

1964 BUICK

Buick for 1964 emphasizes the wider, lower look with distinctive grille treatment for each series. The Wildcat Sport Coupe shown here features a new broad, die-cast molding which extends from the wheel opening to the rear bumper. Ventiports are now stacked, three high, just ahead of the front door. Three new engines have been added to the Buick lineup for 1964 to include extra economy in one series and flasher performance in another. For 1964, Buick takes a giant step forward in the evolution of torque converter-type transmission with the Super Turbine "300", a two-speed unit and the Super Turbine "400" which is a three-speed unit designed to handle the greater power of the luxury series cars. On display tomorrow at Skyline Pontiac-Buick Ltd., Richmond Hill.

Emeralds' Fame On The Upbeat

Ever heard of the Emeralds? Chances are that if you are in the teen town age group most anywhere in Ontario you've not only heard of them but danced to their particular brand of music. For those who haven't yet heard of or heard the Emeralds don't despair, you're destined to become aware of them in the very near future.

The Emeralds are a musical group made up of five young men from Richmond Hill. For five years they have been playing school dance dates in this area and have played at a good many teen town dances in various Ontario centres. They are a rhythm and blues group and have entertained several times at the Loyal True Blue and Orange Home. At this moment their fame is rather local but they hope that their new recording will catapult them into a big career in the world of music.

Leader and vocalist of the quintet is Ron White with John Hayman playing lead guitar. Ross Sully is the talented saxophonist, Paul Wright is the pianist while Earl Newhall handles the "papa" or bass guitar. This new record, called "Make Believe" was composed and arranged by members of the group. They feel that it is a record with universal appeal and a really smooth, danceable number that can be appreciated by all age levels. The record will be heard on CKEY and on WKWB. If it should catch on with the disc jockeys and the public as they hope it will the Emeralds should be off and running toward the recognition they are seeking.

Hill Jr. Chamber Plans Radio Sale For November 29

Richmond Hill Junior Chamber of Commerce members are planning their fourth annual radio auction November 29.

The auction, which offers about 225 separate merchandise items to be bid for by telephone will be the Jaycees' major fund raising project this year and proceeds are returned to the community through the group's various promotions such as get out the vote in the civic elections, a safety traffic course and administration and leadership courses for Jaycees.

Bids will be received by a bank of telephones to be set up at St. Mary's Anglican Church and broadcast over the air.

Auction Chairman Allan Smythe said merchants' gifts are not really outright donations in that they received publicity before and during the auction for their stores.

More details and a list of bid items will be published closer to the auction date.

Mrs. N. Johnston, Mrs. F. Hornby, and Miss U. Christensen on Saturday started the guides six week training course being held in the Richmond Hill United Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Desmond Meed and family have moved to Detroit, where Desmond is assistant pastor at a church there.

Friends were sorry to hear that Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nichols and family were in a motor car accident in the States which demolished their car.

Frank and the children escaped with minor injuries, but Mrs. Nichols suffered head injuries which required hospitalization for three days but she is able to be home now.

Mrs. Walker and David, Miss Sharon Walker and Mr. Donnie Nichols attended a wedding at Sault St. Marie this past weekend.

A number of ladies from here attended the trousseau tea in honour of Miss Dolores DeLaBarre at Richmond Hill Saturday.
