

PROFESSIONAL AND BUSINESS DIRECTORY

THE MUSIC BOX

By W. Ray Stephens

(Continued from Page 2) Probably the most appealing item for such an audience, or for any audience for that matter, was the light hearted "Syncopated Clock" by Leroy Anderson. The "heavy" work for the evening was the Schubert "Unfinished Symphony" and this came off quite well despite the amateur standing of the orchestra and its newness to concert work. So much of the important woodwind solo work depends upon the younger element of the group and although notes can be read well in practice, it's a different thing entirely when it's for "real."

The closing work was most appropriate because it combined the maximum efforts of the choir and orchestra plus many individual soloists. It was "The Old Hundredth Psalm Tune" as arranged by Vaughan Williams for the Coronation. Five voices, each with a different flavour. (A different accompaniment in each case and most worthy in the delicate verse of the choir and trumpet accompaniment. DICK PARKS on trumpet once again brought forth a professional touch. The final verse with organ (Mr. Illyd Harris) the choir and orchestra left the audience on its feet with applause. Final rehearsal was after for the orchestral members and their families.

Plans are already underway for next year and it is intended that several attractive concerts will be held in the Hill. So far all invitations to perform such as in Newmarket and Aurora have been honoured and it is hoped that Richmond Hill might also offer their orchestra an invitation to perform locally for some special occasion.

Dear Mr. Editor
(Continued from Page 2) Why should property owners be responsible for injuries received on icy sidewalks in front of their property, if the town is not responsible for an injury received on a faulty sidewalk which they paid for and apparently was inspected and passed by some town authority? Can any of your readers give me any help on these questions? As far as I am concerned I reported the accident at time of the injury and feel I should have been told then by the clerk to send it to council in writing. Thank you for your valuable space.

G. Lever,
