March Of Dimes Feb. 3 Aids Disabled Persons

1964's March of Dimes will be held February 3 with hundreds of Marching Mothers visiting the thousands of homes in Richmond Hill to collect donations which will be used to aid the disabled to achieve as happy and nearly normal a life as possible.

In 1963 the Marching Mothers collected $3,400 in Richmond Hill and in 1962 $3,074. It is hoped that the response will be even more generous in 1964.

A new combination is unlocking the door of opportunity for disabled persons in Ontario more effectively than ever before. It has the makings of a stable dependable formula for rehabilitating the disabled.

It includes three essential factors: the public, the government and the March of Dimes, and its success depends on the right amount of public interest and voluntary support, the right amount of government help to supplement donor funds, and the precise evaluation of each patient's potential by skilled professional workers. Combined in proper proportion, these three factors can make rehabilitation a reality for disabled men and women.

The public, with its very substantial weight of opinion and support:

- brings needs of patients to the attention of the March of Dimes,
- brings the need for services and subsidy to the attention of the government,
- brings the abilities of the rehabilitated to the attention of employers,
- brings its own gifts of volunteer time to participate in local fund drives, rehabilitation planning councils, workshop committees, etc.

All this creates an enlightened and receptive climate in which new concepts in rehabilitation can grow.

The government through the Rehabilitation Services Division of the Provincial Department of Welfare, tries to restore earning capacity where possible and avoid deterioration to welfare dependency. For patients considered capable of returning to gainful employment this department provides:

- Casework services,
- Cost of treatment including braces, limbs etc.
- Vocational counselling and costs of training,
- At the federal level grants are provided for operation of rehabilitation centres, training of professional personnel, and a share of rehabilitation services costs.

The March of Dimes - born of the concern of one man for another in trouble, provides the essential personal, individual and continuing interest which enables the patient to avail himself of all the help he needs. Money raised in the March of Dimes provides:

- Caseworkers throughout the provinces;
- Medical evaluation clinics, treatment services, appliances, etc.;
- Specialized psychological assessment teams who travel to all parts of the province to pinpoint residual work or training potential of those who have been physically restored as far as possible;
- Work assessment shops in Toronto and Hamilton for more intensive assessment of the severely handicapped;
- Sheltered workshops in eight centres for work-conditioning and on the job training;
- Homebound employment for those who cannot work away from the home;
- A constantly up-dated file of resources available for any kind of rehabilitation need;
- The co-ordination of all voluntary and government services to provide the precise combination to open up a new and happier way of life for every disabled man and woman.
