Wed Presbyterian Church

In a lovely setting of white gladioli and mums in Richmond Hill Presbyterian Church, Sandra Rose May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. May, Richvale recently became the bride of John Kenneth Moorhead.

The groom, a member of the Richmond Hill police force, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Moorhead of 76 Weldrick Road, Richvale.

Rev. J. N. Hepburn performed the ceremony. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of embroidered white silk organza with long tapered sleeves and a scoop neckline. At the back, a butterfly bow fell from the waist. Her shoulder-length bouffant veil fell from a crown of seed pearls and she carried a cascade of white gladioli and stephanotis.

Attending the bride were a matron of honour, three bridesmaids and a flowergirl. The matron of honour, Mrs. Carol Dawson wore a knee-length dress of sunlit coral taffeta under nylon sheer. The bridesmaids, Miss Sherry May and Miss Linda Reid, cousins of the bride wore similar gowns in sea foam green, with matching hats and white accessories. They carried bouquets of gladioli in blended shades of coral.

The flowergirl, Miss Suzanne Thompson, also a cousin of the bride wore a dainty dress of white nylon.

Best man was William Dawson and ushers were William Rice and Robert King, friends of the groom.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at Summit View Gardens, Richmond Hill. The bride's mother received wearing a rosewood coloured Italian silk dress with white accessories and a corsage of pink and white rosebuds.

The groom's mother was in a blue silk dress and matching coat of Wedgewood blue with white accessories. Her corsage was of petal pink rosebuds.

For the honeymoon trip to northern Ontario, the bride wore a petal pink, lace trimmed knit suit and white accessories with a white gardenia corsage. On their return, the young couple took up residence in Richmond Hill.

Forest Pathology Lab Head Says Cure For Elm Disease Probable

In spite of recent reports to the contrary, there is as yet no cure for Dutch Elm disease, stated Dr. L. T. White, head of the federal government Forest Pathology Laboratory at Maple.

A cure is certainly possible, Dr. White emphasized, adding that so many new chemicals have been developed and were being tested all over North America that it would be surprising if they didn't come up with something worthwhile.

At the laboratory at Maple they have been experimenting with an injection chemical—an entirely different one than the "cure" reported at the recent meeting of the American Chemical Society in Chicago. Large scale field trials—on 1,000 trees in two different areas of Ontario, were begun with the new chemical this spring. The trees will be examined this fall and again next spring, when the lab will have something to say. At the moment, however, it is still too early to give any definite indications of the success of the treatment.

The Shade Tree Research Laboratory of the University of Toronto is doing some research on the subject too, advised Dr. White, but here the approach has been an attempt to inject the trees with a chemical which will destroy the beetle which spreads the disease before it has a chance to do any damage. The beetle feeds on the extreme tips of the branches and spreads the fungus which kills the tree.

A good municipal control program could cut Dutch Elm losses to 1% stated Dr. White, but this would cost money. Such a program would involve wholesale spraying and sanitation, that is, destroying of all dead or diseased trees.

For the individual owner, saving his trees, even when surrounded by diseased trees is possible but expensive. It would be necessary to hire a professional firm to spray the trees with a mist blower early in the spring. The spray must reach the very tips of the branches, where the beetle feeds. Such treatment is often beyond the means of individual owners.

The Richmond Hill Tree Services and Forestry Co. Ltd. also emphasized that reports of a cure for the disease were unconfirmed.

Mrs. Harold Van Dyke advised that they use a spray control and sanitation program, which has to date proven most effective.

They have many calls and enquiries about this work, which can be done only by someone with a licence to spray the necessary pesticide concentrate, and the proper equipment. Richmond Hill Tree Services carry out such work on various properties throughout the area.

Only government legislation requiring the removal of dead or diseased trees, the breeding ground for the disease, could have brought it under control, stated Mrs. Van Dyke, although the severe ice storm of a few winters ago had damaged many trees and left them more vulnerable to attack. Mrs. Van Dyke emphasized that their firm were members of the Ontario Shade Tree Council and as such, were in a position to hear about any new developments. In the meantime, she felt that owners should be starting on a replacement program, planting other trees to eventually replace their elms.

Own Plumbing Inspection System Suggested For Markham Township

Markham Township Council found itself at an impasse at Monday night's meeting due to the absence of Reeve Charles Hooper and Councillor Charles Hooper.

The clerk advised them that they would all have to agree in order to pass a motion as the chairman could not second a motion.

Council was discussing a letter from the Unionville village trustees requesting the appointment of two more volunteer firemen. Councillor Robert Sloane felt that the question should be considered by the whole council and moved to have it deferred. Councillor Cleary Palmer registered strong objections and thought it was important to have the matter settled immediately.

Mr. Sloane remained adamant however, and Mr. Rumble who had no alternative but to defer the matter to the next committee meeting, indicated that a report of September 23 council had considered the request of TSA No. 1 concerning the acquisition of land adjacent to the Woodland School site and the legal status of Lillian Street north from Clark Ave. to the school property.

It was recommended that council take no action in the matter as their advice was that "Lillian Street" north of Clark Avenue is not road allowance but part of privately owned land and that the acquisition of the land was a school board problem.

Following receipt of Metro Traffic Department's report on the Don Mills (Woodbine) and Steeles Avenue intersection, it was recommended that next year's council be asked to apply to Metro for traffic lights and that Markham Township offer to pay 25% of the cost, with Metro to maintain them.

The engineer also requested consideration of the township establishing its own plumbing inspection system. Under the Ontario Water Resources Commission Act this is the responsibility of the Department of Health, for Markham, York County Health Unit.

The matter is to be discussed with the township's solicitor with a view to making application to the province to permit the change.

A letter was read to council from the Metropolitan Toronto Planning Board, asking that council delay making an appointment with the OMB for approval of bylaw 2060 until they have had time to consider it at their next meeting, October 24.

The bylaw designates approximately 1200 acres of land on both sides of Don Mills Road between the CNR bypass and Highway 7 as an industrial area, permitting outside storage. Metro fears that such a large industrial area would not con-

Rape Charge Vs. Willowdale Man

A Willowdale man was charged with rape and indecent assault by Vaughan Police over the weekend.

According to Chief James Davidson, Raymond Tustin, 373 Drewry Avenue, Willowdale was charged September 25 following the report of a 20-year-old woman.

The offence allegedly took place in a car along Dufferin Street.

Bail for Tustin was set at $5,000 but in Richmond Hill Court Tuesday, Magistrate O. S. Hollinrake reduced it to $3,000 cash or property sureties.

Tustin's legal counsel W. E. MacDonald of New Toronto said the accused was self-employed as a contract dump truck operator and might lose his truck and be unable to support his family if he sat too long in jail unable to raise the $5,000 bail.

Magistrate Hollinrake said he didn't plan to stand in the way of an early preliminary hearing date and if proper sureties could be obtained, bail of $3,000 would be acceptable.

Tustin, 28, is married with three children but separated from his wife.

MARKHAM: Supervision Principal Lloyd Abernethy announced last week that 1,210 children are registered in Markham public schools this fall. This includes 150 kindergarten pupils, but registration was not complete in this category.

Mothers' Allowance Change Will Allow Fed. Student Benefit

The Ontario Government has amended Mothers' Allowance Act regulations so that families receiving mothers' allowance payments each month may also benefit from the new $10-a-month federal youth allowance.

The federal program, inaugurated this month, pays mothers $10 a month for each child aged 16 or 17 who is still in school.

The mothers' allowance is designed primarily to aid widows with children or mothers deserted by their husbands. The allowances are calculated individually, related to the family's income and its needs. The changes to the regulations will mean that the youth allowances will not be taken into consideration in computing a family's income.
