Doncaster Complaint

Roads "Are A Disgraceful Mess"

An angry ratepayer appeared before Markham Township Council Tuesday night of last week and termed the muddy conditions of Proctor and Henderson Avenue in Doncaster as a "disgraceful mess."

Making this complaint as well as others was C. G. Russell of Proctor Avenue.

Mr. Russell chided council on being "a way too slow" in taking action to correct conditions on the road "where our school children are now plugging their way through mud to go to Henderson Avenue school."

He pointed out that the mud creates a danger to the lives of small children "especially if a truck or car should skid on it." He also recommended the speed limit on Proctor Street be lowered to 30 miles per hour. He described the street as "a speedway."

Reeve Wilfred Dean agreed something should be done to protect the children.

Concurring was Councillor Allan Sumner who said the road would soon be dug up and this prevented anything permanent from being done at the present time.

Council passed a motion authorizing a works crew to pour a gravel sidewalk along Proctor and Henderson Avenues to give the children something to walk on.

Mr. Russell was also unhappy about the delay in putting sewers along Proctor Street and predicted the township would not have them in till next spring.

Reeve Dean explained the township was waiting for final approval from the Ontario Municipal Board.

The ratepayer completed his lengthy agenda of complaints by tackling increases in water rates as well as the township's okaying of what he termed the erecting of a "shack for a taxi office at Steeles Avenue and Yonge Street."

Council assured him the shack was put up under a temporary permit. All agreed the shack "didn't look very good."

Oak Ridges Merchant Runs As Independent

Oak Ridges merchant William Fuller has entered the current provincial election battle as an independent. Mr. Fuller has announced he will run as an independent against the candidates of the three major political parties.

In a campaign statement issued this week, Mr. Fuller stated he is seeking the right to represent York North in Legislature because "there are too many lawyers in Parliament." He accused the legal profession "of having the answers before the questions." He believes that the issue of scandals and wrong doings in the Conservative Government should have been exposed long ago. Mr. Fuller said he is opposed to the present political parties because "nobody seems to have a platform."

Born on the family farm near Bolton, Mr. Fuller entered the retail trade at Oak Ridges after several years of farming. Married to the former Verna Riddell of King Township, the Fullers have four children. This election will mark Mr. Fuller's second try for public office. He was an unsuccessful candidate for King Township Council several years ago.

Richmond Hill Town Council Briefs

Mayor William Neal reported to council Monday night that a proper committee is being set up to handle industrial matters in the town and that a report should be available for next week. In the meantime, he said, enquiries from industrialists are being handled by the mayor, works commissioner and clerk.

Letters of appreciation will be sent to Dr. Gordon Martin for his service as town representative on the Richmond Hill Library Board since 1956; and to Mr. Wm. Babcock for the benefit derived by Richmond Hill children from his Richalda Day Camp. Councillor Alexander Campbell reported that more than 400 children from the camp at Kettleby this summer.

North York Humane Society was granted permission to hold their annual tag day in town on Saturday, September 14.

Approval of the sale of block 'A' registered plan No. 6351, under section 28 (9) of the Planning Act was received from the Department of Municipal Affairs, for the sum of not less than $4,500.

The lands were conveyed to the municipality by a subdivider in the Rumble Avenue area of town for park purposes. Small parcels of land have not proved practical for parks, and it has been the policy of council to dispose of them and set aside the proceeds to be used by the municipality for public purposes.

Council agreed to advertise the above land for sale by tender.

Markham Twp. Helps Cultivate Hay Fever??

Just like a number of other sufferers, Markham Township has come down with a bad case of hay-fever.

It all began when the township council was accused of cultivating hay-fever while Metro Toronto "spends millions of dollars trying to get rid of it."

Making the charge was ratepayer C. G. Russell of Proctor Avenue, Doncaster.

Since the charge the hay-fever-sneezing issue has given seed — if that's the word — to complaints from other annoyed ratepayers as well as a "don't blame us for it all" statement from the Canadian National Railway.

The latest instalment came at Monday's council meeting which saw Reeve Wilfred Dean reporting he attended a ratepayer's meeting over the weekend and found everyone "most upset" by the presence of weeds.

"Three ratepayers complained," he said, "that the township cut part but not all of the weeds. I didn't inspect the areas but where I live they cut part of it too — but not all of it."

Complaints from ratepayers ranged from being allergic to golden-rod or rag-weed or both.

Councillor Allan Sumner said the township should take a "long look at our weed-cutting program which is proving to be nothing but a joke."

He indicated the John Street area "where you can find the most beautiful hedge of ragweed you'd ever want to see. Other roads are just the same."

Deputy-reeve Charles Hooper said a lot of the blame for the weed-problem should be placed on the Ontario Government who won't "let us go on personal property without proper notification." By the time this is done, he said, the situation is usually too far advanced.

Mr. Hooper also pointed out some of the spraying process put on weeds in the township didn't prove as effective this year as in others. "It's been a peculiar year," he said.

Reeve Dean noted it was getting late in the year for spraying the well-developed plants. "You would have to spray a couple of times a year to control ragweed," he said.

The reeve added that on one
