ROBERT L. NEWMAN
New Inspector

Principal of MacKillop Public School for the past five years, Robert L. Newman recently received a certificate from the Department of Education which will entitle him to act as an inspector in elementary schools. However, the 36-year-old teacher said he is hesitant to make the change as it would likely mean moving away from a community he had come to hold in high regard.

Mr. Newman, who started teaching at 18 years of age, received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Western University, London, in 1957. Four years later he acquired his Master's degree, from University of Toronto, North Bay and Huntsville, as well as an RCAF base station school before moving to Richmond Hill.

Mr. Newman feels MacKillop School has a "good all around teaching program" in that in addition to the regular grades it supports a fine choir and a good physical educational program.

"Mrs. Newman and I would miss Richmond Hill. We have found it a friendly place to live and raise our family," he said. The Altamira Drive couple have a son, David 11, and a daughter Susan, 7, both attending MacKillop.

The principal has accepted an invitation to instruct at a summer course for teachers being held in Pembroke this coming season, but on his plans for accepting the position of inspector Mr. Newman is still indefinite. "We will likely wait a year at least before making a move, and possibly by then there might be an opening in the district. We would certainly like to stay in Richmond Hill," claimed the popular teacher.

Ajax Mayor Wants New Type Gov't.

Speaking at the annual convention of district 12 assessors' convention Mayor William Parish of Ajax said that one of the major reforms required in our system of Ontario municipal government is the immediate institution of regional government. Mr. Parish said that this form of government should not be another layer of government but replace and eliminate the municipalities of the area which it governs.

It was Mr. Parish's thought that regional government would be part of a county and that cities would become part of the regional government.

According to Mr. Parish some of the advantages that would derive from a regional form of government would be the elimination of competition between many municipalities, which, under present conditions, duplicate services, a larger council with a better assessment base that would enable it to do a better and more efficient job and would enable better qualified men to be hired and paid higher salaries.

Additional advantages that would be inherent in such a plan of government would be that better planning and broader viewpoints could be adopted. It would reduce the number of fringe problems that have to be dealt with under the present system and a more intelligent approach could be taken in the matter of sewers, water, roads, hydro, police and fire protection services. These could not be done Mr. Parish said, with a host of minor and major municipalities.

A second recommendation put forward by Mr. Parish was that reform should be applied to the whole organization of local government within the municipality.

The first principle here, he said, is that all councils must be directly elected by and be responsible to the ratepayers. This, Mr. Parish said, is my major criticism.
