

Tips For Umpires

By Dan Pilcher

One of the best umpires in the game today, Max Scheff, once told me "If you want to be an umpire, look like an umpire."

I pass this tip on to you would-be umpires as the best piece of advice I know. The investment for the black pants and shirt a cap, mask, spikes and whisk will more than pay for themselves in the feeling of confidence that you receive. This I found to be very true in my first year as an umpire. There is no doubt, looking like an umpire makes you feel like an umpire.

When you are umpiring a game, you are the man in charge, but to do this job properly, you need the respect of the players and fans. This respect comes far more readily to the man who looks like an umpire. Try this in your first game.

Now to those of you who think that you have the answers as an umpire or as umpire "baiter" try this question for size. What would you do in this situation?

The bases are loaded, last half of the final inning with one out. The batter hits a lazy liner toward second base, and the runner there, ducks so that the ball will not hit him. However, the ball caromes off the runners back and goes to centre and two runs score. Or do they? You are the umpire - - you call it.

This question arose in a ball game in Richmond Hill minor ball last year and it stirred up a hornets nest. The rhubarb was, that since the runner had attempted to duck, he should be safe. This is not so. The runner is out for interference, and the ball is dead. No runs score. The batter goes to first and the runner on first goes to second. The rule is very clear; that a runner on base or not, if struck by a hit ball except an infield fly is out and no run may score.
