task of reading aloud each bylaw. Mr. Crisp explained that the change was only technical and would not show up in the minutes of Monday's meeting.

Reeve Wilfred Dean, who will be back in the chair next week, must decide whether to make the change permanent or to revert to the old procedure.

Equipment Cost Hits $25,263 For Pumphouse

Purchase of all equipment for the new Edgeley Pumphouse was authorized by Vaughan Township Council Monday night at a total cost of $25,263.70.

Council accepted the lowest tender in all cases but one. Although a bid of $590.19 for an electric hypochlorinator from Wallace and Tiernan was not low, council accepted it to assure uniform equipment for all pumphouses in the township.

Biggest item was pumping equipment from Flometric, which will cost $11,946.87.

Council will buy an iron removal unit from Degremont Canada Ltd., for $6,490 and control equipment from Foxboro Ltd., for $3,819.24.

Klockner-Mueller Ltd. will supply a control centre for $1,648. A six-inch Singer pressure valve from Canadian Valve Engineering will cost the township $389.10.

The township will buy a four-inch trident crest watermeter from Neptune Meter Ltd., for $371.20.
