Three Ways To Combat Cancer
20,390 patients across Canada have been given assistance in the fight against cancer including those who have symptoms of the disease.

Mr. G. Winch, campaign chairman of the local branch of the Cancer Society and Mrs. C. R. Smith educational chairman wish to remind everyone that April is Cancer Campaign month. According to the Canadian Cancer Society there are three things anyone can do to fight cancer. No. 1, be alert to the symptoms of cancer. No. 2, report any new and unusual ailment to your doctor, who is the only person who can determine if cancer is present, and who can prescribe the correct treatment which is available to all. No. 3, contribute to the appeal of the Canadian Cancer Society to finance its attack on the disease, by means of research, public education and assistance to patients. The work of the society is voluntary and direct assistance has been given to thousands of people across Canada in 1962.

Our local drug store has a display of services that is rendered by the Canadian Cancer Society. It is available to anyone, so while you are at the corner of Yonge St. and the King sidewalk, whether you are waiting for a bus or buying any of the many items available at the drug store, be sure to look at the display and maybe you will learn something about cancer.

Don't forget the well-baby clinic, April 9th at St. Paul's Church.

Belated birthday wishes to the twins, Janet and Jimmy Cook, Moray Ave. who celebrated their birthday March 21st and to Mrs. J. Lupsom, March 22nd.

Congratulations to Gary Comfort on winning a first and second for his bantams at the West-on Arena on Tuesday, March 26. Mr. and Mrs. Comfort also attended this event and Mrs. Comfort was the winner of a door prize.

Very serious damage was caused to the home of Mrs. Preston, Maple Ave, recently after only three weeks of residency.

Legion members will take this weekend to call on several ex-members of the Oak Ridges Legion to see if they can build up the membership. If you are eligible to become a member of the Legion and would like to join in their many activities.

A successful rummage sale was held recently at the Lake Wilcox School by the mother's auxiliary, proceeds of which will help the Guides, Brownies and Cubs. On March 21st at a meeting the ladies of the auxiliary agreed to donate $10 to the York Summit Scouts attending the Boy Scout Jamboree to be held this summer in Greece.

An invitation was received to attend a tea and bake sale sponsored by King City Auxiliary on Saturday at the Anglican church at King. The meeting was attended by the leaders of the Brownies, Guides and Cubs and each in turn spoke of the work involved. Cubmaster, Bill Nicholls brought along a progress chart to encourage the members, and it is hoped the April meeting will be better attended. Films will be shown about cancer.

Fifty or more fancy canaries and finches were burned in a fire that destroyed a shed on the property of Mr. G. W. Margerum, Benson Ave., Oak Ridges. Fire started presumably from a small oil stove and was first noticed at 11.15 on Wednesday morning by Mrs. Margerum who called Aurora Fire Department. Also lost in the fire were several tools which were valued by Mr. Margerum.

Individual scores: Doris Lemberg 787 with singles of 283, 280 and 224; Anne Sweeney 629, 245; Doris Smith 570, 244; Fern Leslie 568, 200; Mary Slikhuis 558, 216; Mary Laitanus 557, 224; Dorothy Hanley 503, 220; Gwen Taylor 500, 201; Eva Willis 239 single and Toots Craig 218.

Six days after her 63rd wedding anniversary, Mrs. John Edwin Archibald, a native of King Township, died at Lindsay March 12.

In her 85th year, she had been in hospital since last April.

Friends and relatives called at the Stoddart Funeral Home in Woodville, after which the service was held in King City United Church.

Paying final tribute to the former member of the congregation, Rev. Martin Jenkinson had a message of comfort for the family and said it was appropriate the service should be held in the community where Mrs. Archibald's many kind deeds were known.

Burial was in King City Cemetery. Pallbearers were grandsons Bert, Ron and Ross Archibald; grandson-in-law James Keeling; and cousins Frank and Murray Douglas. The flowers were carried by Carl Archibald.

Mrs. Archibald lived eighty years in King Township. Daughter of John Wells and the former Elizabeth Roadhouse, she was born on the eighth concession in the area known as King Creek.

As a girl, Nellie Wells attended school in Nobleton, and married in 1900. She lived in King City 33 years before moving with her son, Clarke, to live at Bolsover. She enjoyed euchre parties and quilting was a favorite pastime.

Surviving are Mr. Archibald; a sister, Mrs. Edna White of Toronto; two daughters, Mrs. Truman Bredon (Marjorie) of Woodside, Manitoba; Mrs. Mel Hoover (Bernice) of Nobleton; and four sons, Carl of Edley, Saskatchewan; Aubrey of Dundalk; Clarke of Bolsover, and Jack of Toronto; 14 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren. Another son, Donald, of Vancouver, pre-deceased Mrs. Archibald.

King Notes

With spring cleaning time at hand, the Girl Guides' association reminds housewives to set aside any clothing or household articles, which might be sold at the annual May 9 and 10 rummage sale.

Donations will be picked up a few days before the sale, to allow the mothers time to sort the goods.

No need to bake for the weekend. A choice of home-baking and a cup of tea will be available Saturday afternoon, April 6, at All Saints' Church.

The First King Scout Troop Ladies' Auxiliary is sponsoring the event.

Mrs. Pearl Wilson and Mrs. D. Alaggia have been patients in York County Hospital, Newmarket.

An almost full house greeted the Canadian Opera Company's presentation of Mozart's "Così Fan Tutte" in King City Composite School last week.

Since January the company has been touring Eastern Canada, visiting nearly two dozen cities, towns and villages in Ontario and 13 centres elsewhere, mostly in the Maritimes.

Director Herman Geiger-Torel summed up the troupe's efforts. "The tour hasn't been any more financially successful than the others, but we have been increasing our audiences and averaging 90 per cent attendance."

The current tour, which has included several concerts in the vicinity of Toronto, will conclude tomorrow at East York Collegiate.

A treat is in store for mothers of Guides and Brownies, for group leaders, any one involved in organizations or who has tried not to be.

"Just Be Yourself", written by Mary Bard, is currently available at King Memorial Library through the provincial library service.

The light, relaxing tale has many a chuckle as a doctor's wife relates how she unwittingly became a leader, her recreation room the troop meeting place and her home a place where Brownies were welcome and underfoot daily.

Characterizations of efficient club leaders and Brownie mothers could be typical of any community.

Many people around King knew Mr. George DeWitt, who died suddenly last week at his Richmond Hill home.

Children at Doris M. Patton and Eva L. Dennis Schools were accustomed to seeing an excellent selection of films shown in the classrooms by Mr. DeWitt.

Young married couples in King City used to benefit from his instruction at their square dancing club, which held Saturday night practices in the Legion clubhouse six years ago.

Trophies were presented by King City Lions' Club at the final junior hockey session, concluding an active season, in Nobleton Arena.

Lions Club President Kenneth Sutton made presentations to Paul O'Neil, winner of the senior scoring championship, and to his younger brother, Jim O'Neil, who counted the most goals in the pee wee league.

Lion Stan Roots presented his "Tykes" trophy to Martin Fox, captain of the winning Jets. Lion Howard Clegg awarded team trophies to Eric Cooke, captain of the high-scoring Lions, and to Paul O'Neil, Canadians' captain.

The draw for complete home movie equipment was won by Mrs. Marlon Curran.

Mr. Thompson pointed out the pump is the property of King City waterworks and each utility should be self-sustaining. Trustees set a $50 rental fee a year from village funds to the waterworks account for use of the pump in clearing ditches.

Mr. Bert Lutes asked if trustees had ever considered a steam jenny, or was one feasible. He reminded that frozen culverts do a lot of damage. "The shoulders of roads are tearing off. The ditches are a hazard to children and water is siphoning back into basements from full ditches."

Mr. Lutes added, "I have no houses left to sell in King so there's nothing personal."

He was told a jenny had been rented once and one would be expensive to maintain. Trustee Mann commended Mr. Lutes' suggestion that rental be arranged on an annual basis from a commercial firm.

Mr. Findlay suggested working out a plan with Toronto and York Roads Commission regarding thawing by steam.

Ratepayer Howard Clegg questioned why storm sewers had not been continued further through Valentine Acres.

Chairman Bolton explained the cost would have affected purchase price of houses and the sewers would have been difficult to maintain without a works department.

He believed, "The next subdivision developed around the village will have sanitary sewers, curbs and gutters possibly, but maybe no sidewalks."

Trustee Mann noted that the CNR be contacted concerning the unclogging of an old wooden culvert under the track behind 238 Keele Street South.

"There is no problem now. It's carrying water away, but why wait for another Hurricane Hazel," he said.

"We've got all kinds of water now," reported Chairman Bolton. "The back flats are flooded and today school children were re-routed so they would not use the footbridge."

Commenting on the electrical system, Trustee Bolton said all bills have been met. "It's all ours. There are no big problems or expenses for the first winter."

He announced the village had not been exempt from paying $1,892 sales tax on equipment involved in purchase of the system.

Next trustees' meeting is scheduled for Monday evening, April 8.

Many relatives and friends from King and Vaughan townships attended the funeral service at Thompson Parlors in Aurora for Mrs. Alice Agnes Windas, who died suddenly at York County Hospital Newmarket, in her 71st year.

Rev. William Wilson of Willowdale, a cousin of Mrs. Windas, assisted Rev. Martin R. Jenkinson as final tribute was paid to the well-known King City resident.

Burial was in Maple Cemetery. Acting as pallbearers and flower bearers were mostly relatives, and all had performed similar service for the deceased's husband, Mr. William Windas, six years ago.

Mr. George Robson, Mr. Bruce Robson of King, Mr. Murray Pettit of Islington, Mr. Frank Robson of Maple, Mr. Donald McLeod of Cooksville and Mr. Joseph Gibson of Willowdale were pallbearers. Mr. Robert McLeod, Mr. Leslie Robson of Toronto, Mr. Albert Mitchell of Peterborough, Mr. George Saweyell of Teston, Mr. Roy Robson of King City and Mr. Charles Robson of Woodbridge tended floral tributes.

Mrs. Windas, the former Alice Robson, grew up on the seventh concession of Vaughan Township. She was always active at Teston United Church, working in the W.A., now the United Church Women.

She enjoyed regular games at Vellore Euchre Club for many years and joined her friends at euchre in King City fire hall. Those familiar with her keen interest in quilting were impressed with her aim for perfection in harmonizing colors.

After she married Wm. Windas, they farmed on the Maple side road at the sixth of Vaughan for thirty years before moving to King City, south of All Saints' Church, in 1950.

Daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Robson and one of seven children, Mrs. Windas is survived by a sister, Mrs. Harry McLeod of Toronto; a brother, Mr. Ed Robson, who lived a few houses south of her Keele Street home; her daughter, Mrs. Frank Barnes, and granddaughter, Karen Barnes, of Schomberg.

Water problems occupied most of the agenda at King City Village Trustees' March 25 meeting at the village office.

Getting rid of excess water currently flooding ditches, and uncertainty whether the third well can be speeded into production in time for summer needs, were discussed by two trustees and four ratepayers present.

Informing that lawyers for the proposed Kingslynn development on North Keele Street had refused trustees' offer of nearly $1,200 for the new well site, Trustees Ronald Bolton and John Mann instructed Secretary-manager G. T. Thompson to write King Township Council, requesting immediate action to assure an adequate supply of water during dry months.

Noting it would take eight weeks to develop the well, trustees asked that the township solicitor speed the application for approval of the project by Ontario Municipal Board, and also prepare an expropriation by-law in case it is needed for nearly four acres of Humber Valley land.

Trustees requested a meeting be arranged in the next few days with Mr. J. J. Gellery's lawyers, rather than delay such a meeting until April 18 or 19 as suggested by the subdivision's representatives.

"We're not going to have water for summer if we don't get after it right away," warned Trustee Mann.

Mr. Thompson reported he had township's assurance a special meeting could be held at any time if needed to facilitate the well project.

Former Village Chairman Donald Findlay recommended trustees expropriate the land now, to be in a better position to proceed without delay when the project is approved.

A ratepayer praising the pump in Valentine Acres pumped out. Trustee Mann felt the $120 purchase of a pump had already earned its cost after draining 252,000 gallons of water.

He moved that the secretary check costs of storm sewers on Kingslynn, between Hollingsworth and Patton. "This doesn't mean we've decided to do it. We want to see what's fair to everybody." Cost of draining the east end of Melrose Ave. into the gully were also requested.
