

Canine Control Officer Warns Children Not Handle Animals

Children should not handle wild animals at any time of the year, says Canine Control Officer James Ryan. Right now most small animals are putting on fat for the long winter and so are a little sluggish and slow moving, enabling children to catch them. Illness, especially rabies, also tends to slow up the animals.

Last week a vole, a hamster and a chipmunk, which had bitten children in this area were picked up by Mr. Ryan and placed in rabies isolation for observation.

In many cases of biting, the child drops the animal, which makes its escape. This can have serious consequences — and the difficult decision must be made whether or not the Pasteur treatment should be given. To be on the safe side, it is usually recommended.

"From personal experience, I can report this is not pleasant," Mr. Ryan states. "I wouldn't wish it on my worst enemy." He explained the treatment consists of 14 doses of serum given by needle in the stomach. "It is a painful process and can be dangerous if the person is allergic to the serum. However, it is much preferable to developing rabies which leads to intense suffering and inevitable death," he reported.

In view of this Mr. Ryan asks parents and teachers to impress on children that wild animals are to be admired from a distance and not handled. There is always the chance that an animal may be rabid and it is wise not to expose children to the disease, the canine control officer stresses.

The Late Gordon Mortson

BY MRS. W. SANDLE

The community of Victoria Square was saddened September 19, by the passing of one of its best known citizens, Mr. William John Gordon Mortson, who was in his 59th year. Gordon, as everyone knew him, was born and raised in the vicinity of Victoria Square, as were his parents and grandparents. Gordon started in business at the St. Lawrence Market, he graduated to local storekeeping and eventually became the owner-operator of a prosperous school-busline.

The lessons which Gordon and his brothers and sister learned on the farm where they were raised by a God-fearing father and mother, were passed on by him and his wife Eloise, (Perkins) to a family of three, who would be a credit to any parent, Wayne the eldest, a student at McMaster University, Hamilton, Bruce attending Bayview Secondary school and daughter Muriel, the youngest, a student at S.S. No. 4.

Gordon will long be remembered by his many friends for his long fight against ill health; for almost forty years Gordon has been under doctors' care to some degree, several times the call was close, and when this happened Gordon's determination to fight back became an inspiration to the whole neighborhood.

The esteem in which he was held was evident by the many floral tributes; by the hundreds

Flat Rate Arena Water

A flat rate of $500 per year for water consumption will be charged the arena association as the result of a recommendation of the finance committee implemented by Richmond Hill Council Monday evening.

The arena association has been considering the purchase of water reclamation equipment to cut operating expenses in the making of ice for the arena.

Council members felt that since their water demands came at the time of year when there is a surplus of water, the arena association could be saved, the large expenditure for this equipment by giving a flat rate for water consumption in the town-owned building.

Eskimo Crafts At Eric's Cycle

An interesting collection of Eskimo handicrafts is on display at Eric's Cycle and Sports, 25 Yonge St. S. They were sent to the proprietor, Eric Charity by his brother George.

Included are a scale model of a sealskin kayak, complete with an Eskimo hunter and his equipment. As well as a two-bladed ivory tipped paddle, he has two ivory tipped spears. As wood is a scarce item in the Arctic, the spears are made with detachable tips. The tip, with things attached, remains in the animal, while the wooden spear handle falls free, floats to the surface of the water and is recovered.

The hunter's equipment also includes a sealskin float and a spear-like knife. A wooden handle has an ivory tip, and inserted in the ivory is a minute metal blade. All the ivory is obtained from walrus tusks.

Also included in the display are a small doll dressed in Eskimo clothing, complete with tiny sealskin mukluks, a pair of mitts made from summer caribou skin and an attractive woven grass basket with ivory hinge and fastener.

The basket came from the Port Harrison area and the other items from the Hudson Bay district.

A bush pilot for Austin Airways of South Porcupine, George Charity makes frequent flights, often up into the Northwest Territories.

He learned to fly at Leavens Bros. on Dufferin Street and has been a bush pilot for 15 years. He has several minor crashes to his credit but had his first serious accident when he crashed a DC3 loaded with gasoline last February. He escaped with two broken legs and a partial scalping but was back in the air again by June.

But as he listened to a wild squealing of brakes on Yonge Street, Eric Charity wasn't sure that he was any safer on the ground than his brother is in the air.

School Children's Help Sought By Committee

School children can be a great help in making Richmond Hill a much more attractive place in which to live and work. Chairman Doug Hitchins of the Town Civic Improvement Committee told Richmond Hill Public School Board members last Thursday evening.

He outlined the history of the committee and its accomplishments to date.

While giving ideas of how the children could be interested he said his purpose in approaching the board was to start them thinking so that they may come up with their own ideas which could be carried out within the schools.

"Our committee can do nothing but give guidance and offer encouragement," he stated, "but the more groups we get interested in improving the appearance of our town, the better chance of success we will have. The future success of any such program will rest largely on today's children," he claimed, noting that the towns which have had marked success in such programs had received the support of school boards and school children.

First idea presented was a poster competition within the schools attacking the litter-bug problem.

Another suggestion was to give volunteer children the responsibility of looking after flower gardens in school grounds, parks and other public places. These would be given no particular protection but be subject to the same perils from carelessness and vandalism as any other gardens. From this the children would learn how hard it is to take this type of destruction.

Chairman Harold Sanderson maintained it was a question of civic pride, pride in our schools, in our homes and in our town. "If eventually a sufficient number of children can be personally involved, it could have a restraining effect on vandalism by other children," Mr. Hitchins noted.

Superintendent Gordon McIntyre was authorized to discuss these suggestions with the principals, with Chairman Sanderson remarking, "Our motto should be, 'Do It Now, Don't Wait For Spring'."
