Concord News

Look Back
 Christmas 1964 belongs to our memories now — and the same can be said for the whole year.

For Concord residents, the widening of Highway 7 and the opening of the CNR marshalling yards were probably the events which affected most people, directly or indirectly.

Our school said farewell last June to two teachers and a principal and in September welcomed those who came to take their places.

Friends young and old saw this year as their last, among them Jim Hallawell, Albert Lapping, Billy Agnew, and others whom I can't recall at the moment but who will be remembered by their kin.

At the beginning of the ledger, many babies first saw the light of day in '64, bringing with them the love and good things that babies everywhere bring.

School careers were begun or ended in '64, men grew tired of their jobs and sought new ones, wives went to work (outside the home that is), people entered hospital for their first or fortieth time and were made well again.

In short, 1964 was a year like all others with its joys and sorrows leaving impressions on our hearts so that we end the year somewhat different people from those we were on January 1, 1964.

Barney No More
 After all this melancholy, it hardly seems fair to subject you to more but here goes. About a month ago, we mentioned having a new puppy, Barney Beagle. Well, three days before Christmas Barney decided he would like to chew the cord of the Christmas tree lights. He did, and he shouldn't have for it was his last chew.

With a grandmother-in-law and a mother-in-law for an audience, this correspondent shed enough tears to launch a fleet of battleships. Through the kindness of my mother-in-law, we have Barney's sister now, and that is that.

Birthdays
 Several weeks ago I began — compiling a card file of birthdays, something which should have been done years ago.

With Christmas rush and all, my temporary list has been "misfiled" so I'll have to rely on my memory.

A happy birthday to J. W. Keffer, December 27, Iris Taylor and Wesley Boron, December 28; Brian McLean, January 2; Jacqueline Barrett, January 3; and Ian McLean, January 5.

Vaughan school children have a delightful Christmas tradition when they sing carols early in the mornings at the Maple municipal offices. Among the carollers were from left, Susan Kearnes, Sandra Oliver, Janie Cudia and Catherine Wilson. Susan and Catherine are from Langstaff School and Janie and Sandra from Joseph A. Gibson School.

Vaughan Carollers

For the third time, children of Vaughan Township schools provided morning carol services at the municipal offices in Maple during the Christmas season.

This year, children from grade 7 at the Joseph A. Gibson School in Maple sang between 8:30 and 9 a.m. on December 17 and 18 and on December 21 and 22, the same youngsters sang again, together with a triple trio from Langstaff Public School. Members of the triple trio were Julie Turnpenny,

Mary Rae Corkill, Valerie Lipp, Susan Kearnes, Pat Maston, Cathy Wilson, Penny Wilson, Heather Forster and Cathy Twiss.

The choirs were led by Hugh Martin, music supervisor for Vaughan Township schools and were accompanied at the piano by Robert Richardson, Mr. Martin's assistant.

At the final service on December 21, Miss Marion Martin sang two solos, "Merry Christmas" and "Christmas in Killarney". She was accompanied at the piano by her sister, Mrs.

Robert Richardson vice. Mrs. Ruth McConkey assisted Mr. Rutherford in presenting two beautifully decorated cakes, one to students of the Joseph A. Gibson School and the other to Langstaff students.

Audience at the carol service consisted of the township staff and a sprinkling of people from the town. The children made their own way to the municipal offices at 8:30 and were bussed back to their schools for 9 o'clock.

At the final service on December 21, Miss Marion Martin sang two solos, "Merry Christmas" and "Christmas in Killarney". She was accompanied at the piano by her sister, Mrs.
