Rev. K. A. Thatcher Archdeacon Rafanomezana Emmanuel Gifts Special Guest

An archdeacon from Southern Madagascar found recently that true christianity knows no bounds when he visited Emmanuel Anglican Church in Richvale. The Very Reverend Samuel Rafanomezana, the archdeacon of Southern Madagascar, impressed congregation members to the extent they decided to present him with a small gift to take home with him. The archdeacon was a delegate to the Anglican Congress in Toronto.

In the days that followed donations were received that surpassed by far the amount expected for a small gift. The church first sponsored a travelling communion set for Archdeacon Rafanomezana to enable him to administer communion in proper fashion in all outlying villages of his parish. He was previously forced to use earthenware cups and plates through lack of the proper equipment.

As contributions continued to come in money was soon available to obtain a white stole to replace one of those he lost in the 1947 Madagascar rebellion. The rebellion resulted in all the church furnishings being pillaged and destroyed by heathen tribes.

There was still enough money to purchase a purple stole as well as communion linen for his travelling set. To round out the gifts presentation of a pair of angel candlesticks was made to the archdeacon by congregation member Mr. H. E. S. Hamilton. The candlesticks had been in Mr. Hamilton's possession for a number of years. Total donations amounted to $110.

The gifts were presented to the archdeacon in a special ceremony at which he expressed his sincere thanks. He said he would take back with him the gifts as well as "a very real appreciation of the Christian fellowship which you have shown me".

He expressed hope that contact between his church in Madagascar and the Richvale church would be maintained throughout the years. Officials of the Richvale church expressed their hope that "this association will grow and that Emmanuel will help the archdeacon's parish with material as well as spiritual aid."

Rev. K. A. Thatcher is minister at Emmanuel Anglican Church.
