A widow was trying to think of something appropriate for the gravestone of her late husband but could not come up with anything appropriate.

Finally, a friend suggested "Gone Home" as a suitable expression.

"Well, that would seem to fit," she replied. "Home certainly was the last place he would ever think of going."

Canadian Paintings On Display

Admiring one of the paintings by Canadian artists now on display at Richmond Hill Public Library is Mrs. Maureen Stephenson, a member of the staff. The display, first of several planned during 1964, features the work of Donald Jarvis and Roy Kiyooka, both of the Vancouver School of Art. Both men are abstractionists but their idioms are completely different. The exhibition will continue until February 2 during regular library hours.

Your Legion Reports

Branch 375, Royal Canadian Legion
By N. McDermott

Monday evening of this week was probably the most important members' meeting of the year. It was the annual meeting at which branch officers for 1964 were installed. Woodbridge Branch of the Canadian Legion assisted in the installation by providing the leadership of Bill Cox, with Stan Knapp as sergeant-at-arms. Their performance was of such calibre that it received a standing ovation deal of pleasure we tell you that Frank Barrott, our president, gained the recognition he so richly deserves, and was voted "member of the year".

From where we sit it does not look as if Frank is going to rest on his laurels... already his plans are far in the future... as far as April in fact, when Richmond Hill will host comrades from the far corners of Ontario at the District "E" spring zone meeting, but more of that next week.

One of the most important facets of a branch of the Legion is a group of workers whose function is probably not too well known. We refer to the ladies auxiliary.

The annual meeting was honoured by the presence of this group who installed their 1964 executive in our presence. District Zone "E" Commander Mabel Clark, and Wynne Blake, were the capable installers of officers.

President of the ladies auxiliary for 1964 is Gloria Sanford with Audrey Apperley as past president. Mrs. Kay Wood as first vice-president and Henrietta Denault as second vice-president provide two good right hands to assist the president in her duties. The executive committee is made up of Ida Ellis, Nancy Sutcliffe, Mari Finnarty, Marg Broom and Nellie Spence. Secretaries' chairs will be capably filled by Elsie Burnie and Inez Greenfield. Funds will be closely watched by treasurer Lucy Rickard and correct procedure and order upheld by Sergeant-at-Arms Audrey Tutton.

Several editions ago we reported that a member of our branch, a man who by his efforts made outstanding contribution to the advancement of the aims of our organization in this district, would be delegated "member of the year".

The 1964 annual meeting was on the night, and it is with a great

"A lot of frontages on highways are by their very nature destined to be commercial; if we can get the proper type of commercial development and still give residents in the area a fair break, this surely is what we want," he said.

Two readings have been given to the final reading until next Monday to give residents a chance to study the site plan agreement between the nursery operators and the township.

When read, notice of its passing will then be given to all residents within 300 feet of the proposed business, 14 days will be allowed for any formal objections and approval will then be sought from the Ontario Municipal Board.

Name Sam Cook Hydro Chairman

At the inaugural meeting of the town hydro-electric commission Mr. Sam Cook was re-elected chairman for 1964. A member since its inception in 1957, Mr. Cook has served as chairman since 1958. He was re-elected to a further two year term at the municipal elections in December. The other members of the commission are Commissioner William Wagner and Mayor Tom Broadhurst.

A major project of the commission in the new year is expected to be the construction of a new substation to serve the western part of town at an estimated cost of $50,000. This area is presently being served by the Yonge Street substation which is now operating at near capacity.

Convicted On 9 Theft Charges Sentenced Jan. 28

Gordon Kerr Howell of Agincourt was convicted of nine counts of break-in, entry and theft of about $3,200 worth of food and home improvement material at Richmond Hill Magistrate's Court Tuesday.

He pleaded guilty to charges laid by Markham Village and Township Police and Metropolitan Toronto Police between last June and mid-November.

Magistrate O. S. Hollinrake remanded Howell to January 28 for a pre-sentence report.

Among items stolen were $502 worth of food, cigarettes and a transistor radio from the Twin 7 Shell Station in Markham Village; 160 bags of cement, hammers and chisels from Eagle Cast Stone Company, Don Mills for $182; a cord of firewood valued at $25 from a Steeles Avenue home; $704 worth of electric sanders, a saw and drill from Thornlea Wood Products and $161 worth of plumbing parts, hinges, etc.

From the Ballantyne Enterprises Company, an irrigation pump was reported stolen at a value of $350; 125 bags of cement from the site of the McDonald High School building for $125 and later about $669 worth of plumbing supplies from the same site and after entering a vacant Superior Propane office on Passmore Avenue, fluorescent lights and aluminum storm and screen windows.

Markham Constable Clifford Cox said all materials had been recovered except for a few bags of cement. He said the accused was "co-operative, and a hard worker".

Howell told court he was building his own home piece by piece and had got far behind in many payments.

$499,000 after its winter works subsidy. Under the Canadian Mortgage and Housing Corporation, the township is eligible for a $266,700 loan and it can claim a 25% debt cancellation or $66,700, subsequently the net repayable loan to C.M.H.C. would be $200,000. Other debentured loans would be $232,000 and over 20 years, total annual charge would be $36,600.

Hearing Chairman William Greenwood said the board was satisfied there is a need for the sewer project and that the township was able to pay for it.

County Inaugural

Also present was Major "Lex" Mackenzie, York North MLA who extended his congratulations and Past Warden Williams Sellers who expressed the best wishes of Past Wardens Marshall McMurchie, Ralph Corner, Fred Armstrong, Jack Rye, Charles Hooper, William Hodgson, William Clark, Joseph Fry, Lorne Goodfellow and Gordon Harris, all present at the inaugural.

Richmond Hill Mayor Thomas Broadhurst representing the largest town in the county in his congratulations said the county council was in the unique position of being the focal point for all the municipalities.

At press time Wednesday afternoon, the first business session was underway with a striking committee called to appoint various members to the county boards and committees for 1964.

A planning study made for the county by Murray Jones Associates is expected to be discussed at this week's sessions.

population with a very high number of children per family. "This has placed an extraordinary strain on the educational system," the report explains.

"On the basis of a four year projected school budget, it is apparent the town in order to hold its present tax level will require some $13,800,000 of non-residential assessment during the period to meet increasing costs of education alone."

The report concludes stating the town would have to embark on a prudent program of development which would be in conflict with the dormitory status assigned in the proposed Metro Official Plan.

Members present appointed a committee of three to assemble the final draft of the report and submit it to council at its next meeting.

Comprising the committee were Planning Board Chairman Howard Whillans, Planning Director Harold Deeks, and Mayor Thomas Broadhurst.
