Dean Speaks At Bayview Commencement

Dean H. Ian Macdonald, B.Com., M.A., B. Phil., Rhodes Scholar, Dean of Men, University of Toronto, was guest speaker at the fourth annual commencement exercises at Bayview Secondary School Friday evening.

He told of asking the same question of a Canadian student and one from Africa. The Canadian said the most pressing problem of a student in his country was finding a place to park his car, while the African said his country's student's most pressing problem was getting enough to eat.

The ends which our education should help us achieve, he said, were to be able to distinguish between constructive criticism and cynicism, between self interest and social concern and between principle and prejudice. To achieve this he stressed the necessity for constant emphasis on the learning process and cultivation of the mind.

VICE-CHAIRMAN

Vice-chairman J. D. Honsberger of the York Central High School Board spoke of the school, which has a thousand and daytime students and almost 900 in night school, as the nucleus of a rich and rewarding neighborhood life in culture, recreation and entertainment fields. He described it as a composite school where the concept of equality of education is stressed. Each pupil has available a stream of study most suitable to his or her abilities and interests, he reported.

SUPERINTENDENT

Superintendent S. G. Chapman reported the excellent school is serving well the whole spectrum of pupils which come to it. "The staff at Bayview have a vision of education," he said, "and year by year are moving closer to accomplish it." The main thing to learn in secondary school, he pointed out, is how to learn, and he claimed that by any standards for a modern school Bayview has to be rated as one of the most excellent.

The school's band played for the impressive procession and recessional of graduates, staff and guests. They also presented two selections, "Prelude on an Odd Rhythm," which was written in the unusual rhythm of five beats to the bar and "The Dancing Cat".

VALEDICTORIAN

Roxanne Louw, now a student at Victoria College, University of Toronto, was valedictorian. A "Super 80" student throughout her high school years, Roxanne just missed the award in her graduating year by five marks. Principal J. W. Kippen told the large audience of parents and friends of the graduates. However Roxanne was presented with the York Central District High School Board Award for General Proficiency, the H. L. Eubank Award for highest standing in grade 13 (a plaque which hangs in the school foyer and a replica for the winner); and an honor bar signifying a standing of 75% or better.

AWARD WINNERS

Carol Powell received the Walter Scott Home and School Award for the highest grade 13 standing by a graduate of that school. This is the first time this award has been made at Bayview and Mrs. J. A. Price explained that, although the home and school is inactive at present, the fund for this scholarship is in a healthy condition. Carol is attending the University of Toronto School of Nursing.

The Mathematical Association of America and Society of Actuaries Award was presented to David Lay who had the highest standing for the school in the mathematical contest held in March for two consecutive years. Bayview has competed in this contest for four years. David is presently attending Royal Military College.

Mrs. Aileen Stoneman won the Students' Council Award for General Proficiency and Barbara Lowens who has been a "Super 80" student during the past four years and this year is carrying a heavy language program in grade 13.

Barbara also won the Asmus Award for the highest honor or standing in grade 12. This is a trophy for the school with a smaller replica for the winner donated by the original contractor for Bayview Secondary.

Barbara also shared in the Richmond Hill Lions Club Awards with Wayne Everett for the highest standing in physics, algebra and history in grade 11 plus the complete grade 12 program.

The Kinette Club Scholarship for a girl completing grade 12 or 13 and entering nursing training was presented to Sylvia Inglis who is now at Women's College Hospital School of Nursing. During her four years at Bayview Sylvia was prominent in athletics, particularly gymnastics and track and field events.

Other secondary school graduates who were successful in at least eight grade 13 papers including English literature and composition, were Joan Brown, Murray Day, Gary Draper, Marjorie Emms, Ingrid Haessler, Sheila Henderson, Robert Hoernigk, Christopher Hordal, Robert Loudon, Edward MacDonald, Paddy Maitland, Wayne Mortson, Patricia Price, Robert Promaine, Ralph Reiman, Dennis Richardson, Gregory Turner, Jeannette Waegemaker and Virginia Wilson.

Virginia Wilson is now living in Vancouver, Mr. Kippen reported in explaining why the Miss Annie Eubank Memorial Award was not presented. In August the school received a letter from Virginia stating that she would be entering the University of British Columbia faculty of education and so was eligible for this award which goes to a student preparing for a teaching career. A more recent communication informed the school that she had changed her course and was no longer eligible.

Mr. Kippen noted that of these 25 graduates 23 have gone on to further their education at universities, teachers' colleges and Ryerson.

PRINCIPAL

In his opening remarks, the principal noted that on Monday morning digging would begin for another addition to Bayview School. He said the goal of the school was to encourage the students to seek the best of which they are capable. The staff, he claimed is endeavoring to impart the knowledge of techniques of arriving at the right answers rather than the answers themselves.

BOARD AWARDS

York Central District High School Board Awards for General Proficiency, which are specially bound books plus cash, were presented to Ingrid Zipp for grade 9. Ingrid was born in the West Indies but has spent all her school years in Canada. Grade 10: Joanne Nugent, a graduate of Walter Scott Public School who last year won the student council award for grade 9. Grade 11: Stuart Barnes, who was born in England and has been a "Super 80" scholar at Bayview for the past two years. Grade

Impaired Charge Brings $225 Fine

An Oak Ridges man was fined $225 for driving while he was impaired and given the alternative of a 14-day jail term if he didn't pay his fine. William Henry Burns, 24, appeared Tuesday for sentence before Magistrate O. S. Hollinrake in Richmond Hill Court. He was also prohibited from driving anywhere in Canada for the next six months. He was represented by Lewis Silver, a Toronto lawyer.

SCHOOL LETTERS

School letters which require 50 points in each of academic, athletic and executive excellence were won by Ellen Derry, Beverley Everard, Ann Firman, Sylvia Inglis, Barbara Lowens and Carol Shelton. Five of these six girls also have their academic letters.

ACADEMIC LETTERS

Academic letters bearing the lamp of learning were presented to Ellen Derry, Wayne Everett, Sylvia Inglis, Valdi Inkens, Jim Reid, Pat Shelton, David M. Smith, Roger Sturt, Stuart Barnes, Marilyn Doner and Patricia Oxley. These students earned their letters by gathering 100 or more academic points

N. Thornhill Residents Object To Road Program

A delegation of Westwood Lane and area residents last Monday night effectively blocked a Vaughan Council suggestion to spend $210,000 on redevelopment of a road apparently wanted left alone.

In its 1965 roads program, Vaughan had noted the amount could be spent on developing Westwood Lane in the north Thornhill area from Marvale Crescent to Bathurst Street to aid people travelling from the subdivisions to Toronto.

One ratepayer felt it was a "waste of money". Vaughan had asked residents what they thought of the proposal and said they hesitated to approve it without some concrete discussion with those concerned. Councillor Ruth McConkey based on the opinions Monday night recommended the $210,000 plan be deferred and referred back to the road committee to be spent elsewhere.

In its road plan, Vaughan will consider working on Jane Street from Lot 6 to Lot 20 ($366,000); Sixth Concession from Lot 1 to Lot 5 ($150,000); Langstaff Sideroad from Keele to Bathurst Street ($230,000); White Schoolhouse Sideroad from Highway 27 to Eighth Concession ($180,000) and Mill Street from Bathurst Street to Richmond Hill's westerly limits ($50,000) for a total of $976,000 in "accelerated" roads program.

Under the Municipal Works Assistance Fund, Vaughan will consider this "accelerated" program on its roads next year, using funds available at special interest rates. The above qualify under that program.

In the normal course of events, Vaughan would be paving Jane Street from Lot 1 to Lot 5 ($24,200); Elder Mills Sideroad from Highway 27 to County Road 7 ($67,500); Boves Bridge ($80,000) and the Westwood Lane project. Maintenance for 1965 is expected to cost $200,000 bringing the year's roadwork total to $1,557,700.

'Role Of The Volunteer' Topic York Central Auxiliary Meet

The role of the volunteer is the topic on which Mrs. J. R. Rhin will speak when she addresses the general meeting of York Central Hospital Volunteer Women's Auxiliary in the hospital cafeteria, November 12 at 8 p.m. Mrs. Rhin is past president of the W.A. for St. Children's Hospital, Toronto.

This is an open meeting and members and friends will have an opportunity to hear about the work of the auxiliary and to enjoy a social fellowship at the close of the meeting. Mrs. Rhin's message will be of special interest to volunteers now working and to potential volunteers. The meeting will hold interest also for those active volunteer workers outside the hospital who bake and sew and plan money-making projects and carry them through, for there will be a report from the project convenor as well as short reports from director of volunteers, treasurer, public relations, finance and membership secretaries.

Town Council Considers Tenders Buys Snowplow And Winter's Salt

Frink of Canada's tender of $3,276.69 including tax for a snowplow, tower and wing was accepted by Richmond Hill Council Monday evening. Although this was the highest of three tenders received, Works Commissioner Otto Whalen reported the other two did not conform with the required specifications. It was his recommendation that the Frink tender be accepted.

Tenders for a pick-up truck, opened Monday night, were referred to the works commissioner for evaluation and a report. Little Ford's tender was for $2,082.56, Skyline-Pontiac's $2,214.50, William Neal's, $2,256.36.

Tenders on construction of the Yonge Street storm sewer on a tender form prepared by Proctor & Redfern were also opened and referred to the works commissioner and engineer for evaluation and report to the next council meeting.

The four tenders ranged from a low bid of $69,544 by Yearley & Reed to a high of $101,977.60 by Alican Cowley Construction Co. Renett's bid was $68,610.10 and Marino $88,522.80.

Mr. Whalen reported the estimates had been $66,000. The works commissioner also reported he had advertised locally and in the Daily Commercial News for tenders for salt needed to blend with sand for the coming winter. Closing date was October 26, but no sealed tenders had been received, he said. He presented three invitations quotes from Canada Salt, Sifto Salt, and Gormley Sand and Gravel, and recommended the latter be accepted. Council agreed. This was the lowest quotation and will mean a total saving of .30c on the town's requirements for road sanding.

Full-Grown Dog Found In Sewer

Mickey, a year-old full-grown German Shepherd dog will probably not stray too far from his Brown-dale Crescent, Beverly Acres home in the future. Sunday he was rescued from the storm sewer on Centre Street East after standing for some time in neck deep water.

A group of children heard his cries coming from a manhole on Centre Street just east of Newkirk Road and called Richmond Hill Police. The police removed the cover and discovered Mickey in his predicament. They phoned Canine Control Officer James Ryan who was successful in bringing the dog up from his watery trap shortly after noon.

Mickey seemed none the worse for his ducking and was returned to his owners Mr. and Mrs. W. Wogtka at 352 Broadway Crescent.

How he happened to be in the sewer at that particular point is not known. It is not conceivable that he removed the manhole cover, jumped in and replaced the cover, Mr. Ryan states, surmising that Mickey had got into the sewer at a distant point, probably at its outlet and made his way through neck deep water to that point.
