usually grossly unfair to both parties. Still, we can't help making them; it's the human thing to do. The Metro Major Fastball League games staged in Richmond Hill this year have been a softball filbert's delight. They nearly always start smack on time, give or take a couple of minutes, and are over in an hour and a half to an hour and forty minutes. Teams hustle in from the field and hustle out just as fast when they are going out to the field. Warm-up pitches are taken promptly and the batters called quickly to the plate. The end result is a game that keeps spectators coming back week after week for more of the same, and getting it.

On the other hand, any game that doesn't start is a barnacled veteran of scratch as he visited his wife in that "the weatherman just did close to time runs into all kinds of unnecessary delay eighty-one.
