Flashback

The fears of the members of VOW are rational because they are interested in self-preservation for themselves, for their children and for the world. Is it not better to cry out against war actively than to be resigned to a dumb impotent silence which accepts the fatalistic "Whatever will be, will be?"

The women of Richmond Hill's VOW plan to educate themselves on the subjects that relate to the problems of international tension and war. And with this knowledge backed up by facts and cold hard logic intend to take on the task of reminding others of the need to face a very real danger in a realistic manner. And so this is the attitude of concerned women who met at the home of Mrs. John Bryan, Richmond Hill, another cell in the body of VOW. If further information is needed, phone Mrs. Lou Donnelly, 884-5464.

My Perfect Friend

I have in my mind an ideal of a friend. Everyone would like to have a friend like this. I have been looking for him all my life. I see a little of him in everyone but that is as close as I can get. Someday, I hope to meet him, and he'll be just like I say he is.

This friend of mine likes and respects himself. How I know is that he's a plain living and high thinking kind of fellow. He is interested in his own growth and progress. And because he is interested in his own life, he is sympathetic with mine and that of the world. He is a good friend to have in time of trouble for he is a veritable rock in a world of constantly shifting values.

He believes that if he expects the best in people he will get it most of the time. When he doesn't get it, he strives to lift them up, not cast them out. He encourages them and sets them an example. He doesn't make fun of the dramas and aims of other people because he values his own and knows how much they mean to him. For everyone who makes a contribution to his life he reacts with appreciation and gratitude. He knows when to talk and when to keep his mouth shut because he knows how much damage an ill-chosen word can do to another. He shuts his eyes to the faults of others and opens them to his own. He never bothers reforming or reprimanding. He is only interested in seeing people happy.

This friend of mine is himself first and last, and doesn't put on airs. He is no status seeker in the modern understanding of the phrase. The person who sees a smile on his face today will see it tomorrow. He's a very tolerant man with a forgiving nature. He knows that all men stumble now and then and he never makes a mistake never accomplishes anything. You'll find him with all people who are working for great principles, great purposes and great causes.

He's also the kind of a guy who goes more than half-way with his fellow man. He speaks first and does not wait to be greeted. He radiates the spirit of overflowing good will. And above all, he knows that he doesn't know all the answers but tries his best to add to his knowledge of how to live the friendly way.

Winter Song

Winter . . . Winter,
Exult in your purity,
Child of God's artistry,
Weep your white tears!
Winter, your form appears
A chaste young maiden,
Whose garments are laden
With snow from the spheres.
Winter . . . Winter,
Exult in your beauty
And your God-given duty,
Weep your white tears!

Correction: The January 23 column on welfare included a statement that a single person may get an allowance of $167 per month and an extra allowance up to $118 per month for special diets. These figures should have been $67 and $18 respectively.

100 MPH Car Chase Through Two Townships Brings Jail Sentence

A Brampton youth, who led police a 100 mph chase through two townships before being apprehended, was sentenced to 60 days in jail last week in magistrate's court when he was convicted of dangerous driving. Magistrate O. S. Hollinrake also suspended Kenneth MacArthur, 19, from driving for two years.

Constable A. Thompson, York County Service Police, testified that he chased the accused for nearly 15 miles from Woodbridge starting at about 3:45 a.m., and was unable to pass him or draw abreast of him because of his erratic driving.

He said MacArthur drove from one side of the road to the other, occupying all four lanes at various times at Bathurst Street and No 7 Highway, even avoiding a roadblock that had been set up for him at Yonge Street.

MacArthur was finally stopped at Don Mills Road and Markham Sideroad by Constable James Nugent of Markham Township Police.

Constable Nugent said he had chased MacArthur at speeds up to 100 mph from Maple Sideroad, where the latter had come through an intersection with his car lights on.

There were two passengers in the car with him, as well as an open case of beer.

Two other charges of driving while under suspension, and drinking liquor under age, were withdrawn.

"A car is a pleasure and a necessity, but is not to be used in a manner such as this, nor should police officers be endangered like this," said Magistrate Hollinrake in passing sentence.

A similar charge against a North York resident was withdrawn by the crown after he was convicted of falling to leave half the road free when meeting an oncoming car.

Fined $40, plus $29.50 costs was Joe Sucknick, 14 Gulliver Road, who drove his vehicle into another car while passing a vehicle on Maple Sideroad, about one half mile east of Maple.

The occurrence took place, January 8.

Christmas Tree Proves Costly For Torontonians

A Toronto man, who appeared in magistrate's court last week, will probably get his Christmas tree from the corner lot when that time rolls around next year.

The high cost of some such trees was driven home to Llewellyn Gadd, of 117 Green-tree Court, who was convicted of creating willful damage for cutting down an eight-foot spruce in the Toronto Conservation Authority property in Vaughan Township, December 19.

Gadd was observed by Constable Thomas Wood, of Vaughan, coming out of the wooded area dragging his prize behind him.

The accused said he hadn't realized there were laws against helping yourself to the trees. In Nova Scotia, where he came from, the firs were both plentiful and free for the taking.

The Ontario taking price, however, as assessed by Magistrate O. S. Hollinrake, was $87.50, which included a $50 reimbursement to the authority, a fine of $25, and $12.50 court costs.

Your Baby's First Year, No. 6
Let your baby sleep as long as he wants to. He will sleep a big part of each day at first. As he grows older, he sleeps less. Let him judge how much. Settle him for sleep in the same place and at about the same time each day and night. You may want to plan his day so he will be awake some after his father gets home. In that way, they can get to know each other better.
