Thornhill Family Enjoys 4 Month European Jaunt

BY JO CRUISE

Mr. and Mrs. R. Mattucci and seven year old Philip, of Arnold Avenue returned recently from four months abroad. Highlight of the trip was a stay with Mr. Mattucci's parents at Rocco Giovanni, not far from Naples. Philip was fascinated with farm life and was particularly interested in a calf born during the early part of their visit. By the time they left for home, it was a good sized animal and Philip was saddened to learn that it would be ready for the market by Christmas. Farming in Italy is quite different from farming in Canada, reports Mrs. Mattucci. Donkeys are a familiar sight with baskets strapped on their backs, transporting goods to market. The cow is primarily used for working, hitched either to a wagon or a plow. Although also milked, milk is not a popular beverage in Italy and is used mainly for cooking. Babies are weaned onto a weak camomile tea, mixed with sugar. In time, the children graduate to espresso coffee, strengthened as they mature. Coffee is served black and very strong to adults. Mrs. Mattucci was also interested to watch her father-in-law weave a basket from twigs. After the knots were first carefully trimmed off, a beautifully made basket emerged from a pile of twigs taken from trees prevalent in the area. The basket was immediately put to use as a fruit basket. Everybody weaves such baskets, Mrs. Mattucci noted, and they are used for many practical purposes. She reported also that in that particular area, grapes are the main source of farm income. Farmers in the district have recently become co-owners of an electronically controlled canteen, a machine which eliminates much of the handwork which formerly went into the making of wine. Stems and seeds shoot out of one end while the pressing machine goes into action. The canteen resembles a gas station. Mrs. Mattucci stated, and long tubes pour the finished product into enormous tanks. Farmers take their grapes which are not fit for market or the table to the canteen. After their sugar content is tested they are weighed and the amount is credited to the shareholder. At the end of the season, the farmer can take his profit either in cash or in wine. Usually he splits it half and half to avoid the work of making his wine at home. After their taste of farm life, the Mattuccis toured northern Italy, visited Rome, and travelled through Switzerland and Germany in their own car which had been shipped over to them. In Switzerland, however, they found the car too large by European standards and had difficulty making it up some of the sharply curving roads. It took them two hours to travel to the top of St. Bernado mountain. They were amazed to see people skiing on one side of the mountain in the month of August. They visited a lovely shrine at the top and found the drop in temperature very sudden. To avoid the treacherous drive down, they took the aerial car. This somewhat resembles piggy-back trucks on tracks and accommodates between thirty and forty cars. The passengers remain in their cars with lights out and windows rolled up and make the 20 minute descent through a long, black tunnel. The Mattuccis found Switzerland a delightful place and enjoyed the lovely flowers and impressive mountains. In Germany, they visited the Volkswagen factory at Wolfsburg. Most of the residents work in the plant which covers 265 acres. In Venice, they found shopping by gondola a new and interesting experience. They visited St. Mark's Church and St. Mark's Square where the swallows were so tame they sat on the hands of the visitors and ate anything they were offered. In the beautiful old city of Rome they visited the Vatican, St. Peter's Basilica and the museum and were particularly impressed with the paintings and works of Michelangelo. The Mattuccis also visited Milan, Trieste, Bologna and many other centres during the course of their long-to-be-remembered trip.

Baptist Women Day Of Prayer

One link in the chain of prayer around the world was forged in Thornhill Baptist Church November 2 when Baptist women from the four churches in the area met for their annual prayer service.

Mrs. W. McGowan Thornhill, led the opening worship and Mrs. W. Sturges, Spring Garden, Mrs. F. Bennett, St. John's, Richmond Hill and Mrs. R. McWhirter of Yorkview Heights all shared in the scripture reading and prayers.

Mrs. H. Slinn sang "Lord, Bow Down Thine Ear" accompanied by Mrs. M. C. Johnston.

The guest speaker was Mrs. Bertram King, formerly of the Southern Baptist Convention but now a resident of Canada. Her message was "Giving the Best." "Did we care enough?" she asked. To pray and witness and help share the bread and water of life did not require great skill or intellect. If we have the same mind and love that was in Christ Jesus it is enough to enable us to share with all the world.

The time of fellowship was continued in the church hall where the ladies enjoyed a cup of tea together after the meeting.
