

Car Club Prize Winners

Group of happy winners of the Aristocrats Rod & Custom Car Club of Richmond Hill model car competition — flanked on the left by Constable Wilcox and on the right by Constable Quigg of the Ontario Provincial Police — who were as enthusiastic as the contestants.

The event was held at Harvey's Drive-In Restaurant at Richvale under the direction of Bob Walters, Howard Foster, George Fraser and Bob Smith. The models were excellently finished and fantastic in their detail, and, as the top age limit was 16 years it was considered that the 58 entries were of a very high standard.

O.P.P. Constable Kerr also attended the show and the handsome trophies were presented by Constable Wilcox to a very happy group of winning contestants. (Photo by Chaplin)

Total expenditure over revenue amounted to $2,528, according to a TTC report submitted to the finance and general purpose committee.

Payments of $8,733 and $2,889 for general and welfare accounts respectively were also authorized. Fire and police accounts for $614 were also okayed, as were road department accounts for $56,887.

When Dogs Bark People Unhappy Council Figures

Markham Township Council members were operating on the oft-proved theory that barking dogs make for unhappy neighbours Monday when they withheld an application for a dog licence.

The application was made by Mr. and Mrs. H. Schlotzer to breed dogs on 10 acres of property on Highway 7 across from the Buttonville Airport.

Mr. Schlotzer appeared before council stating he had three dogs now — one Laplander and two beagles.

He was reminded that the township had an anti-noise by-law.

"Laplanders are gentle and very quiet," said Mr. Schlotzer.

"But beagles can be very noisy unless they are trained to be quiet," said Reeve Wilfred Dean.

When reminded the nearby airplane was "fairly noisy" council members felt dogs could be noisier.

Mr. Schlotzer said there were not many people in the nearby area and assured council some one would be with the dogs all the time to keep them quiet.

"I think we should check the area before committing ourselves," suggested Councillor Allan Sumner.

Council agreed and ordered a bylaw officer to poll the area to see if any of the residents had objections to dogs — noisy or otherwise.

"Five very pleasant days" were spent by Mr. D. J. Ashworth, business administrator of the York Central District High School Board at the Kellogg Centre of Michigan State University, East Lansing, Michigan.

Mr. Ashworth participated in a workshop for school business officials which dealt with problems of the present and planning for the future in the business end of the educational field. About 40 men from the United States and five from Ontario attended the workshop and all derived great benefit from it.

A highlight of the week was a visit to the Flint, Michigan, school system, where a former president of General Motors has set up the Mott Foundation which pours two to three million dollars annually into the system for research in education. One feature of Flint's system is an exceptionally large adult education programme, and another a health centre where all school children receive free medical and dental care.

The Kellogg Centre, described by Mr. Ashworth as a most beautiful building, is used for graduate study on education, and was a gift from the Kellogg Foundation set up by the company which manufactures breakfast food in nearby Battle Creek.

It is one of many beautiful buildings on the large campus, where the 25,000 students find it necessary to bicycle to classes.

Mr. Ashworth did not have to resort to a bicycle as he and his wife and family were accommodated at Butterfield Hall, a large girls' residence across the road from the Kellogg Centre. While Mr. Ashworth was busily engaged in the study of educational problems, Mrs. Ashworth and their three children were entertained by members of the staff of the university.

At the conclusion of the course, the Ashworths visited friends in Lafayette, Indiana, at Purdue University, returning to their summer cottage at Tobemore by way of Detroit, Port Huron, Sarnia, and the Blue Water Highway. They spent a few days of leisure there before returning to Richmond Hill.

County States Court Facilities Begin In Sept.

A step closer to the hoped-for courthouse facilities in York County was made last Wednesday at county council sessions in Newmarket.

Warden Clarence Davis announced that a chambers court would be held every Friday and a non-jury court will also be set up for a period of about three weeks, both facilities beginning this fall. Both will mainly deal with civil matters.

Warden Davis made his announcement following a meeting with the Attorney-General's office.

Vaughan Reeve A. H. Rutherford commented: "We have been asking for some relief for our solicitors who have to travel to Toronto on these matters and this will help greatly."

The county is seeking exemption from the cost of the new courthouse to be built on the site of the University Avenue Armouries, at a proposed $16,000,000 expenditure.

Mr. Rutherford, who is chairman of the county's administration of justice committee said Ontario authorities are studying the exemption possibility.

No Local Member Yet "Long Overdue" On Metro Planning Bd. Bothers Denham

Richmond Hill Planning Board's attempt to get a direct voice on Metropolitan Toronto Planning Board has been at least temporarily stalled.

The notice came in the form of a letter at a local board meeting here Tuesday night.

The letter stated the question of representation would be held in abeyance until H. Carl Goldenberg reports to the provincial government on organizational set-up of Metro.

Mr. Goldenberg, a Montreal lawyer, is acting as a one-man Royal Commission and will make recommendations on his findings.

At the present time, the Metro board supervises planning in 13 municipalities outside Metro Toronto. But the 13 are divided into four groups with one representative to the board from each group. Richmond Hill, Markham Township, Markham Village and Stouffville are represented on the board by former Markham Reeve Vern Griffen.

Also enclosed in the Metro letter to local board members was a staff report on the question of representation from fringe areas. The report tabbed 12 possible alternatives and suggested there were undoubtedly others. He warned any change should be considered only as it contributed to area-wide planning concepts.

It was at the June 18 meeting that the Richmond Hill Planning Board made known it desired a seat on the Metro parent board.

At that time the board agreed to a resolution to seek direct representation on Metro "in view of our observations over the past six months it is felt Richmond Hill more than ever needs a representative."

Board members felt they had nothing to lose in trying to push for a representative.

Observing at the Metro meetings, it was reported, were local board members Howard Williams and Chairman Cecil Williams.

Mr. Williams at that time said he felt to enlarge the Metro board would make it unwieldy especially if they included other members from area municipalities boards.

It was his feeling it would be better to get a well qualified person to represent the area "rather than a past politician in favor of the current council."

Local board members felt they weren't right "on top of everything" at Metro under the current set-up. It was pointed out that the Metro parent board wielded too much authority for the Richmond Hill municipality not to be in on it.

Board member Harry Sayers was then requested to form a letter and send it to the Metro board. The answer came back Tuesday night.

Drive Delegation

A delegation of Denham Drive residents from the south end of Vaughan told council Monday they were unhappy with a road paving job in front of their homes.

Not because it's being done now but because they felt it was long overdue.

Spokesman Colin MacSavane, 63 Denham Drive, said residents were disturbed because the poor road situation has existed for four years and nothing has been done about it until now.

"We are paying taxes to the township, not the subdivision, although we are getting a wider road," he said. He added that as far as the residents were concerned the engineer and contractors were doing a satisfactory job.

Up To Standard

Reeve A. H. Rutherford said although the subdivision was approved in 1959, the township has never taken the road over and can't until it is in good condition according to Department of Highways standards. "The subdivision is going to pay for it; we are only doing the work," he said.

The work has lopped parts off the front lawns of the Denham Drive properties. Reeve Rutherford said parts of the road weren't built up at all and in other cases, fire hydrants weren't placed properly.

Township Clerk James McDonald said the road work was being completed as set out in the subdivision agreement and will be finished in several weeks.

Plan Restoration Of Cemetery As Winter Works

Vaughan is thinking ahead to winter.

At its Monday night meeting, township council approved a restoration project for an abandoned cemetery in Kleinburg. It will be the third pioneer cemetery restored by the township.

With the exception of materials, most of the money spent on the project will be recoverable from the winter works programme. Councillor Ruth McConkey said.

First cemetery restored two years ago was an old kirk cemetery on the 7th Concession where the old stones were taken up and used as part of a commemorative cairn and the area cleared and landscaped. Last year, the cemetery of the old Hope United Church north of Maple was restored with a large cross cairn and the old gravestones, some of them dating back to early 1800's set around it.

Township draughtsman John Hall helped with the design for the cairns and local stonemasons assisted with the stone cleaning and restoration.

The project will begin in November and is a winter-long job. Workmen use a portable hut on the site for the cleaning. It was suggested by area residents who still have an interest in the old plots since ancestors lie there.

Once completed, the cemeteries' upkeep is the responsibility of the township.
